GOP's Chairman Endorses Nixon

Hall Sees Same Ticket As In '52

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall threw his weight solidly behind Vice President Nixon today for another term.

It was an important political boost for Nixon, whom some Republicans would like to see dropped from the ticket, and perhaps put away in a Cabinet post.

Hall held a news conference in the Young Republican wing of the National GOP headquarters. He planted himself in front of a huge photograph of President Eisenhower and Nixon, and declaimed: "It is the greatest team in the country."

Hall Good Prophet

A reporter told Hall he had been a good prophet in saying Eisenhower would run again, and asked him how he felt about another Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

"I said sometime ago that I assumed the ticket would be the same as in 1952," Hall replied. "I will not change that one bit."

In theory, a party chairman doesn't come out for any one candidate before the national convention, but Hall sounded as though that wouldn't be his practice in the case of Nixon any more than it was in the case of Eisenhower.

While Hall has said before he expected an Eisenhower - Nixon slate, the timing and vigor of his declaration today amounted to a new force.

Involved Report

Reports persisted nevertheless that some persons close to Eisenhower would like for him to choose another running mate. Their thinking was said to be that the aggressive Nixon, perhaps the most combative campaigner in 1952, might lose some independent votes whereas some other man might not.

One report got pretty involved. It would have Atty. Gen. Brownell taking the next Supreme Court vacancy, Nixon becoming attorney general, and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey stepping in as the vice presidential candidate.

Israeli Foreign Minister Blasts Dulles Statement

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, March 1 (AP) — Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett today denounced U. S. Secretary of State Dulles' statement of Middle East policy before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week.

He said Dulles' policy would withhold from Israel the means of security the United States adopted for itself—the building up of massive armed strength.

"If the statement were to be taken as a final crystallization of U. S. policy," Sharett told the Israeli Parliament at the end of a foreign relations debate, "the stark fact is that, for all practical purposes, it is tantamount to abandoning Israel to its fate.

"There is no doubting Mr. Dulles' sincerity in proclaiming that the preservation of Israel is an integral part of U. S. policy. But the practical outcome of his approach defeats that purpose."

No Answer To Arms Bid

The foreign minister said Israel is entitled to a clear answer on its request for U. S. arms in the shortest time possible and has made clear to the U. S. government that "the absence of a decision is also a decision."

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban presented the request for armaments in December. No answer has been given, although Eban has been calling for one at the U. S. State Department two or three times a week.

Sharett declared Dulles presented a fallacious analysis in citing the 1-20 population ratio between Israel and the Arab countries, saying it ignored "three basic truths."

Arms Capacity Greater

He said Israel has a greater capacity to absorb arms, it does not need the same quantity of arms as the Arab countries to repel aggression but only the same quality and a minimum quantity, and that it has the capacity to absorb the "indispensible minimum."

"The inference from Mr. Dulles speech," he said, "seems to be that, because Israel cannot be given the maximum, it should not be given even the minimum. Instead, we are invited to rely on the United Nations and the tripartite declaration — of the United States, Britain and France guaranteeing Israel's borders. This again has not been the course followed by the United States or proposed by it to its Allies in building up their defenses."

Humphrey Offers 3-Point Program

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) today handed the Senate a three-point program:

1. Vote Democrats into office.
2. Restore rigid price supports.
3. Fire Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Humphrey said a Minnesota farm woman sent him the proposal as an answer to President Eisenhower's nine - point program, submitted Jan. 9.

Shivers Won't Run For Any Public Office

AUSTIN, Tex., March 1 (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers, advocate of states' rights and an "Eisenhower Democrat," tonight said he will not be a candidate for any public office this year.

The announcement apparently snuffed out the possibility of a fourth-term bid which he had said last week he was "seriously considering."

Shivers said he wants to be free to concentrate his energies in the fight to protect local control and local self-government from federal interference.

Demos Renew Air Time Plea

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — Turned down on their first request, the Democrats fired fresh arguments at the radio and TV networks today that they should have free equal time to reply to President Eisenhower's speech of last night.

Party Chairman Paul Butler telegraphed heads of the networks saying "in the name of fair play, I call upon you again to reconsider your hasty decision" against granting the free time.

He suggested that if he didn't get it, Congress—which the Democrats control—might want to change a few laws. He said:

"If the networks persist in the position that the Democratic party can expect fair treatment only when there is a law to compel fair treatment, I feel confident that the Congress will want to explore this problem fully and take whatever steps the Congress deems necessary to assure fair treatment to both major political parties."

The Democratic chairman argued that Eisenhower's speech was political. This appeared to be a reply to the stand by Robert W. Sarnoff, president of NBC, that the address was carried "as a news event of unusual national importance."

Dulles Runs Into Stormy Weather At OTC Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles ran into rough weather when he appeared before a House committee today to urge American membership in the Organization for Trade Cooperation.

His statement that the United States needs a seat in the international agency to execute this nation's foreign economic policies was greeted with a shower of critical questions.

Rep. Mason (R-Ill) told Dulles flatly he was opposed to the OTC. He said he had voted against reciprocal trade programs since 1937 "and I don't want to implement reciprocal trade agreements now."

The State Department chief had told the House Ways and Means Committee that congressional refusal to ratify American membership in the OTC would have a "grave" effect on our international relations.

Administrative Agency

He argued that OTC is intended to be only an administrative agency of 35 nations to police international trade and tariff agreements. It would provide the machinery for operation of the trade pacts worked out under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Secretary of the Interior McKay also appeared before the legislators to back the administration proposal.

Dulles spoke of a shift in cold war policy which has moved economic problems up front. He told the committee the significance of OTC membership is "very great" in relation to recent Soviet moves to extend economic help to other nations.

Rep. Reed Disturbed

The senior GOP member of the committee, Rep. Reed of New York, told Dulles it was difficult for him "to oppose you," but that the increasing flow of foreign goods into this country in recent years is "a little disturbing."

Dulles assured Reed he was not a "free trader," and he said he could not see why industry should oppose the OTC program. He said he could understand, however, why those who want higher tariff barriers would want the present system to break down and "the whole reciprocal trade system collapse."

Shah, Dulles To Meet

KARACHI, Pakistan, March 1 (AP) —U. S. Embassy officials said today the Shah of Iran will confer with Secretary of State Dulles here March 9.

Huge Nuclear Test Danger Zone Is Designated By AEC

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—An Atomic Energy Commission announcement today indicated a new series of nuclear weapons tests in the Central Pacific will begin sometime after April 20.

The commission said that after that date safety precautions would be established over a 375,000-nautical-square-mile danger area surrounding the Eniwetok proving ground.

The notice was being sent out today to all marine, aviation and international organizations.

The commission said the rectangular-shaped danger area is slightly smaller than the danger zone used in the latter part of the 1954 series, but "is many times larger than the initial area used in 1954 and has been reoriented slightly for increased safety."

It was one of the 1954 hydrogen tests which sent a radioactive cloud well beyond the safety zone, dropping contamination on a Japanese fishing boat and causing protests abroad.

AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss has said the forthcoming series of tests would involve weapons "generally smaller" in power than those of 1954.

The announcement said that it was expected that most, if not all, of the danger area would be released from control by the end of August. However, the commission said, "It is not now possible to fix a final effective date."

The area designated by the commission as the danger zone would embrace both the Eniwetok and Bikini atolls and take in an ocean expanse reaching north almost to Wake Island.

Negro Student Is "Expelled" From U. Of Ala.

Disciplinary Action Taken By Trustees For 'False Charges'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 1 (AP)—The University of Alabama's trustees "permanently expelled" Negro coed Autherine Lucy on disciplinary grounds at a secret meeting last night.

The action, which leaked out early today, came within hours after U.S. District Court Judge H. Hobart Grooms ordered the 26-year-old former school teacher readmitted to the Tuscaloosa campus by Monday.

Miss Lucy, first Negro ever enrolled at the 125-year-old school, was suspended Feb. 6 after three days of rioting by students and "outsiders" over her presence.

In Montgomery, the House of Representatives adopted a resolution to establish a legislative committee to determine if the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People is Communist controlled.

Miss Lucy Would Be Witness

Under the terms of the resolution, which now goes to the Senate, Miss Lucy would be subpoenaed as a witness. Her legal battle to enter the university has been backed by the NAACP.

The Senate, meantime, shouted unanimous approval of a resolution asking for federal funds to transplant Negroes from Alabama to regions outside the South where "they are needed or wanted."

In expelling Miss Lucy from the university, the trustees accused her of making "false, defamatory, impertinent and scandalous charges" against university officials in court and through newspapers, radio and television stations.

The resolution added, "No educational institution could maintain necessary disciplinary action if any student, regardless of race, guilty of the conduct of Autherine J. Lucy be permitted to remain."

Coed Is "Shocked"

Miss Lucy said she was "shocked by this turn of events."

"I was looking forward to returning to school," she added. "At this point there is nothing more I can say."

Then she departed by plane on a surprise trip to New York City. With her went Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel for the NAACP.

Miss Lucy's local attorney, Arthur D. Shores, had no immediate comment on the university's action. However, Marshall told reporters on his arrival at La Guardia Field:

"We leave the final decision to the good people of the nation.

"As disgusting as this latest development must be, Negroes and others must work out this problem within our own democratic framework."

Secretary Of A.A. Chapter At "Pen" Falls Off Wagon

MCALESTER, Okla., March 1 (AP) —The secretary of the Alcoholics Anonymous chapter at the Oklahoma Penitentiary is in bad repute with his fellow members today. He got drunk.

The official is J. C. Fast, serving a life term for the 1937 murder of a Muskogee banker.

Fast, a trusty, had been assigned to work at the Stringtown Boys Training School. The warden's office received reports Fast had been drinking. Asst. Warden Clint Gladden investigated.

He said he found Fast sleeping off a hangover and hustled him back to the prison. Gladden said he didn't know where Fast got the liquor but he did know that Fast is no longer a trusty.

Ex-Member Of NLRB Balks At 'Red' Queries

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — Edwin S. Smith, a member of the National Labor Relations Board from 1934 to 1941, refused repeatedly today to answer questions about alleged Communist affiliations as the House Committee on Un-American Activities wound up its current Reds-in-government inquiry.

Smith invoked the Fifth Amendment about 50 times during the course of the questioning.

Last Of Fugitive Top Communists Will Surrender

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Henry Winston, last of the fugitive top leaders of American communism, announced tonight that he will surrender for imprisonment next Monday.

He followed the same formula used by Gilbert Green who surrendered last Monday—addressing his notice in a letter to newspapers.

Green and Winston, both under sentences of five years in prison for revolutionary conspiracy, were among four top Reds who fled in 1951 rather than go to prison.

The other two, Gus Hall and Robert G. Thompson, later were seized by the FBI.

The quartet was among 11 top American Communist leaders convicted in 1949 of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U.S. government. It was the first of a long series of similar convictions for American Reds.

Seven of the convicted men went to prison on schedule in 1951. They since have been released, their time served.

Winston, a Negro, was organization secretary of the Communist party when he was indicted with the others in 1948. He forfeited his $20,000 bond when he became a fugitive.

In his letter, Winston said:

"The charge of conspiracy against me was as false as the conspiracy charges against Negro leaders in Montgomery, Ala."

Like Green, he attributed his decision to surrender to what he considers a more amicable political atmosphere in the nation.

Drummer Kills Rival For Stripper's Love

KANSAS CITY, March 1 (AP)—A 27-year-old dance band drummer admitted today he killed his rival for the affections of a blond striptease dancer.

Police Lt. Wayne Gibson said John Pio Mighetto walked into police headquarters and blurted:

"I'm the man you have been looking for in the Bernstein murder. It has been on my mind."

The slaying of Charles Joseph Bernstein, 50, at a downtown hotel had been on the minds of detectives since last Aug. 15. That was the day the body of the 50-year-old office machine dealer was found in his room at the hotel. He had been shot five times.

Mighetto was one of several men questioned at the time.

In a signed statement Mighetto said today he accused Bernstein of tampering with the affections of the dancer, Mrs. Wynell Bettis, 24.

Blood Of Martyred Saint Liquefying Ahead Of Time

NAPLES, Italy, March 1 (AP) — The blood of St. Gennarius liquefied off schedule today causing the Neapolitan faithful to wonder what the omen meant.

The blood of the martyred Roman Catholic saint, kept in a silver phial in Naples Cathedral, is supposed to liquefy the first Saturday in May and on Sept. 19.

When it does, the faithful believe it is a sign of coming good times. When it doesn't, ill luck is said to be foreshadowed for Naples.

Late this afternoon the blood was observed to be liquefying, church authorities reported.

Narcotics Agent Trips Up Frosh

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 1 (AP)—A small party of college freshmen, tripped up by a federal agent living among them, were nabbed in a raid today as police struck at narcotics traffic and theft activity.

The raid at a University of Kentucky men's residence hall, carried out before students awakened, resulted in state charges against five students and two "guests."

Federal narcotics agents said two students and two other non-students would be taken before the U.S. commissioner at Louisville and charged with selling marijuana.

Lexington police questioned five other students but released them.

An explosion in a dormitory washroom nearly two months ago touched off the inquiry, climaxed by an undercover narcotics agent enrolling in school and rooming with one of the principal suspects.

The narcotics traffic apparently was not extensive. An agent hinted that less than a pound of marijuana was involved; none was seized in the raid.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — Another 371,925 doses of Salk polio vaccine were released today by the Public Health Service.

U. S. Tells Russia Soviet Balloons Fly Over Alaska

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—The United States told Russia today that Soviet balloons have flown over U. S. territory—that is, Alaska—just as U. S. balloons have flown over Soviet territory.

An American note to the Kremlin asked in effect: So what are you complaining about?

"It is illogical," said the note made public by the State Department, "that the Soviet government should desire one rule for itself and another for the rest of the world."

Joint Program Proposed

With that, the U. S. government sought to wash its hands of the whole affair. It suggested that a United Nations agency take over the controversy by trying to work out "a joint program for the utilization of techniques and equipment" for gathering weather information with balloons.

The Russians have protested that camera-carrying U. S. balloons have been "spying" on Soviet territory and endangering air traffic.

The American note, delivered to the Soviet Foreign Ministry by the U. S. Embassy at Moscow, also:

1. Demanded return of U. S. weather balloons—"scientific property which rightly belongs to the United States"—in exchange for Soviet balloons now in U. S. hands. Numbers were not specified.

Red Suggestion Declined

2. Declined a Soviet suggestion that captured U. S. weather balloons, already displayed to Western newsmen at Moscow, be exhibited in the United States by Russian technicians.

3. Rejected, as having already been proved groundless, Soviet charges that U. S. weather balloons endanger air travel.

4. Chided the Soviet government for not publishing in its own press a Pentagon news release dated Jan. 8 which described the weather balloon project as a purely scientific endeavor.

5. Commented that the Russians had made no move to accept a U. S. offer of Feb. 8 to talk over safety devices.

Killer-Kidnaper Shot Down After Boy Hostage Escapes

WAYNESBORO, Ga., March 1 (AP) —Police bullets chopped the life from a Massachusetts killer-kidnaper today seconds after an 11 year-old boy hostage broke away from him in climax to a running gunfight along a Georgia highway.

Wanted for killing a Louisville, Ga., policeman last night and kidnaping the boy and his mother today, the slain man was identified as Gerald Peter Beaucaire, 24, of Dorchester, Mass.

Police said Beaucaire, hunted all night by a large posse for killing the policeman, entered the home of Mrs. John Herrington at Perkins. He beat Mrs. Herrington over the head with a wrench and was shot and wounded in the hand by her son Johnny who grabbed a .22 caliber rifle from a closet.

Mother and son were forced into the Herrington car by Beaucaire and ordered to drive toward Augusta on U.S. Highway 25. Mrs. Herrington was forced to drive at nearly 90 miles an hour while Beaucaire held a gun to her son's head.

Shortly after the car left Millen it ran through one of several police roadblocks. A patrolman shot through the windshield but the car raced on. It ran into another roadblock at Waynesboro, 20 miles from Millen.

Beaucaire fired on officers from the car window. The patrolmen were unable to return the fire because of the woman and boy. Eight miles from Augusta, the right rear tire of the Herrington car was shot by pursuing officers.

"The man made mother drive as fast as she could and we went 70 with a tire flat," Johnny said.

"We had to go around a car and mother rammed in the side of it and we went into a ditch.

"He grabbed me and ran backwards, holding me around the neck. He had the gun up to my head and the safety was on but he didn't notice it. We got about 10 yards into a field when he tripped and fell. I fell on top of his stomach. I grabbed the gun and ran and they shot him."

"Part-Time" Theme Struck By Democrats

Eisenhower Enters Name In Wisconsin, California Primaries

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — President Eisenhower thrust his second-term bid into the Wisconsin and California primaries today in the midst of political gales blowing up over his health and running mate.

Party battle lines for the oncoming campaign formed swiftly around the health issue.

Democrats drummed on the "part-time president" theme and set up Eisenhower's health as a key issue on grounds the President already had done so himself. Adlai Stevenson said in New York the presidency "cannot be conducted on a part-time basis."

Republicans predicted that such tactics would backfire and cost the Democrats votes.

Eisenhower backed up his big decision to try for another term with assurances to the American people last night that in spite of his September heart attack he is able to handle his presidential duties as well as ever—now and "indefinitely."

From Words To Action

So, he said, "I shall accept" the presidential renomination he is sure to get. At the same time, he said, he will be a man operating under "restrictions," doctors' orders, and a lighter working schedule.

Shifting from words to action, Eisenhower signed today the papers which will put his name into the GOP primaries in Wisconsin April 3 and in California June 5. His consent was required in those states and he gave it. And he will be in primaries in half a dozen other states where his consent wasn't needed.

Three Republican House members were tapped to fly to Wisconsin tonight with the President's signed entry for the primary.

Sparring Over Health Issue

Knowland, who had presidential ambitions of his own until Eisenhower's hat-in-ring announcement yesterday, predicted California Republicans will unite behind the chief executive; that the President will be nominated unanimously at the GOP national convention starting Aug. 20 in San Francisco.

Meanwhile the open political sparring today was over the issue of Eisenhower's health.

One of the potential Democratic presidential nominees, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said certainly it will be a "major issue" and Eisenhower made it one.

For the Republicans, Hall countered that Eisenhower is "a full-time president." And it was Hall who declared that Democratic attempts to raise the health issue will "backfire on them and cost them votes."

"The American people," he said, "simply won't stand for tactics of that kind."

Ike's Statement 'Amazes' Adlai

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said today that President Eisenhower "spent 20 minutes last night telling the American people, not what he is going to do, but rather what he is not going to do."

Stevenson, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, issued his comment on the President's TV - radio announcement just before leaving for Minneapolis by plane. He is to deliver a speech tomorrow at the University of Minnesota.

Stevenson issued this statement:

"President Eisenhower spent 20 minutes last night telling the American people not what he is going to do, but rather what he is not going to do. I was amazed to hear him say on his return from another long absence that he has fully performed the duties of the presidency for the past few weeks.

"While I pray for his good health, I also respect a great office, which cannot be conducted on a part-time basis.

"All of us felt great sympathy for the President during the period of his illness and accepted the fact that he would be temporarily unable to fully manage the hardest job on earth. Now, however, he evidently proposes to make this condition permanent."

Rep. Reed Disturbed

The senior GOP member of the committee, Rep. Reed of New York, told Dulles it was difficult for him "to oppose you," but that the increasing flow of foreign goods into this country in recent years is "a little disturbing."

Dulles assured Reed he was not a "free trader," and he said he could not see why industry should oppose the OTC program. He said he could understand, however, why those who want higher tariff barriers would want the present system to break down and "the whole reciprocal trade system collapse."

Huge Nuclear Test Danger Zone Is Designated By AEC

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—An Atomic Energy Commission announcement today indicated a new series of nuclear weapons tests in the Central Pacific will begin sometime after April 20.

The commission said that after that date safety precautions would be established over a 375,000-nautical-square-mile danger area surrounding the Eniwetok proving ground.

The notice was being sent out today to all marine, aviation and international organizations.

The commission said the rectangular-shaped danger area is slightly smaller than the danger zone used in the latter part of the 1954 series, but "is many times larger than the initial area used in 1954 and has been reoriented slightly for increased safety."

It was one of the 1954 hydrogen tests which sent a radioactive cloud well beyond the safety zone, dropping contamination on a Japanese fishing boat and causing protests abroad.

AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss has said the forthcoming series of tests would involve weapons "generally smaller" in power than those of 1954.

The announcement said that it was expected that most, if not all, of the danger area would be released from control by the end of August. However, the commission said, "It is not now possible to fix a final effective date."

The area designated by the commission as the danger zone would embrace both the Eniwetok and Bikini atolls and take in an ocean expanse reaching north almost to Wake Island.

Negro Student Is "Expelled" From U. Of Ala.

Disciplinary Action Taken By Trustees For 'False Charges'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 1 (AP)—The University of Alabama's trustees "permanently expelled" Negro coed Autherine Lucy on disciplinary grounds at a secret meeting last night.

The action, which leaked out early today, came within hours after U.S. District Court Judge H. Hobart Grooms ordered the 26-year-old former school teacher readmitted to the Tuscaloosa campus by Monday.

Miss Lucy, first Negro ever enrolled at the 125-year-old school, was suspended Feb. 6 after three days of rioting by students and "outsiders" over her presence.

In Montgomery, the House of Representatives adopted a resolution to establish a legislative committee to determine if the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People is Communist controlled.

Miss Lucy Would Be Witness

Under the terms of the resolution, which now goes to the Senate, Miss Lucy would be subpoenaed as a witness. Her legal battle to enter the university has been backed by the NAACP.

The Senate, meantime, shouted unanimous approval of a resolution asking for federal funds to transplant Negroes from Alabama to regions outside the South where "they are needed or wanted."

In expelling Miss Lucy from the university, the trustees accused her of making "false, defamatory, impertinent and scandalous charges" against university officials in court and through newspapers, radio and television stations.

The resolution added, "No educational institution could maintain necessary disciplinary action if any student, regardless of race, guilty of the conduct of Autherine J. Lucy be permitted to remain."

Coed Is "Shocked"

Miss Lucy said she was "shocked by this turn of events."

"I was looking forward to returning to school," she added. "At this point there is nothing more I can say."

Then she departed by plane on a surprise trip to New York City. With her went Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel for the NAACP.

Miss Lucy's local attorney, Arthur D. Shores, had no immediate comment on the university's action. However, Marshall told reporters on his arrival at La Guardia Field:

"We leave the final decision to the good people of the nation.

"As disgusting as this latest development must be, Negroes and others must work out this problem within our own democratic framework."

Secretary Of A.A. Chapter At "Pen" Falls Off Wagon

MCALESTER, Okla., March 1 (AP) —The secretary of the Alcoholics Anonymous chapter at the Oklahoma Penitentiary is in bad repute with his fellow members today. He got drunk.

The official is J. C. Fast, serving a life term for the 1937 murder of a Muskogee banker.

Fast, a trusty, had been assigned to work at the Stringtown Boys Training School. The warden's office received reports Fast had been drinking. Asst Warden Clint Gladden investigated.

He said he found Fast sleeping off a hangover and hustled him back to the prison. Gladden said he didn't know where Fast got the liquor but he did know that Fast is no longer a trusty.

Ex-Member Of NLRB Balks At 'Red' Queries

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — Edwin S. Smith, a member of the National Labor Relations Board from 1934 to 1941, refused repeatedly today to answer questions about alleged Communist affiliations as the House Committee on Un-American Activities wound up its current Reds-in-government inquiry.

Smith invoked the Fifth Amendment about 50 times during the course of the questioning.

Ike First On Pa. Ballot

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 1 (AP) —President Eisenhower drew first place today on the Republican ballot at the April 24 primary for the presidential preference vote.

Second place went to Sen. William F. Knowland of California, Republican Senate leader.

Spectacular Fire Engulfs Home

Last Of Fugitive Top Communists Will Surrender

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Henry Winston, last of the fugitive top leaders of American communism, announced tonight that he will surrender for imprisonment next Monday.

He followed the same formula used by Gilbert Green who surrendered last Monday—addressing his notice in a letter to newspapers.

Green and Winston, both under sentences of five years in prison for revolutionary conspiracy, were among four top Reds who fled in 1951 rather than go to prison.

The other two, Gus Hall and Robert G. Thompson, later were seized by the FBI.

The quartet was among 11 top American Communist leaders convicted in 1949 of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U.S. government. It was the first of a long series of similar convictions for American Reds.

Seven of the convicted men went to prison on schedule in 1951. They since have been released, their time served.

Winston, a Negro, was organization secretary of the Communist party when he was indicted with the others in 1948. He forfeited his $20,000 bond when he became a fugitive.

In his letter, Winston said:

"The charge of conspiracy against me was as false as the conspiracy charges against Negro leaders in Montgomery, Ala."

Drummer Kills Rival For Stripper's Love

KANSAS CITY, March 1 (AP)—A 27-year-old dance band drummer admitted today he killed his rival for the affections of a blond striptease dancer.

Police Lt. Wayne Gibson said John Pio Mighetto walked into police headquarters and blurted:

"I'm the man you have been looking for in the Bernstein murder. It has been on my mind."

The slaying of Charles Joseph Bernstein, 50, at a downtown hotel had been on the minds of detectives since last Aug. 15. That was the day the body of the 50-year-old office machine dealer was found in his room at the hotel. He had been shot five times.

Mighetto was one of several men questioned at the time.

In a signed statement Mighetto said today he accused Bernstein of tampering with the affections of the dancer, Mrs. Wynell Bettis, 24.

U. S. To Buy More Pork

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—The Agriculture Department indicated today that it will buy more than the $85 million worth of surplus pork products. It originally promised to purchase under a program aimed at bolstering sagging hog prices.

Power Dams Voted

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — The House today passed a bill which would authorize a 760-million-dollar series of power dams, reservoirs and irrigation systems in the Upper Colorado River Basin.

Blood Of Martyred Saint Liquefying Ahead Of Time

NAPLES, Italy, March 1 (AP) — The blood of St. Gennarius liquefied off schedule today causing the Neapolitan faithful to wonder what the omen meant.

The blood of the martyred Roman Catholic saint, kept in a silver phial in Naples Cathedral, is supposed to liquefy the first Saturday in May and on Sept. 19.

When it does, the faithful believe it is a sign of coming good times. When it doesn't, ill luck is said to be foreshadowed for Naples.

Late this afternoon the blood was observed to be liquefying, church authorities reported.

Narcotics Agent Trips Up Frosh

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 1 (AP)—A small party of college freshmen, tripped up by a federal agent living among them, were nabbed in a raid today as police struck at narcotics traffic and theft activity.

The raid at a University of Kentucky men's residence hall, carried out before students awakened, resulted in state charges against five students and two "guests."

Federal narcotics agents said two students and two other non-students would be taken before the U.S. commissioner at Louisville and charged with selling marijuana.

Lexington police questioned five other students but released them.

An explosion in a dormitory washroom nearly two months ago touched off the inquiry, climaxed by an undercover narcotics agent enrolling in school and rooming with one of the principal suspects.

The narcotics traffic apparently was not extensive. An agent hinted that less than a pound of marijuana was involved; none was seized in the raid.

More Salk Vaccine

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — Another 371,925 doses of Salk polio vaccine were released today by the Public Health Service.

U. S. Tells Russia Soviet Balloons Fly Over Alaska

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—The United States told Russia today that Soviet balloons have flown over U. S. territory—that is, Alaska—just as U. S. balloons have flown over Soviet territory.

An American note to the Kremlin asked in effect: So what are you complaining about?

"It is illogical," said the note made public by the State Department, "that the Soviet government should desire one rule for itself and another for the rest of the world."

Joint Program Proposed

With that, the U. S. government sought to wash its hands of the whole affair. It suggested that a United Nations agency take over the controversy by trying to work out "a joint program for the utilization of techniques and equipment" for gathering weather information with balloons.

The Russians have protested that camera-carrying U. S. balloons have been "spying" on Soviet territory and endangering air traffic.

The American note, delivered to the Soviet Foreign Ministry by the U. S. Embassy at Moscow, also:

1. Demanded return of U. S. weather balloons—"scientific property which rightly belongs to the United States"—in exchange for Soviet balloons now in U. S. hands. Numbers were not specified.

Red Suggestion Declined

2. Declined a Soviet suggestion that captured U. S. weather balloons, already displayed to Western newsmen at Moscow, be exhibited in the United States by Russian technicians.

3. Rejected, as having already been proved groundless, Soviet charges that U. S. weather balloons endanger air travel.

4. Chided the Soviet government for not publishing in its own press a Pentagon news release dated Jan. 8 which described the weather balloon project as a purely scientific endeavor.

5. Commented that the Russians had made no move to accept a U. S. offer of Feb. 8 to talk over safety devices.

Killer-Kidnaper Shot Down After Boy Hostage Escapes

WAYNESBORO, Ga., March 1 (AP) —Police bullets chopped the life from a Massachusetts killer-kidnaper today seconds after an 11 year-old boy hostage broke away from him in climax to a running gunfight along a Georgia highway.

Wanted for killing a Louisville, Ga., policeman last night and kidnaping the boy and his mother today, the slain man was identified as Gerald Peter Beaucaire, 24, of Dorchester, Mass.

Police said Beaucaire, hunted all night by a large posse for killing the policeman, entered the home of Mrs. John Herrington at Perkins. He beat Mrs. Herrington over the head with a wrench and was shot and wounded in the hand by her son Johnny who grabbed a .22 caliber rifle from a closet.

Mother and son were forced into the Herrington car by Beaucaire and ordered to drive toward Augusta on U.S. Highway 25. Mrs. Herrington was forced to drive at nearly 90 miles an hour while Beaucaire held a gun to her son's head.

Shortly after the car left Millen it ran through one of several police roadblocks. A patrolman shot through the windshield but the car raced on. It ran into another roadblock at Waynesboro, 20 miles from Millen.

Beaucaire fired on officers from the car window. The patrolmen were unable to return the fire because of the woman and boy. Eight miles from Augusta, the right rear tire of the Herrington car was shot by pursuing officers.

"The man made mother drive as fast as she could and we went 70 with a tire flat," Johnny said.

"We had to go around a car and mother rammed in the side of it and we went into a ditch.

"He grabbed me and ran backwards, holding me around the neck. He had the gun up to my head and the safety was on but he didn't notice it. We got about 10 yards into a field when he tripped and fell. I fell on top of his stomach. I grabbed the gun and ran and they shot him."

"Part-Time" Theme Struck By Democrats

Eisenhower Enters Name In Wisconsin, California Primaries

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — President Eisenhower thrust his second-term bid into the Wisconsin and California primaries today in the midst of political gales blowing up over his health and running mate.

Party battle lines for the oncoming campaign formed swiftly around the health issue.

Democrats drummed on the "part-time president" theme and set up Eisenhower's health as a key issue on grounds the President already had done so himself. Adlai Stevenson said in New York the presidency "cannot be conducted on a part-time basis."

Republicans predicted that such tactics would backfire and cost the Democrats votes.

Eisenhower backed up his big decision to try for another term with assurances to the American people last night that in spite of his September heart attack he is able to handle his presidential duties as well as ever—now and "indefinitely."

From Words To Action

So, he said, "I shall accept" the presidential renomination he is sure to get. At the same time, he said, he will be a man operating under "restrictions," doctors' orders, and a lighter working schedule.

Shifting from words to action, Eisenhower signed today the papers which will put his name into the GOP primaries in Wisconsin April 3 and in California June 5. His consent was required in those states and he gave it. And he will be in primaries in half a dozen other states where his consent wasn't needed.

Three Republican House members were tapped to fly to Wisconsin tonight with the President's signed entry for the primary.

Sparring Over Health Issue

Knowland, who had presidential ambitions of his own until Eisenhower's hat-in-ring announcement yesterday, predicted California Republicans will unite behind the chief executive; that the President will be nominated unanimously at the GOP national convention starting Aug. 20 in San Francisco.

Meanwhile the open political sparring today was over the issue of Eisenhower's health.

One of the potential Democratic presidential nominees, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said certainly it will be a "major issue" and Eisenhower made it one.

For the Republicans, Hall countered that Eisenhower is "a full-time president." And it was Hall who declared that Democratic attempts to raise the health issue will "backfire on them and cost them votes."

"The American people," he said, "simply won't stand for tactics of that kind."

Ike's Statement 'Amazes' Adlai

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said today that President Eisenhower "spent 20 minutes last night telling the American people, not what he is going to do, but rather what he is not going to do."

Stevenson, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, issued his comment on the President's TV - radio announcement just before leaving for Minneapolis by plane. He is to deliver a speech tomorrow at the University of Minnesota.

Stevenson issued this statement:

"President Eisenhower spent 20 minutes last night telling the American people not what he is going to do, but rather what he is not going to do. I was amazed to hear him say on his return from another long absence that he has fully performed the duties of the presidency for the past few weeks.

"While I pray for his good health, I also respect a great office, which cannot be conducted on a part-time basis.

"All of us felt great sympathy for the President during the period of his illness and accepted the fact that he would be temporarily unable to fully manage the hardest job on earth. Now, however, he evidently proposes to make this condition permanent."

Special Session March 8 Called By Gov. M'Keldin

ANNAPOLIS, March 1 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin tonight called a special session of the Legislature for 10 a.m. March 8, one week from today.

It will be asked to reenact a port authority bill of doubtful constitutionality and consider bond issues for school construction and a civic arena in Baltimore.

The governor announced the call tonight after a conference with legislative leaders just before adjournment of the 1956 assembly's 20-day session.

The Baltimore school bond issue will be for 15 million dollars and the civic center proposal for 6 million.

The Legislature also may take up other local matters at the session if it wishes.

The bill to create a state port authority has been under a constitutional cloud since its introduction at the 30-day session restricted to budget and fiscal matters, emergency legislation, and matters involving general public welfare.

The attorney general had said before the session he didn't think it would qualify. Casting further doubt, some lawmakers believe, is exclusion from the original bill of Anne Arundel County except a small industrial area near Baltimore. This, they feel, kept it from being a statewide measure. No local bills can be considered at a 30-day session unless of an emergency nature.

Further added to this complication was an amendment adopted to the port bill last night to exclude Talbot County. Sen. North (D-Talbot), its sponsor, said he was told by the attorney, general, "It would make the bill no more unconstitutional than it is already."

At a special session, local exemptions would not make it invalid.

Kilgore Funeral Held At Beckley

BECKLEY, W. Va., March 1 (AP)—His home town paid its last respect today to U. S. Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, of whom the Rev. Shirley Donnelly said in a funeral oration, "This man of the mountains never lost the common touch."

Hundreds crowded into the First Baptist Church, to which Kilgore belonged, for the 4-minute funeral service this afternoon. An usher estimated 1,500 persons were inside the church, and at least that many again stood outside.

Officiating ministers were Mr. Donnelly of the Crab Orchard Baptist Church and the Rev. Alvin Cook, pastor of First Baptist.

The body was to leave Beckley by train tonight to be taken back to Washington. Services with full military honors will be conducted tomorrow morning in the chapel at Ft. Myer, Va. Burial will follow in Arlington National Cemetery.

Youth Unveils Robot, Whiz At Playing Tick-Tack-Toe

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—A robot that's a whiz at playing tick-tack-toe came to town today.

It's the brain-child of Martin B. Halpern, 16, of Tucson, Ariz., one of 40 smart teen-agers who arrived to compete in the finals of the annual nationwide "Science Talent Search."

The contest, for a total of $11,000 in scholarships, is conducted among high schoolers by the Science Clubs of America and is financed by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation. Payoff will come next Monday night.

According to young Halpern, his robot "neurovac electric brain" will invariably tie or beat you, because the mathematics of the game are built into its system of mechanical and electrical circuits.

The game is played on a board containing 18 electric bulbs—nine for the robot, nine for its human opponent—which can be lit by either player.

The robot must always make the first move, and someone has to "start" it by setting a dial and throwing a switch. But thereafter, it's on its own. Every move its opponent makes triggers the robot into a counter-move according to a pattern based on accurate mathematics of the game.

"The machine can't make a mistake," says young Halpern. "The game can end in a tie, but you make a mistake, the machine will beat you!"

Mitchell Not Interested

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell said today he has no interest "whatsoever" in being considered for the Republican nomination for vice president. He made the statement in answering a question at a news conference. He said there was "no question" that Eisenhower would succeed in winning a second term.

Lobby Probers Near Agreement On Organization

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Democrats and Republicans drew closer together tonight in efforts to resolve a dispute over the organization of a special Senate committee assigned to investigate lobbying and campaign contributions.

Sens. Gore (D-Tenn) and Bridges (R-NH) told newsmen they had approached agreement on some points and would meet again tomorrow afternoon after conferring with their colleagues on the special bipartisan committee.

Bridges went to Gore's office after he and the three other Republicans on the committee had met with GOP leaders in the office of Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California to discuss rules of procedure for the investigation.

The Republican get-together came amidst rumblings from the four Democrats on the special committee, who balked at the group's initial meeting yesterday at accepting Republican-proposed rules for conducting the $350,000 investigation ordered by the Senate last week.

Gore and Bridges were designated by the other committee members to try to work out a solution of the dispute.

After the two conferred late today, Gore said, "No final agreement has been reached, but we feel progress has been made."

Bridges remarked that there had been reports of an impasse, but he said, "It looks as if we'll find means to surmount any situation of that kind."

Gore and Bridges said they had reached agreement, subject to the approval of their respective colleagues on the special committee, with respect to a chairman, vice chairman and counsel.

While they didn't spell it out, they indicated this provided for a Democratic chairman and a Republican vice chairman. Gore and Bridges are expected to be chosen for these posts.

German Reds Jail Escape Advocates

BERLIN, March 1 (AP) — West Berlin announced today it will inform the United Nations that Communist East Germany has sentenced 30 persons for encouraging its citizens to flee to West Germany.

Willy Brandt, city Parliament president, told a news conference the Communists are guilty of flagrant violation of human rights. He said the sentences ranged from 2½ years to life in prison.

Brandt said moving from East Germany to West Germany was like moving from Chicago to New York. The complaint will be sent to the U.N. Commission on Human Rights.

Children From 20 Nations To Greet Pope On Birthday

VATICAN CITY, March 1 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, in apparent good health, reaches 80 tomorrow. As a feature of the day's events, he will receive 200 children from a score of nations who will dance around him, wish him "happy birthday" in many tongues and give him a birthday cake topped with 80 candles.

The day also marks the 17th anniversary of his election as head of more than 450 million Roman Catholics throughout the world.

As usual, he will rise before dawn. At 7 a.m. he will say his daily Mass in the private chapel of his Vatican apartment. The only persons who will attend that service will be three German nuns who for years have taken care of his apartment, and a few other close associates of his household.

Soon after that will begin ceremonies in which the children and aged cardinals, humble people and representatives of many nations will honor him.

The children will be received by the Pope in the Vatican's Clementine hall. They are from Italy, France, Denmark, Greece, England, Hungary, Germany, the United States, Poland, Ireland, Indonesia, Holland, Russia, Spain, Canada, Belgium, Argentina, Venezuela and Uruguay.

Next he will receive a more solemn group, headed by Clemente Cardinal Micara, his vicar for the City of Rome; the Rev. Agostino Gemelli, president of the Pontifical Academy of Sciences and Count Vladimir d'Ormesson, France's ambassador to the Vatican. They will present a golden medal struck by the Vatican mint to commemorate the Pope's 80th birthday.

A third major audience will bring members of the Sacred College of Cardinals before the pontiff to express their good wishes.

Postal Hearings Set

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — The House Post Office Committee today decided to start hearings March 13 on the administration's request for increases in postal rates. The increases requested include a boost of one per cent in the present three-cent rate for first-class mail.

New York City has more than 5,000 miles of streets.

Professor Invokes Fifth Amendment

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — A Dickinson College professor who has taught at a half dozen colleges throughout the country refused today to say whether he is now or ever has been a Communist.

Dr. Lawrence Raymond La Vallee, who said he now teaches economics at Dickinson, invoked the 5th Amendment protection against forced self-incrimination when asked about alleged Red activities by the House Committee on Unamerican Activities.

He would not even tell whether he knows Dr. William Edell, president of the small college at Carlisle, Pa.

Committee Counsel Richard Arens said La Vallee had previously told his college president "in effect" that he was not a Communist, but that he would invoke the 5th Amendment guarantee when questioned by the committee.

La Vallee was named in earlier testimony as a Communist while with the War Labor Board in Denver, Colo., in 1942-44.

Texas produces about 30 per cent of the United States oil production.

McKeldin To Sign Seizure Bill Today

ANNAPOLIS, March 1 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature today gave Gov. McKeldin authority to seize and operate the strikebound Baltimore Transit Co. and said he would sign it into law tomorrow.

He said he will invoke it as soon as the attorney general takes the necessary preliminary steps to seizure unless the strike is settled "or the contending parties can convince me . . . settlement is imminent."

There were indications it might be Monday before the legal machinery was set and the law actually invoked.

The attorney general had said before the session he didn't think it would qualify. Casting further doubt, some lawmakers believe, is exclusion from the original bill of Anne Arundel County except a small industrial area near Baltimore. This, they feel, kept it from being a statewide measure. No local bills can be considered at a 30-day session unless of an emergency nature.

Further added to this complication was an amendment adopted to the port bill last night to exclude Talbot County. Sen. North (D-Talbot), its sponsor, said he was told by the attorney, general, "It would make the bill no more unconstitutional than it is already."

At a special session, local exemptions would not make it invalid.

Kilgore Funeral Held At Beckley

BECKLEY, W. Va., March 1 (AP)—His home town paid its last respect today to U. S. Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, of whom the Rev. Shirley Donnelly said in a funeral oration, "This man of the mountains never lost the common touch."

Hundreds crowded into the First Baptist Church, to which Kilgore belonged, for the 4-minute funeral service this afternoon. An usher estimated 1,500 persons were inside the church, and at least that many again stood outside.

Officiating ministers were Mr. Donnelly of the Crab Orchard Baptist Church and the Rev. Alvin Cook, pastor of First Baptist.

The body was to leave Beckley by train tonight to be taken back to Washington. Services with full military honors will be conducted tomorrow morning in the chapel at Ft. Myer, Va. Burial will follow in Arlington National Cemetery.

Youth Unveils Robot, Whiz At Playing Tick-Tack-Toe

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—A robot that's a whiz at playing tick-tack-toe came to town today.

It's the brain-child of Martin B. Halpern, 16, of Tucson, Ariz., one of 40 smart teen-agers who arrived to compete in the finals of the annual nationwide "Science Talent Search."

The contest, for a total of $11,000 in scholarships, is conducted among high schoolers by the Science Clubs of America and is financed by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation. Payoff will come next Monday night.

According to young Halpern, his robot "neurovac electric brain" will invariably tie or beat you, because the mathematics of the game are built into its system of mechanical and electrical circuits.

The game is played on a board containing 18 electric bulbs—nine for the robot, nine for its human opponent—which can be lit by either player.

The robot must always make the first move, and someone has to "start" it by setting a dial and throwing a switch. But thereafter, it's on its own. Every move its opponent makes triggers the robot into a counter-move according to a pattern based on accurate mathematics of the game.

"The machine can't make a mistake," says young Halpern. "The game can end in a tie, but you make a mistake, the machine will beat you!"

Mitchell Not Interested

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell said today he has no interest "whatsoever" in being considered for the Republican nomination for vice president. He made the statement in answering a question at a news conference. He said there was "no question" that Eisenhower would succeed in winning a second term.

Lobby Probers Near Agreement On Organization

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Democrats and Republicans drew closer together tonight in efforts to resolve a dispute over the organization of a special Senate committee assigned to investigate lobbying and campaign contributions.

Sens. Gore (D-Tenn) and Bridges (R-NH) told newsmen they had approached agreement on some points and would meet again tomorrow afternoon after conferring with their colleagues on the special bipartisan committee.

Bridges went to Gore's office after he and the three other Republicans on the committee had met with GOP leaders in the office of Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California to discuss rules of procedure for the investigation.

The Republican get-together came amidst rumblings from the four Democrats on the special committee, who balked at the group's initial meeting yesterday at accepting Republican-proposed rules for conducting the $350,000 investigation ordered by the Senate last week.

Gore and Bridges were designated by the other committee members to try to work out a solution of the dispute.

After the two conferred late today, Gore said, "No final agreement has been reached, but we feel progress has been made."

Bridges remarked that there had been reports of an impasse, but he said, "It looks as if we'll find means to surmount any situation of that kind."

Gore and Bridges said they had reached agreement, subject to the approval of their respective colleagues on the special committee, with respect to a chairman, vice chairman and counsel.

While they didn't spell it out, they indicated this provided for a Democratic chairman and a Republican vice chairman. Gore and Bridges are expected to be chosen for these posts.

German Reds Jail Escape Advocates

BERLIN, March 1 (AP) — West Berlin announced today it will inform the United Nations that Communist East Germany has sentenced 30 persons for encouraging its citizens to flee to West Germany.

Willy Brandt, city Parliament president, told a news conference the Communists are guilty of flagrant violation of human rights. He said the sentences ranged from 2½ years to life in prison.

Brandt said moving from East Germany to West Germany was like moving from Chicago to New York. The complaint will be sent to the U.N. Commission on Human Rights.

Children From 20 Nations To Greet Pope On Birthday

VATICAN CITY, March 1 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, in apparent good health, reaches 80 tomorrow. As a feature of the day's events, he will receive 200 children from a score of nations who will dance around him, wish him "happy birthday" in many tongues and give him a birthday cake topped with 80 candles.

The day also marks the 17th anniversary of his election as head of more than 450 million Roman Catholics throughout the world.

As usual, he will rise before dawn. At 7 a.m. he will say his daily Mass in the private chapel of his Vatican apartment. The only persons who will attend that service will be three German nuns who for years have taken care of his apartment, and a few other close associates of his household.

Soon after that will begin ceremonies in which the children and aged cardinals, humble people and representatives of many nations will honor him.

The children will be received by the Pope in the Vatican's Clementine hall. They are from Italy, France, Denmark, Greece, England, Hungary, Germany, the United States, Poland, Ireland, Indonesia, Holland, Russia, Spain, Canada, Belgium, Argentina, Venezuela and Uruguay.

Next he will receive a more solemn group, headed by Clemente Cardinal Micara, his vicar for the City of Rome; the Rev. Agostino Gemelli, president of the Pontifical Academy of Sciences and Count Vladimir d'Ormesson, France's ambassador to the Vatican. They will present a golden medal struck by the Vatican mint to commemorate the Pope's 80th birthday.

A third major audience will bring members of the Sacred College of Cardinals before the pontiff to express their good wishes.

Postal Hearings Set

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — The House Post Office Committee today decided to start hearings March 13 on the administration's request for increases in postal rates. The increases requested include a boost of one per cent in the present three-cent rate for first-class mail.

New York City has more than 5,000 miles of streets.

Professor Invokes Fifth Amendment

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) — A Dickinson College professor who has taught at a half dozen colleges throughout the country refused today to say whether he is now or ever has been a Communist.

Dr. Lawrence Raymond La Vallee, who said he now teaches economics at Dickinson, invoked the 5th Amendment protection against forced self-incrimination when asked about alleged Red activities by the House Committee on Unamerican Activities.

He would not even tell whether he knows Dr. William Edell, president of the small college at Carlisle, Pa.

Committee Counsel Richard Arens said La Vallee had previously told his college president "in effect" that he was not a Communist, but that he would invoke the 5th Amendment guarantee when questioned by the committee.

La Vallee was named in earlier testimony as a Communist while with the War Labor Board in Denver, Colo., in 1942-44.

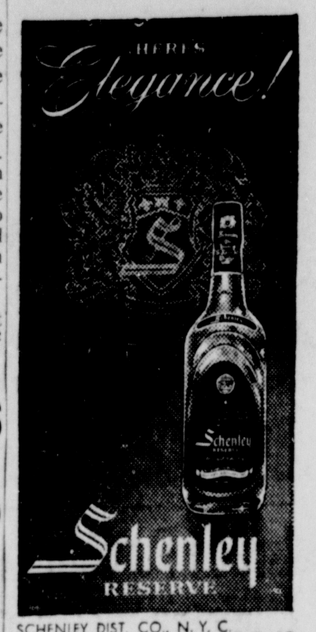

Texas produces about 30 per cent of the United States oil production.

McKeldin To Sign Seizure Bill Today

ANNAPOLIS, March 1 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature today gave Gov. McKeldin authority to seize and operate the strikebound Baltimore Transit Co. and said he would sign it into law tomorrow.

He said he will invoke it as soon as the attorney general takes the necessary preliminary steps to seizure unless the strike is settled "or the contending parties can convince me . . . settlement is imminent."

There were indications it might be Monday before the legal machinery was set and the law actually invoked.

Assembly OKs Bill Permitting Seizure Of Struck Utilities

ANNAPOLIS, March 1 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature, working toward adjournment of its 1956 session, today handed Gov. McKeldin a weapon to end the 31-day-old Baltimore transit strike.

It enacted a bill to permit State seizure and operation of any struck utility threatening the public welfare. It becomes effective on the governor's signature.

There were indications, however, that McKeldin will not sign it right away. Aides said he might wait "a few days" to see if company and union leaders would settle the strike on their own, now that the Legislature has taken positive action to end it.

If such were the case, the legislation might not go on the law books at all.

Enactment of the seizure bill was swift as the House, which had passed it two days ago, promptly concurred in some technical amendments made by the Senate last night.

The last stumbling block to enactment of a bill creating a State authority to promote and expand commerce through the port of Baltimore apparently was cleared late this afternoon.

A joint Senate-House conference committee voted 4-2 to knock out an amendment which would make appointment of its five members subject to Senate confirmation. The House had refused earlier today to take this amendment but had agreed to four others tacked on by the Senate.

Amended Wiretap Bill Sent To Governor

ANNAPOLIS, March 1 (AP) — The Senate today sent to the governor a "somewhat watered down version" of a bill aimed at limiting the use of telephone wiretaps.

The measure was amended from its original form to permit police officials as well as State's attorneys and the attorney general to get permission from judges to use wiretaps in carrying out their work.

Sen. Malkus (D-Dorchester), chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said the Senate measure was "somewhat watered down" in the House but urged its passage because "it's a step in the right direction."

Candidates Barred From Demo Party As 'Controversial'

HAGERSTOWN, March 1 (AP) — Said the county Democratic leaders to the Democratic candidates —sorry, fellows, you can't come to our party. You're controversial.

That was the substance of an announcement by Washington County Democrats preparing for their annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner on March 6. They told candidates for the Democratic senate and Congressional nominations they couldn't attend because of "party unity."

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala), unsuccessful vice presidential candidate three years ago, is scheduled to speak.

State GOP, Democrats Get Outside Help

BALTIMORE, March 1 (AP)—Both the Republicans and Democrats in Maryland are getting outside help to boost their chances this election year.

On March 15, Rep. Halleck of Indiana, is scheduled to address a Republican rally at Towson.

On March 22, Paul M. Butler, Democratic national committee chairman, is to speak at the annual Wicomico County Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at Salisbury.

Woman Who Strangled Baby Sent To Prison

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. March 1 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Willow, 23-year-old soldier's wife accused of strangling to death her two-week old daughter, pleaded guilty today to a manslaughter charge.

She was sentenced to not more than five years in the Maryland Reformatory for Women.

Mrs. Willow was accused of strangling her daughter last Nov. 11 in her Laurel apartment.

Pullen Reappointed

BALTIMORE, March 1 (AP)—State School Superintendent Thomas G. Pullen Jr., who has held the job for 14 years, has been appointed to another four-year term beginning June 1 by the State Board of Education.

McKeldin Won't Bid Openly For GOP No. 2 Spot

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 1 (AP)—Gov. Theodore McKeldin, who never has kept it a secret that he would like the second place on the Eisenhower ticket, declined to come out openly for the Republican vice presidential nomination today.

But he didn't throw cold water on the possibility, either. In a statement, he said:

"I feel sure the convention in San Francisco will choose the best man both for the campaign and to assist in the government for the next four years."

If Vice President Nixon were not a running mate again, and the vice-presidential candidate were to come from the East Coast, McKeldin and Gov. Christian H. Herter of Massachusetts have been mentioned as strong possibilities.

If McKeldin were to resign as governor to accept the nomination, he would be replaced by a Democrat—Louis Goldstein, president of the Maryland Senate—who would serve until the General Assembly would elect a new governor next January.

The Legislature is controlled by Democrats, so the Democrats would hold the governorship until the present term expires in 1958.

McKeldin is serving his second term.

Change In County Accounting Opposed

HAGERSTOWN, March 1 (AP) — Sen. Downey (R-Washington) said today he would not go along with the Washington County Commissioners' desire to exempt the county from a State law requiring them to itemize publicly all county expenditures.

Downey said he "will not be a party to amending any law excluding (the county) from publishing an itemized accounting of the expenditures of county money."

Del. Berkson (R-Washington) echoed Downey's sentiments.

The commissioners said recently they would ask that the county be exempted from the law requiring that all county expenditures be publicized.

The stand by Downey and Berkson apparently kills any chances for the amendment. Custom is for the Legislature to go along with a senator's or delegation's desires on strictly local bills.

Coal Executive Dies

PHILADELPHIA, March 1 (AP)—Charles H. Diffenderffer, 78, coal firm executive, died last night at his home here.

He was president of the Maryland Century Coal and Coke Co. and of the Maryland Pocahontas Coal and Coke Co. with offices in nearby Ardmore.

Efforts To Halt Disabled Truck Fail; One Killed

NORTH EAST, Md., March 1 (AP) —A big truck was rolling along U.S. 40 in northeastern Maryland today when another trucker saw its right rear dual wheels wobbling.

The other trucker alerted State Police who radioed the nearest help, a State Roads Commission truck.

The commission truck was trying to overtake the disabled vehicle when the wheels came off, the truck plunged down an embankment and one man was killed.

State Police said the victim, Woodrow Davis, 37, of Mt. Olive, N. C. was asleep in the cab when the crash occurred. The driver of the truck, David E. Murphy, 30, of Rose Hill, N. C. was only slightly hurt.

Mexican Newsprint

MEXICO CITY, March 1 (AP) — Mexico plans to build two newsprint mills in addition to one already under construction to supply the 70,000 tons needed yearly by the nation's publishing industry. One now being built in the tropical state of Oaxaca is scheduled to go into production next year.

Prehistoric tribes, such as the Swiss lake dwellers, are known to have cultivated wheat. The Chinese claim the use of it as food 2,700 years before the Christian era.

HAGERSTOWN, March 1 (AP) — Said the county Democratic leaders to the Democratic candidates —sorry, fellows, you can't come to our party. You're controversial.

That was the substance of an announcement by Washington County Democrats preparing for their annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner on March 6. They told candidates for the Democratic senate and Congressional nominations they couldn't attend because of "party unity."

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala), unsuccessful vice presidential candidate three years ago, is scheduled to speak.

State GOP, Democrats Get Outside Help

BALTIMORE, March 1 (AP)—Both the Republicans and Democrats in Maryland are getting outside help to boost their chances this election year.

On March 15, Rep. Halleck of Indiana, is scheduled to address a Republican rally at Towson.

On March 22, Paul M. Butler, Democratic national committee chairman, is to speak at the annual Wicomico County Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at Salisbury.

Woman Who Strangled Baby Sent To Prison

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. March 1 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Willow, 23-year-old soldier's wife accused of strangling to death her two-week old daughter, pleaded guilty today to a manslaughter charge.

She was sentenced to not more than five years in the Maryland Reformatory for Women.

Mrs. Willow was accused of strangling her daughter last Nov. 11 in her Laurel apartment.

Pullen Reappointed

BALTIMORE, March 1 (AP)—State School Superintendent Thomas G. Pullen Jr., who has held the job for 14 years, has been appointed to another four-year term beginning June 1 by the State Board of Education.

McKeldin Won't Bid Openly For GOP No. 2 Spot

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 1 (AP)—Gov. Theodore McKeldin, who never has kept it a secret that he would like the second place on the Eisenhower ticket, declined to come out openly for the Republican vice presidential nomination today.

But he didn't throw cold water on the possibility, either. In a statement, he said:

"I feel sure the convention in San Francisco will choose the best man both for the campaign and to assist in the government for the next four years."

If Vice President Nixon were not a running mate again, and the vice-presidential candidate were to come from the East Coast, McKeldin said Gov. Christian H. Herter of Massachusetts have been mentioned as strong possibilities.

If McKeldin were to resign as governor to accept the nomination, he would be replaced by a Democrat—Louis Goldstein, president of the Maryland Senate—who would serve until the General Assembly would elect a new governor next January.

The Legislature is controlled by Democrats, so the Democrats would hold the governorship until the present term expires in 1958.

McKeldin is serving his second term.

Change In County Accounting Opposed

HAGERSTOWN, March 1 (AP) — Sen. Downey (R-Washington) said today he would not go along with the Washington County Commissioners' desire to exempt the county from a State law requiring them to itemize publicly all county expenditures.

Downey said he "will not be a party to amending any law excluding (the county) from publishing an itemized accounting of the expenditures of county money."

Del. Berkson (R-Washington) echoed Downey's sentiments.

The commissioners said recently they would ask that the county be exempted from the law requiring that all county expenditures be publicized.

The stand by Downey and Berkson apparently kills any chances for the amendment. Custom is for the Legislature to go along with a senator's or delegation's desires on strictly local bills.

Coal Executive Dies

PHILADELPHIA, March 1 (AP)—Charles H. Diffenderffer, 78, coal firm executive, died last night at his home here.

He was president of the Maryland Century Coal and Coke Co. and of the Maryland Pocahontas Coal and Coke Co. with offices in nearby Ardmore.

Efforts To Halt Disabled Truck Fail; One Killed

NORTH EAST, Md., March 1 (AP) —A big truck was rolling along U.S. 40 in northeastern Maryland today when another trucker saw its right rear dual wheels wobbling.

The other trucker alerted State Police who radioed the nearest help, a State Roads Commission truck.

The commission truck was trying to overtake the disabled vehicle when the wheels came off, the truck plunged down an embankment and one man was killed.

State Police said the victim, Woodrow Davis, 37, of Mt. Olive, N. C. was asleep in the cab when the crash occurred. The driver of the truck, David E. Murphy, 30, of Rose Hill, N. C. was only slightly hurt.

Mexican Newsprint

MEXICO CITY, March 1 (AP) — Mexico plans to build two newsprint mills in addition to one already under construction to supply the 70,000 tons needed yearly by the nation's publishing industry. One now being built in the tropical state of Oaxaca is scheduled to go into production next year.

Prehistoric tribes, such as the Swiss lake dwellers, are known to have cultivated wheat. The Chinese claim the use of it as food 2,700 years before the Christian era.

Church Interiors Taking On New Look; Emphasis On Comfort Of Congregation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—A gradual transformation is taking place today inside American churches.

For one thing, they're more comfortable.

"You can see better, hear better, and whether sitting or kneeling, you feel better," said William Doig, head of a firm which has been furnishing churches for 108 years.

There also have been some steady changes in decor that have brought more similarity in the interiors of Catholic and Protestant churches. In some respects, both have inclined toward tastes of the other.

Objection of Protestant churches to artistic effects "is rapidly vanishing," said Harold W. Rambusch, president of another leading church decorating firm.

"Their dislike of the organ, stained glass and rich altars is a thing of the past."

At the same time, the ritualistic churches—such as Episcopal and Catholic—have tended toward more simple settings. For example, Catholic churches have cut down on the profusion of statues.

"Not many years ago, there was so much statuary in many Catholic churches that the effect was cluttered, distractive and ugly," said Doig, head of Bernardini Studios. "There's much less of it now.

"They've thrown out the idea of having a statue and side altar of every saint in the book."

The revamping of interiors has been spurred by a church building boom which has set records for four years straight and which in 1955 brought church building outlays to 760 million dollars, 12 times the prewar rate.

As noted by the church decorators, the furnishings are catering to the body, and not just the spirit. Here are some of the major trends:

1. Kneeling benches in Catholic churches, once hard and abrasive, especially to rheumatic knees, are now almost always padded. Some Protestant churches use individual hassocks.

2. Pews in Protestant churches and Jewish synagogues, once plain wood, are now widely cushioned on the seats, with reclining instead of perpendicular backs. Catholic churches, where congregations don't do as much sitting, haven't cushioned seats to such an extent.

3. The old shell-shaped sounding boards above the pulpits are generally out. It's not because preachers talk louder now, but because building acoustics are better, and amplifying systems make the boards unnecessary.

4. The modern shift is toward the simple pulpit—often a lectern on the side of the sanctuary (chancel, to many Protestants). Few churches still use the old-style enclosed pulpit, up five or six steps above the congregation.

5. Carpeting has spread over once barren floors, especially in Protestant and Jewish buildings. This includes rugs on the chancel floor, the aisles and sometimes under the pews over the whole nave area.

6. A few churches have installed air conditioning systems. Most now have improved ventilating systems, with large grill-enclosed fans, that prevent stuffiness which used to put some worshippers to sleep.

7. The custom of having the choir at the front facing the congregation seems to be changing toward a divided — or antiphonal arrangement—whereby choir sections are seated parallel to the church axis.

8. There's more light—both for nonritualistic Protestants, who traditionally wanted light for hymns and psalm readings, and for the "high" churches—such as Catholic and Episcopal—which previously stressed dimness and mystery.

Repertoire Expanded

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Western Union, swept away by the success of its singing telegrams for birthday greetings, is expanding its repertoire. The company's songbirds now are prepared to warble "Happy anniversary to you, etc" in messages commemorating weddings and other anniversaries.

Weight-Losing Fails To Save Marriage

CHICAGO, March 1 (AP)—A divorce has ended the marriage of a woman who tried to save it by slimming down from 190 pounds to her wedding day weight of 127.

Mrs. Lucille Korzen, 44, leveled off at 140 by Oct. 20, 1955, but her husband said he wouldn't take her back at 95 pounds.

The husband, Michael, 43, felt the same way yesterday so Judge Charles S. Dougherty of Circuit Court granted the woman a divorce on ground of desertion. Korzen dropped his crossbill charging cruelty.

Korzen, a Chicago Transit Authority worker, will pay $25 a week child support for their two children, Dolores, 12, and Michael, 11. The Korzens married Nov. 27, 1937 and separated April 26, 1954.

When the divorce suit first came up Judge Cornelius Harrington suggested a weight-reducing program as a possible marriage saver because of the couple's frequent arguments over her weight. Her goal was her bridal day weight of 127 but she never made it.

In conjunction with the county-wide essay contest, sponsored by the National Security committee of the club, the program includes a moving picture on Maryland Civil Defense activities, "Are You Prepared?" Preparations in Allegany County especially to be pointed out include activities of the Ground Observer Corps, the first Rescue Squad, to both of which members belong, and the experimental all-county registration for information and services, undertaken by the club.

To stress the importance of Civil Defense the club is conducting a 250-word essay contest for adults and high school seniors in the county. The subject is "What Civil Defense Means to Me as a Resident of Allegany County." The contest closes April 1. Entries are to be mailed to "Civil Defense Essay Contest," P. O. Polish Gold Question Left Unanswered By Admiral

BOSTON, March 1 (AP)—What ever became of the Bank of Poland's gold?

That's a 60 million dollar question and about the only one that remains unanswered in Rear Adm. Samuel Eliot Morison's newest book published today. It will be the 10th of his 14-volume history of the United States Navy in World War II and is titled "The Atlantic Battle Won."

Poland's gold was strictly a hush-hush affair during the war. As the Germans moved into Poland, the bullion, and much ancient coin, was rushed to France, thence to Dakar, Africa, while Hitler's shoebrush moustache must have twitched like that of a nervous rabbit.

Suddenly two U. S. destroyer escorts were detached from submarine killing chores and while a solitary Senegalais trooper guarded the dockyard gate the golden trove was loaded aboard the Navy craft. One, the Bronstein, was commanded by then Lt. Sheldon H. Kinney, now commander and instructor at Annapolis and editor of Naval Institute Proceedings.

Kinney likes to recall that although only one soldier had guarded the loading, a veritable army rode herd on the transfer from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to the federal reserve bank. He also chuckles over the loading of the gold—slim Senegalais trotted down the gangway with wooden crates balanced on their heads, but required two of his own sturdy crew to carry each box below.

Kinney and his destroyer mates were given no escort — just told to run for it and avoid any fuss with submarines they might encounter.

Navy regulations specify that the skipper of a Navy vessel transporting foreign treasure be cut in for a sizeable share of the same, but this was waived by the commander in chief, then Franklin D. Roosevelt, as it related to Poland's gold.

"That was the closest I'll ever come to being a multimillionaire," says Kinney.

But what has become of the gold? Morison, the seafaring author, thinks it probably is stored at Ft. Knox, awaiting a Polish government of more amiable disposition than the present. Official Washington does some neat figure skating when asked.

Discussing his latest volume in an interview, Morison asserts if World War III comes, "the greatest naval potential of the enemy will be submarines, and our greatest naval potential will be carrier-borne air."

Morison, whose appearance in any theater of operations during the last war was a signal to even the rawest boot that action was impending, gives escort carriers, known to the Navy trade as "jeeps," top billing in the defeat of German U-boats in the Atlantic. He contends they may be one of the most important factors in any future war.

The last war, he says, demonstrated the versatility of the U.S. Navy. "It was able to meet every new trick the Germans pulled, including accoustic torpedoes and snorkel.

"The British came along with us, with great delay. Then they used American gear, American tactics and planes."

Scientist Turns Sunlight Into Ice

PARIS, March 1 (AP)—A French scientist announced today he has found an efficient way to turn sunlight into ice.

Felix Trombe, director of a government laboratory studying solar energy, said he has developed a special refrigerator equipped with a square-yard semicylindrical mirror which can produce two pounds of ice an hour.

A spokesman for the French Science Academy said the Russians earlier had developed a "sun-refrigerator," but never obtained this result. The Russian refrigerator has a mobile mirror while Trombe's is stationary.

Trombe's refrigerator captures the sun rays and concentrates them on an ammonia-filled tank.

Nip Qualifications Slightly Different

KUMAMOTO, Japan, March 1 (AP)—A Kumamoto taxi company guarantees a job to any young man who meets these qualifications—flabby build, moon face, pimples, broad nails and a liking for lukewarm water.

Company officials explained experience has shown persons with such attributes make ideal employes.

"A round face and generous distribution of flesh are sure-fire guarantees of a reliable character," they said. "Pimples indicate health and a cheerful disposition.

"Broad nails and a liking for lukewarm water reflect generosity, diligence, endurance and a broad smile."

Paraguay President Plans New Deal He Hopes Will Keep Him In Power

ASUNCION, Paraguay, March 1 (AP)—The leaders of the Colorado party—the rulers of poor but proud Paraguay—will gather in convention next Sunday to hear their boss expound the new deal he hopes will keep him in power.

Winds of discontent have been howling around the presidential palace where mustachioed Gen. Alfredo Strossner has been established as chief executive for a little more than a year. They have been at near gale force several times since Juan D. Peron, long a friend of Stroessner, fell in Argentina.

Paraguay—like Argentina under Peron—has a one-party regime, a completely controlled press, a rigged economy and strongarm punishment for any opposition to the government. What the country needs more than a political revolution, perhaps, is an economic policy which may salvage his reign.

Paraguay, an inland country in the heart of South America, has been plagued by generations of bad luck, disastrous wars and ruthless leaders.

Its territory is about the size of California, but its population is little more than 1½ millions. Its natural resources—virgin soil, probable oil reserves, iron, potential water power and vast forrests—are scarcely touched.

Paraguay imports food which it should produce and export. This is one capital without a water system. There are only 75 miles of paved road in the whole country.

Stroessner has named a daring and imaginative engineer to head the Central Bank. This ex-mayor of Asuncion and former public works minister is Gustavo Storm, the son of a German immigrant. He succeeds Epifanio Mendez Fleitas, who made the sad error of tying Paraguay's economy to Peron's, then challenged Stroessner when the president cooled to the deposed Argentine dictator. Mendez Fleitas was hustled out of the country on a vague "cultural mission" to Europe, but he may be back.

Storm must cope with the wreckage. Mendez Fleitas, for example, clamped government controls on the nation's beef industry and kept prices ridiculously low. The result was that cattle raisers kept their stock on the range or smuggled it into Brazil at a rate of about 150,000 head a year.

The former bank chief's policies throttled other industries and whittled Paraguay's foreign trade. Pleas for industrial tool imports were rejected, but new U. S. cash poured in, most allotted to army officers Mendez Fleitas cultivated. An expert has figured the bank will be lucky to get back 10 percent of the easy loans granted to generals and politicians.

"Rattle" Mission

KYOTO, Japan, March 1 (AP)—Mayor Giro Takayama after a U.S. tour promised he would send a city employe to the United States each year to "conduct research promoting the well-being of our citizens." Now he has sent the first one—"to get the newest ideas from America on how to eliminate that rattle from our city streetcars and trains."

Poland's gold was strictly a hush-hush affair during the war. As the Germans moved into Poland, the bullion, and much ancient coin, was rushed to France, thence to Dakar, Africa, while Hitler's shoebrush moustache must have twitched like that of a nervous rabbit.

Suddenly two U. S. destroyer escorts were detached from submarine killing chores and while a solitary Senegalais trooper guarded the dockyard gate the golden trove was loaded aboard the Navy craft. One, the Bronstein, was commanded by then Lt. Sheldon H. Kinney, now commander and instructor at Annapolis and editor of Naval Institute Proceedings.

Kinney likes to recall that although only one soldier had guarded the loading, a veritable army rode herd on the transfer from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to the federal reserve bank. He also chuckles over the loading of the gold—slim Senegalais trotted down the gangway with wooden crates balanced on their heads, but required two of his own sturdy crew to carry each box below.

Kinney and his destroyer mates were given no escort — just told to run for it and avoid any fuss with submarines they might encounter.

Navy regulations specify that the skipper of a Navy vessel transporting foreign treasure be cut in for a sizeable share of the same, but this was waived by the commander in chief, then Franklin D. Roosevelt, as it related to Poland's gold.

"That was the closest I'll ever come to being a multimillionaire," says Kinney.

But what has become of the gold? Morison, the seafaring author, thinks it probably is stored at Ft. Knox, awaiting a Polish government of more amiable disposition than the present. Official Washington does some neat figure skating when asked.

Discussing his latest volume in an interview, Morison asserts if World War III comes, "the greatest naval potential of the enemy will be submarines, and our greatest naval potential will be carrier-borne air."

Morison, whose appearance in any theater of operations during the last war was a signal to even the rawest boot that action was impending, gives escort carriers, known to the Navy trade as "jeeps," top billing in the defeat of German U-boats in the Atlantic. He contends they may be one of the most important factors in any future war.

The last war, he says, demonstrated the versatility of the U.S. Navy. "It was able to meet every new trick the Germans pulled, including accoustic torpedoes and snorkel.

"The British came along with us, with great delay. Then they used American gear, American tactics and planes."

Scientist Turns Sunlight Into Ice

PARIS, March 1 (AP)—A French scientist announced today he has found an efficient way to turn sunlight into ice.

Felix Trombe, director of a government laboratory studying solar energy, said he has developed a special refrigerator equipped with a square-yard semicylindrical mirror which can produce two pounds of ice an hour.

A spokesman for the French Science Academy said the Russians earlier had developed a "sun-refrigerator," but never obtained this result. The Russian refrigerator has a mobile mirror while Trombe's is stationary.

Trombe's refrigerator captures the sun rays and concentrates them on an ammonia-filled tank.

Nip Qualifications Slightly Different

KUMAMOTO, Japan, March 1 (AP)—A Kumamoto taxi company guarantees a job to any young man who meets these qualifications—flabby build, moon face, pimples, broad nails and a liking for lukewarm water.

Company officials explained experience has shown persons with such attributes make ideal employes.

"A round face and generous distribution of flesh are sure-fire guarantees of a reliable character," they said. "Pimples indicate health and a cheerful disposition.

"Broad nails and a liking for lukewarm water reflect generosity, diligence, endurance and a broad smile."

Paraguay President Plans New Deal He Hopes Will Keep Him In Power

ASUNCION, Paraguay, March 1 (AP)—The leaders of the Colorado Party—the rulers of poor but proud Paraguay—will gather in convention next Sunday to hear their boss expound the new deal he hopes will keep him in power.

Winds of discontent have been howling around the presidential palace where mustachioed Gen. Alfredo Strossner has been established as chief executive for a little more than a year. They have been at near gale force several times since Juan D. Peron, long a friend of Stroessner, fell in Argentina.

Paraguay—like Argentina under Peron—has a one-party regime, a completely controlled press, a rigged economy and strongarm punishment for any opposition to the government. What the country needs more than a political revolution, perhaps, is an economic policy which may salvage his reign.

Paraguay, an inland country in the heart of South America, has been plagued by generations of bad luck, disastrous wars and ruthless leaders.

Its territory is about the size of California, but its population is little more than 1½ millions. Its natural resources—virgin soil, probable oil reserves, iron, potential water power and vast forrests—are scarcely touched.

Paraguay imports food which it should produce and export. This is one capital without a water system. There are only 75 miles of paved road in the whole country.

Stroessner has named a daring and imaginative engineer to head the Central Bank. This ex-mayor of Asuncion and former public works minister is Gustavo Storm, the son of a German immigrant. He succeeds Epifanio Mendez Fleitas, who made the sad error of tying Paraguay's economy to Peron's, then challenged Stroessner when the president cooled to the deposed Argentine dictator. Mendez Fleitas was hustled out of the country on a vague "cultural mission" to Europe, but he may be back.

Storm must cope with the wreckage. Mendez Fleitas, for example, clamped government controls on the nation's beef industry and kept prices ridiculously low. The result was that cattle raisers kept their stock on the range or smuggled it into Brazil at a rate of about 150,000 head a year.

The former bank chief's policies throttled other industries and whittled Paraguay's foreign trade. Pleas for industrial tool imports were rejected, but new U. S. cash poured in, most allotted to army officers Mendez Fleitas cultivated. An expert has figured the bank will be lucky to get back 10 per cent of the easy loans granted to generals and politicians.

"Rattle" Mission

KYOTO, Japan, March 1 (AP)—Mayor Giro Takayama after a U.S. tour promised he would send a city employe to the United States each year to "conduct research promoting the well-being of our citizens." Now he has sent the first one—"to get the newest ideas from America on how to eliminate that rattle from our city streetcars and trains."

Old Deeds Confirm City's Right To Blue Spring Site

The rights of the City of Cumberland to Blue Spring appear to be confirmed by a deed recorded in the land records of Allegany County 69 years ago.

The document, dated May 31, 1897, conveys water rights from Ernest F. Jahn, et ux, to the Payne Spring Tanning Company.

The lease, effective as of August 1, 1897, was renewable every 15 years thereafter and called for annual rentals of $15 annually for water privileges.

The water rights conveyance stipulated that in the event the tannery should cease to use water, the lease should become void.

In 1909, however, the City of Cumberland acquired title to Blue Spring, and there is no record that the Payne Spring Tanning Company or its successors had ever renewed the lease or paid any rent for water rights.

City officials said it appears that the water rights have been abandoned.

Information concerning the investigation has been forwarded to the Buchanan Lumber Company, present owner of the old tannery property.

The investigation was made in view of the fact that the flood wall to be built along Wills Creek will destroy the company's access to the spring.

The water has not been used since the tannery, operated by the U. S. Leather Company, closed during World War II.

North Centre Street Property Is Sold

Property on the northeast side of North Centre Street between Bedford and Frederick streets has been sold, according to a deed filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Dr. John A. Stehley and Donald W. Mason, executors of the estate of Ada L. Miller, sold the property, located opposite City Hall, to George F. Hazelwood Jr. and Ethel M. Hazelwood, his wife.

Another recorded deed listed the sale by Hale C. Burgess of property on the southeast corner of Williams Street and Greenway Avenue to John Joseph Harvey and Freeda V. Harvey. J. Wallace Close and Gladys M. Close have sold property on the northeast side of McMullen Highway in Cresaptown to Wallace D. Liller and Charles O. Liller.

Equity Suits Filed

Three equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Helen M. Rosley vs. Albert Rosley Jr., Patricia J. Long, minor, by her father and next friend, Conrad E. Brookley vs. Eldridge Long Jr., and Emma Mae Brown vs. Edward S. Brown.

Firemen's Association To Meet On Sunday

The Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association will meet at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Mt. Savage Fire Hall, according to Delbert Valentine of North Branch, president.

Requests for tickets for the association's annual smoker, to be held April 21 in Lonaconing, will be accepted.

Firemen Answer 2 Calls

Firemen answered two minor alarms yesterday, one at noon when a flue fire was reported at 1305 Michigan Avenue, and the second last night when a short circuit in a taxicab at Memorial Hospital was extinguished.

On The Line

NEW YORK, March 1 (INS) — At least one of Adlai Stevenson's Democratic friends ain't.

The self-appointed front man for the Democratic Party's titular head ran interference for easy-going Adlai as they left the maisonette at Hotel St. Regis early Wednesday morning about yawning time. Bandleader Milt Shaw's music had drawn the lively candidate to the floor repeatedly. During one dance, Stevenson stopped and talked for a time with the talented leader and recalled that they had played tennis together 25 years ago.

As Stevenson left the place, convoyed by the friend, Shaw strolled beside him and asked him to autograph a menu. Stevenson sat down at a table and started to do so, but the friend was indignant. Turning on Shaw the guy said, angrily: "A handshake was enough!"

Eisenhower's decision brought a fierce shout of triumph from Marty Snyder, a local boned-turkey tycoon who was once his mess sergeant and certainly his loudest supporter.

The former sergeant worships the ground Ike walks and has from the time he was assigned to the general's headquatrers near London in 1942. They've seen a lot of each other since.

Marty's book, "My Friend Ike" which has just hit the stores (the publisher is Frederick Fell and Co.) bespeaks that affection. It is a comparatively new view of Eisenhower. Rotund, cheerful Marty's unsuccessful efforts to be elected to Congress in '54, despite Eisenhower's backing, should interest the deeper-domed biographers browsing in the meagre fields of the President's activities in politicking.

Now that Marty has joined the literati, let me apologize for helping to have him heaved out of Philadelphia in 1948 when for days and nights on end his jeep, parked in front of the Bellevue Stratford during the big political conventions, blared forth with:

"We want Eisenhower for president
From every state a million voices calls
We want Eisenhower for president
Not for patrisan clan, but for all."

P.S. — The cops chased Marty at the request of sleepless reporters. But Marty's boy made it.

Somebody in the UN should look into the sensational revelations recently made by a Soviet escapee who claims he and many other Russians served in Korea in Red Chinese uniforms. If true, and there seems to be no reason to doubt the man's credentials, isn't this the hottest potato that has confronted the world organization since it made up its mind to declare North Korea the aggressor?

The man is Victor Semenovich Ilyinsky, an animal trainer who jumped the train carrying the Moscow circus about Europe. He turned himself over to West German authorities. An organization named International Research on Communist Techniques, Inc., formerly the political research project, now has him in tow.

Ilyinsky says that "most of the air corps" on the Communist side in Korea was composed of Soviet fliers, that there were a great many Soviet military advisors, and that all equipment was Soviet although disguised with Chinese insignia. All Soviet officers and men wore Chinese uniforms. The seed of defection was sown in him one day during the war when he heard Molotov say on the radio that there was not one Soviet soldier on Korean soil, Ilyinsky relates. What burned him was that he heard the broadcast in Korea while serving as a communications officer on a Soviet plane.

Worried about your grammar? So is Ike. One of his few smiles at the press conference the other day came as he cautioned reporters not to quote him directly until Jim Hagerty could clean up the syntax.

NEW YORK, March 1 (INS) — At least one of Adlai Stevenson's Democratic friends ain't.

The self-appointed front man for the Democratic Party's titular head ran interference for easy-going Adlai as they left the maisonette at Hotel St. Regis early Wednesday morning about yawning time. Bandleader Milt Shaw's music had drawn the lively candidate to the floor repeatedly. During one dance, Stevenson stopped and talked for a time with the talented leader and recalled that they had played tennis together 25 years ago.

As Stevenson left the place, convoyed by the friend, Shaw strolled beside him and asked him to autograph a menu. Stevenson sat down at a table and started to do so but the friend was indignant. Turning on Shaw the guy said, angrily:

"A handshake was enough!"

Eisenhower's decision brought a fierce shout of triumph from Marty Snyder, a local boned-turkey tycoon who was once his mess sergeant and certainly his loudest supporter.

The former sergeant worships the ground Ike walks and has from the time he was assigned to the general's headquatrers near London in 1942. They've seen a lot of each other since.

Marty's book, "My Friend Ike" which has just hit the stores (the publisher is Frederick Fell and Co.) bespeaks that affection. It is a comparatively new view of Eisenhower. Rotund, cheerful Marty's unsuccessful efforts to be elected to Congress in '54, despite Eisenhower's backing, should interest the deeper-domed biographers browsing in the meagre fields of the President's activities in politicking.

Now that Marty has joined the literati, let me apologize for helping to have him heaved out of Philadelphia in 1948 when for days and nights on end his jeep, parked in front of the Bellevue Stratford during the big political conventions, blared forth with:

"We want Eisenhower for president
From every state a million voices calls
We want Eisenhower for president
Not for patrisan clan, but for all."

P.S. — The cops chased Marty at the request of sleepless reporters. But Marty's boy made it.

Somebody in the UN should look into the sensational revelations recently made by a Soviet escapee who claims he and many other Russians served in Korea in Red Chinese uniforms. If true, and there seems to be no reason to doubt the man's credentials, isn't this the hottest potato that has confronted the world organization since it made up its mind to declare North Korea the aggressor?

The man is Victor Semenovich Ilyinsky, an animal trainer who jumped the train carrying the Moscow circus about Europe. He turned himself over to West German authorities. An organization named International Research on Communist Techniques, Inc., formerly the political research project, now has him in tow.

Ilyinsky says that "most of the air corps" on the Communist side in Korea was composed of Soviet fliers, that there were a great many Soviet military advisors, and that all equipment was Soviet although disguised with Chinese insignia. All Soviet officers and men wore Chinese uniforms. The seed of defection was sown in him one day during the war when he heard Molotov say on the radio that there was not one Soviet soldier on Korean soil, Ilyinsky relates. Panama Gives Peron Refuge And Warning

PANAMA, March 1 (AP)—Panama gave Juan D. Peron, ex-dictator of Argentina, a special residence permit yesterday with a warning not to engage in politics.

He was declared a political refugee under Panama's traditional recognition of the right of asylum, the government said.

Peron had asked for a one-year permit shortly after he arrived last November ostensibly en route to Nicaragua. Instead, he got a special permit that can be withdrawn at any time.

Peron last week was ordered out of the U.S.-owned Hotel Washington at Colon. The U.S. State Department acted after objections were raised in Congress to allowing Peron to stay on U.S. property.

Peron moved out of the hotel Monday into a new two-bedroom apartment around a corner from the U.S. Embassy offices here.

Panama Gives Peron Refuge And Warning

PANAMA, March 1 (AP)—Panama gave Juan D. Peron, ex-dictator of Argentina, a special residence permit yesterday with a warning not to engage in politics.

He was declared a political refugee under Panama's traditional recognition of the right of asylum, the government said.

Peron had asked for a one-year permit shortly after he arrived last November ostensibly en route to Nicaragua. Instead, he got a special permit that can be withdrawn at any time.

Peron last week was ordered out of the U.S.-owned Hotel Washington at Colon. The U.S. State Department acted after objections were raised in Congress to allowing Peron to stay on U.S. property.

Peron moved out of the hotel Monday into a new two-bedroom apartment around a corner from the U.S. Embassy offices here.

Break Ground Next Week On Water Plant

Richards Named Project Inspector

WESTERNPORT— Ground will be broken on Westernport's new filtration plant about the middle of next week. Harry M. Richards, Water Commissioner of the Town will be the resident inspector of the plant and water tanks.

Commissioner Richards was appointed to that position at the regular meeting of Mayor Okey E. Michael and Town Commissioners Wednesday. The appointment also stated that Mr. Richards will receive a salary of $110 a week until the project is completed.

The engineering firm of the town Glace and Glace of Harrisburg, Pa. recommended that an inspector be employed while the work is being done. Richards is well qualified for the job, is a retired construction foreman of the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. His knowledge of construction work has helped him in building street and bridge projects.

Mayor Michael stated in employing a local man will save the town money.

Richards stated his job gives him the authority to stop any work but not to change any of the plans.

The letter from Glace and Glace stated in part "As consulting engineers we would expect to provide the normal supervision of construction, prepare all certificates for payment of monthly reports, approve equipment drawings and make periodic visits to the project."

A public ceremony will be held when the work is begun on the filtration plant located on Chestnut Street in Westernport.

Before the work is started a meeting of the George Construction Company of Cumberland; Roberts Filter Manufacturing Company, Darby, Pa. and Chicago Bridge and Iron Company will meet with the Mayor and Commissioners.

Selective Service Schedules College Qualification Tests

FROSTBURG—Colonel Henry C. Stanwood, Maryland director of Selective Service, reminded students that application blanks for the April 19, Selective Service college qualification test must be postmarked not later than midnight, Monday, March 5, 1956. The test will be given at approximately 1,000 testing centers located throughout the United States and its territories.

The testing centers in the state of Maryland are: St. John's College, Annapolis, John Hopkins University, Baltimore, Loyola College, Baltimore, Morgan State College, Baltimore, University of Baltimore, Baltimore, Washington College, Chestertown, University of Maryland, College Park, Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Hagerstown Junior College, Hagerstown, Maryland State Teachers College, Salisbury, Maryland State Teachers College, Towson, Western Maryland College, Westminster.

Colonel Stanwood urges all students who have not previously taken the test to take the April 19 test so they will have a test score on file at their local boards before the end of their academic year, at which time their boards reopen and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be again deferred as students. The April 19 test is the last test scheduled for this spring.

A student may obtain an application from any Selective Service Local Board. "It is not necessary to obtain the application from the student's own local board," Stanwood said.

Students will mail applications for the April 19 test to Science Research Associates, Chicago, Ill., in preaddressed envelopes which will be given to registrants by local boards. Bulletins of information concerning the test are also available to the local boards.

To be eligible to apply for the test, the student must (1) Intend to request deferment as a student; (2) Be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction; and (3) Have not previously taken the college qualification test.

Undergraduate students making a grade of 70 or above on the test or maintaining grades which place them in specified percentages of their classes, may be considered for educational deferment by their local boards.

Students accepted for admission to or in attendance at a graduate school are also considered for deferment on the basis of the score made on this test, or on their class standing during the last full-time undergraduate academic year at college.

A student deferment is not an exemption. "A deferment is a delay or postponement and in no way cancels the responsibility of the registrant to serve two years active duty. In fact, it automatically extends his age liability to 35," Stanwood pointed out.

Sgt. Hall Is Commissioned

KEYSER — The fourth officer to come up through the ranks of Battery C, 201st Armored Field Artillery Battalion of the West Virginia National Guard, was recently commissioned. Former Sgt. Myron K. Hull received his 2nd lieutenant's bar this week at a regular meeting of the battery at the American Legion home in Moorefield.

Hull enlisted in Tank Company, 150th Infantry Regiment in 1950 and has worked to get his commission through the National Guard. He is a graduate of Buckhannon-Upshur High School, at Buckhannon. He enrolled at W. Va. Wesleyan College in 1949 and majored in mathmetics. He was graduated in 1954. He is married and is teaching at Petersburg High School. He attended Artillery and Guided Missile School during the summer of 1955 at Fort Sill, Okla.

Commenting on Sgt. Hull's promotion to lieutenant, Captain William L. Gardner, commander of Battery C, said: "It is a fine example of the advantages and opportunities afforded men who are members of the National Guard and can qualify for commissions in the service."

Break Ground Next Week On Water Plant

Richards Named Project Inspector

WESTERNPORT— Ground will be broken on Westernport's new filtration plant about the middle of next week, Harry M. Richards, Water Commissioner of the Town will be the resident inspector of the plant and water tanks.

Commissioner Richards was appointed to that position at the regular meeting of Mayor Okey E. Michael and Town Commissioners Wednesday. The appointment also stated that Mr. Richards will receive a salary of $110 a week until the project is completed.

The engineering firm of the town Glace and Glace of Harrisburg, Pa. recommended that an inspector be employed while the work is being done. Richards is well qualified for the job, is a retired construction foreman of the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. His knowledge of construction work has helped him in building street and bridge projects.

Mayor Michael stated in employing a local man will save the town money.

Richards stated his job gives him the authority to stop any work but not to change any of the plans.

The letter from Glace and Glace stated in part "As consulting engineers we would expect to provide the normal supervision of construction, prepare all certificates for payment of monthly reports, approve equipment drawings and make periodic visits to the project."

A public ceremony will be held when the work is begun on the filtration plant located on Chestnut Street in Westernport.

Before the work is started a meeting of the George Construction Company of Cumberland; Roberts Filter Manufacturing Company, Darby, Pa. and Chicago Bridge and Iron Company will meet with the Mayor and Commissioners.

Selective Service Schedules College Qualification Tests

FROSTBURG—Colonel Henry C. Stanwood, Maryland director of Selective Service, reminded students that application blanks for the April 19, Selective Service college qualification test must be postmarked not later than midnight, Monday, March 5, 1956. The test will be given at approximately 1,000 testing centers located throughout the United States and its territories.

The testing centers in the state of Maryland are: St. John's College, Annapolis, John Hopkins University, Baltimore, Loyola College, Baltimore, Morgan State College, Baltimore, University of Baltimore, Baltimore, Washington College, Chestertown, University of Maryland, College Park, Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Hagerstown Junior College, Hagerstown, Maryland State Teachers College, Salisbury, Maryland State Teachers College, Towson, Western Maryland College, Westminster.

Colonel Stanwood urges all students who have not previously taken the test to take the April 19 test so they will have a test score on file at their local boards before the end of their academic year, at which time their boards reopen and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be again deferred as students. The April 19 test is the last test scheduled for this spring.

A student may obtain an application from any Selective Service Local Board. "It is not necessary to obtain the application from the student's own local board," Stanwood said.

Students will mail applications for the April 19 test to Science Research Associates, Chicago, Ill., in preaddressed envelopes which will be given to registrants by local boards. Bulletins of information concerning the test are also available to the local boards.

To be eligible to apply for the test, the student must (1) Intend to request deferment as a student; (2) Be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction; and (3) Have not previously taken the college qualification test.

Undergraduate students making a grade of 70 or above on the test or maintaining grades which place them in specified percentages of their classes, may be considered for educational deferment by their local boards.

Students accepted for admission to or in attendance at a graduate school are also considered for deferment on the basis of the score made on this test, or on their class standing during the last full-time undergraduate academic year at college.

A student deferment is not an exemption. "A deferment is a delay or postponement and in no way cancels the responsibility of the registrant to serve two years active duty. In fact, it automatically extends his age liability to 35," Stanwood pointed out.

Sgt. Hall Is Commissioned

KEYSER — The fourth officer to come up through the ranks of Battery C, 201st Armored Field Artillery Battalion of the West Virginia National Guard, was recently commissioned. Former Sgt. Myron K. Hull received his 2nd lieutenant's bar this week at a regular meeting of the battery at the American Legion home in Moorefield.

Hull enlisted in Tank Company, 150th Infantry Regiment in 1950 and has worked to get his commission through the National Guard. He is a graduate of Buckhannon-Upshur High School, at Buckhannon. He enrolled at W. Va. Wesleyan College in 1949 and majored in mathmetics. He was graduated in 1954. He is married and is teaching at Petersburg High School. He attended Artillery and Guided Missile School during the summer of 1955 at Fort Sill, Okla.

Commenting on Sgt. Hull's promotion to lieutenant, Captain William L. Gardner, commander of Battery C, said: "It is a fine example of the advantages and opportunities afforded men who are members of the National Guard and can qualify for commissions in the service."

Westernport Will Recall Three Bonds

Council Studies Traffic Problems

WESTERNPORT—Bonds number 79, 82 and 89 for $1,000 each due May 1 were drawn at the meeting of Mayor Okey E. Michael and Commissioners of Westernport Wednesday evening. Louis W. Hicks, acting clerk, was ordered to place an advertisement in the Cumberland papers recalling the bonds.

The return of parking meters to Church Street was ruled out by the Mayor and Commissioners.

After Municipal Parking Lot No. 2 was placed in operation on the Western Maryland Railway Company's lot which the town leased, the street meters were removed.

Ellsworth Boal, local funeral director recently appeared before the city officials and stated that he had observed since taking the meters off of the street there is more speeding on the street, making it hazardous for pedestrians to cross.

The hazardous traffic condition on Maryland Avenue was discussed. Council decided to make further investigation as they felt something should be done to relieve the situation.

Victory Post No. 155, American Legion was granted permission to hold a street carnival the week of May 28 to June 2 in the vicinity of the legion home.

It was stipulated in the motion that residents living on Railroad Street will have access to their homes and after the carnival closes at night, automobile owners will be able to take their automobiles to their homes and garages and fire trucks will be able to get through in case of fire.

Highway Projects In Area Will Keep Crews Busy This Season

By the time spring rolls around this month, there will be nine road and bridge construction jobs going full swing in this section.

Contractors are waiting only for the go-ahead signal from the State Roads Commission that the ground is suitable for working.

One of the big projects will be the relocation and modernization of Route 40 on the east slope of [illegible]'s Mountain. The Bero Construction Company of Hampden, Va., was awarded the contract for the three-mile stretch.

Keely Construction Company of Clarksburg will finish up the Little Savage Mountain project where Route 40 has been straightened and the Finzel Road has been bridged across the National Highway. The contractor has only to lay stone and put on the blacktop surface.

The Keely firm also will go back to the work on Route 219 along Deep Creek Lake. Traffic was maintained this winter by a State Roads Commission crew.

The George F. Hazelwood Company of this city will resume its work on Route 135 toward Deer Park, and will begin activity on the erection of an approach and overhead bridge over the B&O Railroad to the North Branch Plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

The Cumberland Contracting Company has a project on Route 220 south of Rawlings which will eliminate a bad curve.

The S. T. Brotemarkle Company of this city is all lined up for the new intersection of Route 40 and Route 36 at the west end of the Narrows. This job calls for a bridge across Braddock Run. Route 36, when SRC plans are completed, will go along the south side of the Western Maryland Railway.

The Case Construction Company of Mt. Airy will resume work on the bridge at Bloomington that will carry Route 135 over the B&O Railroad tracks.

The Case firm has not stopped work on the Market Street Bridge, except during the most inclement weather conditions this winter.

The State Roads Commission will open bids on March 20 for the construction of a bridge across Town Creek on Route 40 about 14 miles east of here, and for 2.65 miles of new roadway on Route 135 up Backbone Mountain from Bloomington.

The first tea farm in America was at Sommerville, S. C.

Gronchi Visits U. S. To Gain Prestige

Why is the president of Italy visiting the United States? It's the old question—"What's in it for me?"—turned around, and it's always asked in Washington when presidents, potentates, and political leaders come visiting. The answer in the case of Giovanni Gronchi would appear to be—prestige.

The answer has been most baldly stated by the magazine The Reporter which, in a severely critical study of the role of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, U. S. ambassador to Italy, implies that she treated Gronchi's election as a defeat for U. S. interests in Italy. The State Department invitation to Gronchi, the magazine says flatly, was "a move toward reconciliation."

Without accepting that point of view, one can see why Gronchi is a visitor to be cultivated. For one thing, Pietro Nenni, leader of the Italian left-wing Socialist party, on February 19 offered what appeared to be a truce in Italian politics until Gronchi has had a chance to impress the United States.

Italy is a peculiarly sensitive area from an American point of view, especially since Nikita S. Khrushchev, chief of the Soviet Communist party, on February 14 outlined a new policy of using parliamentary institutions to achieve revolution. With municipal elections due in June, Italian officials are eager to settle the unrest caused in that country by severe storms and bitter cold.

President Gronchi heads a nation which has one of the largest, numerically and proportionately, Communist parties in Europe. The party on January 8 reported its membership at more than 2,145,000.

Gronchi was elected by the Council of Deputies and the Senate on April 29, with 658 of 833 possible votes. A Christian Democrat and president of the Chamber since 1948, Gronchi was opposed by Mario Scelba, then premier of Italy, on the ground that he was too friendly with leftists.

When Scelba was forced to resign, in June, Gronchi asked another Christian Democrat, Prof. Antonio Segni, to explore the prospects of a left-of-center government. Nevertheless, the cabinet formed by Segni on July 6 was similar in personnel and policy to that of Scelba.

Italy is allied with the United States in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Italians in general seem grateful for U. S. aid in gaining entrance into the United Nations. In the general elections of 1948 and 1953 Americans were urged to write relatives and friends in Italy to support candidates "sworn to uphold Christian Democracy" —in other words, the Christian Democrats.

In the 1953 elections the Christian Democrats and their partners—Republicans, Social Democrats, Liberals—lost their safe majority in the Chamber of Deputies, winding up with an edge of only 16 seats. In the opposition were 143 Communists, also 75 left-wing Socialists. On the right were 40 Monarchists and 29 Neo-Fascists. Although he is not primarily a policy-maker — that role is Segni's — Gronchi appears to have been steering a cautious course between the extremes in his divided nation.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Released!

We, Americans, used to be a very sentimental people. We opened shows, dances, meetings with a patriotic anthem like "The Star-Spangled Banner" and closed with "Home, Sweet Home." At dances that was the signal to clear out. The orchestra put its instruments away and the lights began to be put out and soon everybody was on the way home. It was quite a simple, sentimental and unsophisticated world and it was not so long ago because I can remember it and I am not that old.

Today I feel very young and chipper for I have been released from the hospital and am back home among the people and things I know best and am accustomed to. My doctors sure gave me a tough time toward the end. As I told the one who has looked after me for a quarter of a century, he must be trying to make a federal case out of it.

One of the side effects of this kind of illness is that a person becomes too concerned with his physical body, with himself. A kind of egocentricity sets in. Every ache, every pain, everything physical becomes a matter of primary importance, when the truth is that human life on this planet has gone on with or without us for so long that the significance of any one individual is not as great as we like to believe.

And that one discovers best within a few minutes after one has arrived home. In the hospital, the sick man is the center of attention of a host of persons, doctors, nurses, technicians, even dietitians. When one gets home, there is a functioning, continuing household. Things have gone along during one's illness as they had to. Children must go to school. The dog must be walked. And in a well-run family; they get along without hysteria when it looks as though the old man might die. In a family which knows and practises religion, death is not feared for they trust in God. Such families find great comfort in such beliefs. They also have faith in each other and therefore face crises without hopelessness.

So one returns to such an environment not the center of all creation but as a member of a family. Joe, the dog, was speechless to see me. He had been told that I would return. Uncertain, he had begun not to wag his tail so violently at the mention of my name. But dogs do know by that subconscious sense which humans have too if they permit themselves to believe that what they call a hunch is often that inner experience speaking loudly and understandably.

And so, one goes back to life. Those early hours of a heart attack, when one is between and betwixt, are not the most difficult. It is when one wants to show off, when one forgets that his life has just been spared and that it is not necessary to prove to the world that a Samson-like physical endurance is evidence of anything. Samson never thought as well as Aristotle nor was his morality as noble as St. Francis, but he could push marble columns by sheer physical strength and bring the roof down on his own head. So he brought the roof down on his head! A great achievement!

As I lay on the hospital bed reading about Ike's feats of endurance in the company of George Humphrey, I wondered if it took as much out of a man to hit a golf ball or shoot a quail as it does to make a correct decision which will affect the lives of millions of human beings.

Courage, The Doctor's On The Way

Superior Oil Company Paid No Taxes In 1954, But Received Tax Credits

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The more you look into the Superior Oil Company and the Keck family which tried to give that $2,500 to Senator Case, the more amazing the picture becomes.

Senate investigators have just discovered that Superior Oil Company not only paid zero income taxes in 1953 and 1954, but actually made money in the form of tax credits under the special tax laws written for the benefit of the oil industry.

This may explain why Superior's free-spending president, Bill Keck, was able to throw political contributions around.

All other corporations have been paying 52 per cent of their net income as taxes since 1952. Yet the rich oil companies have been paying next to nothing because of depletion allowances and other tax loopholes.

Keck's company earned $10,260,388 net income in 1954. But believe it or not, after all the tax deductions were added, the government ended up owing the company $100,000 in tax credits. The company's tax returns for 1953 were even more incredible. Its net income before taxes was $12,500,382. The net income after taxes was $13,000,382—or $500,000 more than the original income. Again, the government paid off this half-million in the form of tax credits.

In other words, oil companies are the only corporations that can end a year with a huge income and collect taxes from the government instead of the other way around.

Bad Times Under Democrats

In 1952, when Truman was in office, Superior didn't do as well. Out of a $12,100,165 income, the company actually paid the government $200,000. However, this was only 1.6 per cent of its income while companies in other industries were paying 52 per cent.

The highest tax Superior has paid in the past 10 years was $3,000,000 in 1948, also under Truman. This was only 16.7 per cent, however, of a $17,917,474 income. In 1946, Superior again paid absolutely no income tax. Most often, the payment has amounted to a paltry $200,000, which happened to be the figure for 1949, 1950 and 1952.

By paying only token taxes, the oil companies have been able to raise more money to lobby for more tax loopholes. These, in turn, have freed more money to lobby for still more loopholes—a merry, profitable merry-go-round for the oil boys. But it's the small taxpayers who are really financing the oil lobby, since they have to make up the taxes the oil companies don't pay.

Oil vs. Wildlife

What the oil-gas companies have been getting out of the Ike administration continues to unfold with exciting drama. I owe an apology for underestimating this generosity in the past.

On January 11, 1956, I revealed for the first time how "Generous Doug" McKay had bowed to Maj. Gen. Frank Schwengel, president of Seagram's Whisky, and granted drilling rights in the Lacassine Waterfowl Refuge of Louisiana to Seagram's Frankfort Oil Company.

I also reported that, prior to this, McKay had placed a stop order against oil permits in game preserves. This was wrong. And I apologize for underestimating McKay's generosity.

For, during the fall of 1953, "Generous Doug" issued 53 oil and gas leases to the Shell Oil Company in the Railroad Valley Game Management area of Nevada.

Hundreds of small wildcatters abandoned their applications during McKay's alleged "stop order." They took McKay at his word, thought no leases were processed while that order was on the books from August 31, 1953, to December 2, 1955. However, a potent company, Shell Oil, got closer to McKay than the others and secured 53 leases.

This was developed during testimony before the House Marine and Fisheries Committee.

"After all, he (McKay) had issued the stop order, and he had the right to change the stop order if he wanted to," testified Donald J. Chaney, Interior Department lawyer for Fish and Wildlife.

"Did he give any notice of lifting the stop order?" asked Chairman Herbert Bonner of North Carolina.

"No, not that I know of," replied Chaney, "no public notice."

"So that other people who wanted to get this property could come in and make the same claim?"

"Not that I know of," Chaney admitted.

Next day Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.) pointed out that during McKay's so-called "stop order," a total of 60 oil and gas leases had been issued. By contrast, only 16 leases had previously been issued during the entire 55-year history of wildlife refuges.

"It is well said," declared Reuss, referring to the stop order, "that what the secretary hath given, the secretary can take away. And what the secretary was doing when he granted these leases was just pro tanto amending the stop order.

"I suggest that this really is not a very good way to run a government department; that when we want to repeal an order we repeal it in writing, and we duly publicize the repeal so that all men may know what is going on. We do not simply violate the order," Reuss insisted.

Ike Answers One Guessing Game, Sets Up Others

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower ended one guessing game — and involuntarily started another.

Mr. Eisenhower will accept if nominated but who will be his running mate? Will there be just as vigorous a campaign for presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket as before? Is it a sure thing that Ike will be elected?

These questions may get one set of answers in March, and a different set several months from now.

If the election were held tomorrow, Ike would win but not by as big a margin as he did in 1952. For this time he will not carry some of the Southern states he won before. Nor will the Democrats win all of them back, as there is a good possibility of a third bloc—a "State's Rights ticket—being formed to mobilize electoral votes in the South.

Kefauver's Statement Best

The health of the President will be an issue but not as important as the Democrats think. Of all those Democrats who commented on Ike's decision to run, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee made the most sensible and in many respects the best statement from a political standpoint when he said: "I am glad President Eisenhower feels that his health will permit him to make a campaign seeking another four years in the presidency. Having been responsible for the record of the past four years, the President is the best qualified man to defend that record. The campaign can be waged on its merits without mudslinging but with no punches pulled."

This is in good taste and emphasizes that, in America, debate on issues rather than personalities is what counts most with the voters. They resent any effort at personal attack or disparagement of a man's physical condition. The Republicans never made an issue of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's physical handicaps, and the Democrats would be making a grevious mistake if they tried it now with respect to Mr. Eisenhower.

For basically the American people ought to have the right to pick a president for a month or a year or four years and rely on their vice presidential candidate to succeed him if fate wills it.

There will be an effort to "stop Nixon." Some Republicans, with a favorite candidate in their minds, may oppose the vice president's renomination, but most of the noise will come from Democrats and their sympathizers here in Washington. Thus, although Mr. Eisenhower, sticking to political custom, made it clear at Wednesday's press conference that he wouldn't want to announce himself for any vice presidential nominee until he himself has actually become the presidential nominee, this was twisted into an anti-Nixon statement. Yet everybody knows that the man nominated for the presidency can practically decide who his running mate shall be. Mr. Eisenhower went out of his way at the same time to say that his "admiration and respect" for the vice president are "unbounded."

Would Cause Dissension

From a strictly political viewpoint, any effort to eliminate Nixon would cause a cleavage inside the Republican party organizations, where Nixon is strong and where the bulk of the work in the precincts has to be done. That's why the Democrats are so anxious to stimulate dissension in the Republican ranks.

When did the President decide to run? He has wavered for weeks on both sides of the argument. The newspapers have reflected, by means of the verbatim reports of his press conferences, his own doubts and misgivings. But in the last two weeks there has been a definite swing toward the decision he finally made. On February 15 this correspondent wrote:

"Mr. Eisenhower can say to the country: 'I have given you all the facts. My doctors say I can serve a second term. You know the risks as well as I do. If you want to take those risks, I shall be glad to serve you. But if you decide the risks are too great, I shall not be displeased but will attempt to serve you outside of office as conscientiously as I can. But this is a question which it is your privilege to decide, and I shall abide by whatever decision you make.'

"It appears that he will accept if nominated and will serve if elected."

Is Ike a sure thing for re-election? Today's conditions are very favorable. Economic factors and emotional issues decide elections. Ike's popularity today is politically valuable to the Republicans only because there is "peace and prosperity." If adverse conditions such as have existed in the farm areas were to intensify and spread, no amount of personal popularity would save the day for Ike.

What elected Ike in 1952 was the negative vote against the Truman regime on the issues of "Communism, Korea and Corruption." There was a relatively prosperous condition in the country, but emotional issues set up a negative tide.

Warns Against Division

Today the emotional issues favor the Republican side. Peace is a very penetrating issue with the women as well as the men voters. That's why the Democrats in Congress are making a signal error in tactics in their reckless attacks on Secretary of State Dulles. Mr. Eisenhower has just emphasized the perils of a divided government—the mistake the voters made in 1954 in electing a Democratic House and giving an even division to the Senate, which later became Democratic because a Republican turned Democrat and voted with them. Mr. Eisenhower told his historic press conference this week:

"If we are honestly dedicated to a two-party system—that is, to a single-party responsibility in this country—then the legislature and the executive should properly be in the same hands, so that there can be responsibility fixed without crimination and recrimination . . . We should certainly, whenever it is humanly possible, have these groups under the control of the same party."

This is an outright appeal for a Republican Congress at the election in November.

With Ike's announced willingness to serve, his nomination is assured. As for his election, whoever can tell whether the next eight months will continue the mood of the American people the same as it is today, can guess the outcome of the election of both the President and the Congress.

Notes On An Occasion

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

The press conference at which the President first revealed his decision to run again was certainly the greatest political occasion, the most anxiously awaited political moment, that this country has known for a very long time.

In American politics, the great occasions and vivid moments have a way of being a bit flat, for we have always stuck to the republican tradition of the founding fathers, who had a hearty distaste for drama, ceremonial and grandeur in all forms. Old John Adams tried to get the first Congress to give the President the legal title of "Supreme Mightiness;" but Adams was fortunately voted down by a heavy majority. And that, you might say, was the end of that.

Great But Unexciting

The great occasion in the old State Department Treaty Room was a bit flat too, except that it provided the answer the world had been waiting for. Nothing, really, could have been more homely and unexcited than the give-and-take between the pink-faced, smiling, relaxed President and the great crowd of reporters who had come to hear the long-awaited word. Yet it was an occasion worth commemorating, all the same.

The President's advance guard was his television advisor, Robert Montgomery, who inspected the arrangements with an air of self-conscious solemnity. Then, in a deep hush, Dwight D. Eisenhower strode rapidly through the door, and walked, with a quick, springy, self-confident step, to the big desk that he always stands behind at his press conferences.

He was smiling when he entered, and all those in the room rose in respect. His broad grin, which one felt betokened relief at a hard decision boldly taken, lasted until everyone was in his seat again, and the time came to open the proceedings.

Enjoyed Suspense

Those in the gallery could read the giant-sized type of the memorandum in his hand, "Red Cross, Italians, farm, upper Colorado," and then, doubly under-lined, "personal." With an obvious, boyish pleasure to keeping everyone on tenterhooks, he disposed of the first four topics on the memorandum, dealing with each of them gracefully, or eloquently, or forcefully as the occasion demanded. Finally, looking suddenly more serious, he came to the "personal" topic.

But was he not still enjoying the breathless suspense? At any rate, he backed into his great subject with a long explanation of his motives for making his main announcement in a television broadcast. At length he said, with obvious feeling, that he could not go before the Republican convention unless the delegates fully understood his personal situation.

Then, and only then, there was a sudden, audible intake of breath all over the room, indicating that all those present at last felt certain of the answer. And the President's only direct statement of intentions, that his "answer would be positive and affirmative" was the very last sentence he uttered before the questioning began.

On the surface, the ensuing question period was so ostentatiously underplayed that it was almost uninteresting. There were human moments, to be sure. Once the President was asked whom he had consulted about his decision; and he answered briskly that he had talked with everyone he thought was his friend and—brief pause—some he was not so sure of; and this sent a ripple of laughter through the room.

He made them laugh too with his last rueful remark that he would not release the transcript until Jim Haggerty had corrected it, because his grammar often needed correction. But such moments as these are press conference commonplaces, unvaryingly and spontaneously generated by Eisenhower's rich, genial humanity of spirit.

Serious Sentiment

There was an instant, also, of serious sentiment, another Eisenhower specialty, when he said very earnestly that his wife and family would support his decision. And there was even an instant of quite visible irritation, still another Eisenhower specialty, when a question came from a reporter whose hectoring manner has annoyed the President, and the well-known tell-tale flush crept up over the high Eisenhower forehead.

As it unfolded, in truth, the historic press conference seemed disappointingly like all the other, unhistoric press conferences. But as one thought about it later, situating what was said in its vast, far-reaching context, one realized that the President had thrice revealed himself in a rather special and meaningful manner.

Once he branched into a little lecture on the deep importance of the American two-party system, stabbing with his forefinger and leaning forward, as he does when he wishes to carry conviction. Once he said, and plainly meant it, that he did not mind if his enemies thought him stupid, but he hoped at least they would agree that he was honest.

And on two different occasions, standing up a little straighter and speaking a little more forcefully both times, he declared that his campaign strategy would be to stand on his record; that his record, in fact, would be his campaign. When he said that, one heard the pride in his voice.

Science Is Getting Closer To Cause Of Colds

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

The common cold has been with us for thousands of years. The causative virus never has been lassoed but several close relatives have been isolated from the secretions of the eyes and nasal pharynx of persons suffering from respiratory diseases.

Tests show that these microorganisms play a role in many epidemics of flu-like disorders, including atypical pneumonia. Although this discovery is important, it represents only a near hit while the causative agent of the common cold remains undetected. This malady embraces the majority of acute upper respiratory infections and it is safe to predict that the elusive germ will be isolated and identified in the near future.

The most popular cold remedies are combinations of old reliables such as aspirin, phenacetin, codeine, and the antihistaminic compounds. They are not curative but offer relief from discomfort. The wonder drugs are of value should complications occur, but are powerless against the virus.

Some individuals still rely upon home remedies such as soaking the feet in hot water, applying mustard plasters, or hanging a camphor bag around the neck. But these old methods lost their popularity as better remedies became available.

Old-time physicians wrote about "catching cold." They thought colds came from drafts, wet feet, dietary indiscretions, or emotional upsets. The term still is used because the virus is transmitted from one individual to another via the air or contaminated hands.

Moreover, there is a grain of truth in the old fashioned ideas because these factors play a causative role in the development of a variety of respiratory infections. Marked changes in atmospheric temperature also are important. The highest incidence of colds in the United States is found in the West Central states where sudden day to night shifts in temperature are greatest.

In addition, the person with a hypersensitive nose will sneeze when sitting in a draft. The least publicized reason colds are "caught" is the most important: the victim. Most of us are resentful of the person from whom we "catch" cold which may explain why the sniffles are caught rather than given, presented, bought, or sold.

No, because the development of the heart is almost complete by this time. Furthermore, the fetus cannot be "marked" by fright, an old wives' tale that crops up periodically.

Gronchi Visits U. S. To Gain Prestige

Why is the president of Italy visiting the United States? It's the old question—"What's in it for me?"—turned around, and it's always asked in Washington when presidents, potentates, and political leaders come visiting. The answer in the case of Giovanni Gronchi would appear to be—prestige.

The answer has been most baldly stated by the magazine The Reporter which, in a severely critical study of the role of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, U. S. ambassador to Italy, implies that she treated Gronchi's election as a defeat for U. S. interests in Italy. The State Department invitation to Gronchi, the magazine says flatly, was "a move toward reconciliation."

Without accepting that point of view, one can see why Gronchi is a visitor to be cultivated. For one thing, Pietro Nenni, leader of the Italian left-wing Socialist party, on February 19 offered what appeared to be a truce in Italian politics until Gronchi has had a chance to impress the United States.

Italy is a peculiarly sensitive area from an American point of view, especially since Nikita S. Khrushchev, chief of the Soviet Communist party, on February 14 outlined a new policy of using parliamentary institutions to achieve revolution. With municipal elections due in June, Italian officials are eager to settle the unrest caused in that country by severe storms and bitter cold.

President Gronchi heads a nation which has one of the largest, numerically and proportionately, Communist parties in Europe. The party on January 8 reported its membership at more than 2,145,000.

Gronchi was elected by the Council of Deputies and the Senate on April 29, with 658 of 833 possible votes. A Christian Democrat and president of the Chamber since 1948, Gronchi was opposed by Mario Scelba, then premier of Italy, on the ground that he was too friendly with leftists.

When Scelba was forced to resign, in June, Gronchi asked another Christian Democrat, Prof. Antonio Segni, to explore the prospects of a left-of-center government. Nevertheless, the cabinet formed by Segni on July 6 was similar in personnel and policy to that of Scelba.

Italy is allied with the United States in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Italians in general seem grateful for U. S. aid in gaining entrance into the United Nations. In the general elections of 1948 and 1953 Americans were urged to write relatives and friends in Italy to support candidates "sworn to uphold Christian Democracy"—in other words, the Christian Democrats.

In the 1953 elections the Christian Democrats and their partners—Republicans, Social Democrats, Liberals—lost their safe majority in the Chamber of Deputies, winding up with an edge of only 16 seats. In the opposition were 143 Communists, also 75 left-wing Socialists. On the right were 40 Monarchists and 29 Neo-Fascists. Although he is not primarily a policy-maker — that role is Segni's — Gronchi appears to have been steering a cautious course between the extremes in his divided nation.

These Days

Released!

We, Americans, used to be a very sentimental people. We opened shows, dances, meetings with a patriotic anthem like "The Star-Spangled Banner" and closed with "Home, Sweet Home." At dances that was the signal to clear out. The orchestra put its instruments away and the lights began to be put out and soon everybody was on the way home. It was quite a simple, sentimental and unsophisticated world and it was not so long ago because I can remember it and I am not that old.

Today I feel very young and chipper for I have been released from the hospital and am back home among the people and things I know best and am accustomed to. My doctors sure gave me a tough time toward the end. As I told the one who has looked after me for a quarter of a century, he must be trying to make a federal case out of it.

One of the side effects of this kind of illness is that a person becomes too concerned with his physical body, with himself. A kind of egocentricity sets in. Every ache, every pain, everything physical becomes a matter of primary importance, when the truth is that human life on this planet has gone on with or without us for so long that the significance of any one individual is not as great as we like to believe.

And that one discovers best within a few minutes after one has arrived home. In the hospital, the sick man is the center of attention of a host of persons, doctors, nurses, technicians, even dietitians. When one gets home, there is a functioning, continuing household. Things have gone along during one's illness as they had to. Children must go to school. The dog must be walked. And in a well-run family, they get along without hysteria when it looks as though the old man might die. In a family which knows and practises religion, death is not feared for they trust in God. Such families find great comfort in such beliefs. They also have faith in each other and therefore face crises without hopelessness.

So one returns to such an environment not the center of all creation but as a member of a family. Joe, the dog, was speechless to see me. He had been told that I would return. Uncertain, he had begun not to wag his tail so violently at the mention of my name. But dogs do know by that subconscious sense which humans have too if they permit themselves to believe that what they call a hunch is often that inner experience speaking loudly and understandably.

And so, one goes back to life. Those early hours of a heart attack, when one is between and betwixt, are not the most difficult. It is when one wants to show off, when one forgets that his life has just been spared and that it is not necessary to prove to the world that a Samson-like physical endurance is evidence of anything. Samson never thought as well as Aristotle nor was his morality as noble as St. Francis, but he could push marble columns by sheer physical strength and bring the roof down on his own head. So he brought the roof down on his head! A great achievement!

As I lay on the hospital bed reading about Ike's feats of endurance in the company of George Humphrey, I wondered if it took as much out of a man to hit a golf ball or shoot a quail as it does to make a correct decision which will affect the lives of millions of human beings.

Courage, The Doctor's On The Way

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The more you look into the Superior Oil Company and the Keck family which tried to give that $2,500 to Senator Case, the more amazing the picture becomes.

Senate investigators have just discovered that Superior Oil Company not only paid zero income taxes in 1953 and 1954, but actually made money in the form of tax credits under the special tax laws written for the benefit of the oil industry.

This may explain why Superior's free-spending president, Bill Keck, was able to throw political contributions around.

All other corporations have been paying 52 per cent of their net income as taxes since 1952. Yet the rich oil companies have been paying next to nothing because of depletion allowances and other tax loopholes.

Keck's company earned $10,260,388 net income in 1954. But believe it or not, after all the tax deductions were added, the government ended up owing the company $100,000 in tax credits. The company's tax returns for 1953 were even more incredible. Its net income before taxes was $12,500,382. The net income after taxes was $13,000,382—or $500,000 more than the original income. Again, the government paid off this half-million in the form of tax credits.

In other words, oil companies are the only corporations that can end a year with a huge income and collect taxes from the government instead of the other way around.

Bad Times Under Democrats

In 1952, when Truman was in office, Superior didn't do as well. Out of a $12,100,165 income, the company actually paid the government $200,000. However, this was only 1.6 per cent of its income while companies in other industries were paying 52 per cent.

The highest tax Superior has paid in the past 10 years was $3,000,000 in 1948, also under Truman. This was only 16.7 per cent, however, of a $17,917,474 income. In 1946, Superior again paid absolutely no income tax. Most often, the payment has amounted to a paltry $200,000, which happened to be the figure for 1949, 1950 and 1952.

By paying only token taxes, the oil companies have been able to raise more money to lobby for more tax loopholes. These, in turn, have freed more money to lobby for still more loopholes—a merry, profitable merry-go-round for the oil boys. But it's the small taxpayers who are really financing the oil lobby, since they have to make up the taxes the oil companies don't pay.

Oil vs. Wildlife

What the oil-gas companies have been getting out of the Ike administration continues to unfold with exciting drama. I owe an apology for underestimating this generosity in the past.

On January 11, 1956, I revealed for the first time how "Generous Doug" McKay had bowed to Maj. Gen. Frank Schwengel, president of Seagram's Whisky, and granted drilling rights in the Lacassine Waterfowl Refuge of Louisiana to Seagram's Frankfort Oil Company.

I also reported that, prior to this, McKay had placed a stop order against oil permits in game preserves. This was wrong. And I apologize for underestimating McKay's generosity.

For, during the fall of 1953, "Generous Doug" issued 53 oil and gas leases to the Shell Oil Company in the Railroad Valley Game Management area of Nevada.

Hundreds of small wildcatters abandoned their applications during McKay's alleged "stop order." They took McKay at his word, thought no leases were processed while that order was on the books from August 31, 1953, to December 2, 1955. However, a potent company, Shell Oil, got closer to McKay than the others and secured 53 leases.

This was developed during testimony before the House Marine and Fisheries Committee.

"After all, he (McKay) had issued the stop order, and he had the right to change the stop order if he wanted to," testified Donald J. Chaney, Interior Department lawyer for Fish and Wildlife.

"Did he give any notice of lifting the stop order?" asked Chairman Herbert Bonner of North Carolina.

"No, not that I know of," replied Chaney, "no public notice."

"So that other people who wanted to get this property could come in and make the same claim?"

"Not that I know of," Chaney admitted.

Next day Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.) pointed out that during McKay's so-called "stop order," a total of 60 oil and gas leases had been issued. By contrast, only 16 leases had previously been issued during the entire 55-year history of wildlife refuges.

"It is well said," declared Reuss, referring to the stop order, "that what the secretary hath given, the secretary can take away. And what the secretary was doing when he granted these leases was just pro tanto amending the stop order.

"I suggest that this really is not a very good way to run a government department; that when we want to repeal an order we repeal it in writing, and we duly publicize the repeal so that all men may know what is going on. We do not simply violate the order," Reuss insisted.

Ike Answers One Guessing Game, Sets Up Others

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower ended one guessing game — and involuntarily started another.

Mr. Eisenhower will accept if nominated but who will be his running mate? Will there be just as vigorous a campaign for presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket as before? Is it a sure thing that Ike will be elected?

These questions may get one set of answers in March, and a different set several months from now.

If the election were held tomorrow, Ike would win but not by as big a margin as he did in 1952. For this time he will not carry some of the Southern states he won before. Nor will the Democrats win all of them back, as there is a good possibility of a third bloc—a "State's Rights ticket—being formed to mobilize electoral votes in the South.

Kefauver's Statement Best

The health of the President will be an issue but not as important as the Democrats think. Of all those Democrats who commented on Ike's decision to run, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee made the most sensible and in many respects the best statement from a political standpoint when he said: "I am glad President Eisenhower feels that his health will permit him to make a campaign seeking another four years in the presidency. Having been responsible for the record of the past four years, the President is the best qualified man to defend that record. The campaign can be waged on its merits without mudslinging but with no punches pulled."

This is in good taste and emphasizes that, in America, debate on issues rather than personalities is what counts most with the voters. They resent any effort at personal attack or disparagement of a man's physical condition. The Republicans never made an issue of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's physical handicaps, and the Democrats would be making a grevious mistake if they tried it now with respect to Mr. Eisenhower.

For basically the American people ought to have the right to pick a president for a month or a year or four years and rely on their vice presidential candidate to succeed him if fate wills it.

There will be an effort to "stop Nixon." Some Republicans, with a favorite candidate in their minds, may oppose the vice president's renomination, but most of the noise will come from Democrats and their sympathizers here in Washington. Thus, although Mr. Eisenhower, sticking to political custom, made it clear at Wednesday's press conference that he wouldn't want to announce himself for any vice presidential nominee until he himself has actually become the presidential nominee, this was twisted into an anti-Nixon statement. Yet everybody knows that the man nominated for the presidency can practically decide who his running mate shall be. Mr. Eisenhower went out of his way at the same time to say that his "admiration and respect" for the vice president are "unbounded."

Would Cause Dissension

From a strictly political viewpoint, any effort to eliminate Nixon would cause a cleavage inside the Republican party organizations, where Nixon is strong and where the bulk of the work in the precincts has to be done. That's why the Democrats are so anxious to stimulate dissension in the Republican ranks.

When did the President decide to run? He has wavered for weeks on both sides of the argument. The newspapers have reflected, by means of the verbatim reports of his press conferences, his own doubts and misgivings. But in the last two weeks there has been a definite swing toward the decision he finally made. On February 15 this correspondent wrote:

"Mr. Eisenhower can say to the country: 'I have given you all the facts. My doctors say I can serve a second term. You know the risks as well as I do. If you want to take those risks, I shall be glad to serve you. But if you decide the risks are too great, I shall not be displeased but will attempt to serve you outside of office as conscientiously as I can. But this is a question which it is your privilege to decide, and I shall abide by whatever decision you make.'

"It appears that he will accept if nominated and will serve if elected."

Is Ike a sure thing for re-election? Today's conditions are very favorable. Economic factors and emotional issues decide elections. Ike's popularity today is politically valuable to the Republicans only because there is "peace and prosperity." If adverse conditions such as have existed in the farm areas were to intensify and spread, no amount of personal popularity would save the day for Ike.

What elected Ike in 1952 was the negative vote against the Truman regime on the issues of "Communism, Korea and Corruption." There was a relatively prosperous condition in the country, but emotional issues set up a negative tide.

Warns Against Division

Today the emotional issues favor the Republican side. Peace is a very penetrating issue with the women as well as the men voters. That's why the Democrats in Congress are making a signal error in tactics in their reckless attacks on Secretary of State Dulles. Mr. Eisenhower has just emphasized the perils of a divided government—the mistake the voters made in 1954 in electing a Democratic House and giving an even division to the Senate, which later became Democratic because a Republican turned Democrat and voted with them. Mr. Eisenhower told his historic press conference this week:

"If we are honestly dedicated to a two-party system—that is, to a single-party responsibility in this country—then the legislature and the executive should properly be in the same hands, so that there can be responsibility fixed without crimination and recrimination . . . We should certainly, whenever it is humanly possible, have these groups under the control of the same party."

This is an outright appeal for a Republican Congress at the election in November.

With Ike's announced willingness to serve, his nomination is assured. As for his election, whoever can tell whether the next eight months will continue the mood of the American people the same as it is today, can guess the outcome of the election of both the President and the Congress.

Notes On An Occasion

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

The press conference at which the President first revealed his decision to run again was certainly the greatest political occasion, the most anxiously awaited political moment, that this country has known for a very long time.

In American politics, the great occasions and vivid moments have a way of being a bit flat, for we have always stuck to the republican tradition of the founding fathers, who had a hearty distaste for drama, ceremonial and grandeur in all forms. Old John Adams tried to get the first Congress to give the President the legal title of "Supreme Mightiness;" but Adams was fortunately voted down by a heavy majority. And that, you might say, was the end of that.

Great But Unexciting

The great occasion in the old State Department Treaty Room was a bit flat too, except that it provided the answer the world had been waiting for. Nothing, really, could have been more homely and unexcited than the give-and-take between the pink-faced, smiling, relaxed President and the great crowd of reporters who had come to hear the long-awaited word. Yet it was an occasion worth commemorating, all the same.

The President's advance guard was his television advisor, Robert Montgomery, who inspected the arrangements with an air of self-conscious solemnity. Then, in a deep hush, Dwight D. Eisenhower strode rapidly through the door, and walked, with a quick, springy, self-confident step, to the big desk that he always stands behind at his press conferences.

He was smiling when he entered, and all those in the room rose in respect. His broad grin, which one felt betokened relief at a hard decision boldly taken, lasted until everyone was in his seat again, and the time came to open the proceedings.

Enjoyed Suspense

Those in the gallery could read the giant-sized type of the memorandum in his hand, "Red Cross, Italians, farm, upper Colorado," and then, doubly under-lined, "personal." With an obvious, boyish pleasure to keeping everyone on tenterhooks, he disposed of the first four topics on the memorandum, dealing with each of them gracefully, or eloquently, or forcefully as the occasion demanded. Finally, looking suddenly more serious, he came to the "personal" topic.

But was he not still enjoying the breathless suspense? At any rate, he backed into his great subject with a long explanation of his motives for making his main announcement in a television broadcast. At length he said, with obvious feeling, that he could not go before the Republican convention unless the delegates fully understood his personal situation.

Then, and only then, there was a sudden, audible intake of breath all over the room, indicating that all those present at last felt certain of the answer. And the President's only direct statement of intentions, that his "answer would be positive and affirmative" was the very last sentence he uttered before the questioning began.

On the surface, the ensuing question period was so ostentatiously underplayed that it was almost uninteresting. There were human moments, to be sure. Once the President was asked whom he had consulted about his decision; and he answered briskly that he had talked with everyone he thought was his friend and—brief pause—some he was not so sure of; and this sent a ripple of laughter through the room.

He made them laugh too with his last rueful remark that he would not release the transcript until Jim Haggerty had corrected it, because his grammar often needed correction. But such moments as these are press conference commonplaces, unvaryingly and spontaneously generated by Eisenhower's rich, genial humanity of spirit.

Serious Sentiment

There was an instant, also, of serious sentiment, another Eisenhower specialty, when he said very earnestly that his wife and family would support his decision. And there was even an instant of quite visible irritation, still another Eisenhower specialty, when a question came from a reporter whose hectoring manner has annoyed the President, and the well-known tell-tale flush crept up over the high Eisenhower forehead.

As it unfolded, in truth, the historic press conference seemed disappointingly like all the other, unhistoric press conferences. But as one thought about it later, situating what was said in its vast, far-reaching context, one realized that the President had thrice revealed himself in a rather special and meaningful manner.

Once he branched into a little lecture on the deep importance of the American two-party system, stabbing with his forefinger and leaning forward, as he does when he wishes to carry conviction. Once he said, and plainly meant it, that he did not mind if his enemies thought him stupid, but he hoped at least they would agree that he was honest.

And on two different occasions, standing up a little straighter and speaking a little more forcefully both times, he declared that his campaign strategy would be to stand on his record; that his record, in fact, would be his campaign. When he said that, one heard the pride in his voice.

Science Is Getting Closer To Cause Of Colds

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

The common cold has been with us for thousands of years. The causative virus never has been lassoed but several close relatives have been isolated from the secretions of the eyes and nasal pharynx of persons suffering from respiratory diseases.

Tests show that these microorganisms play a role in many epidemics of flu-like disorders, including atypical pneumonia. Although this discovery is important, it represents only a near hit while the causative agent of the common cold remains undetected. This malady embraces the majority of acute upper respiratory infections and it is safe to predict that the elusive germ will be isolated and identified in the near future.

The most popular cold remedies are combinations of old reliables such as aspirin, phenacetin, codeine, and the antihistaminic compounds. They are not curative but offer relief from discomfort. The wonder drugs are of value should complications occur, but are powerless against the virus.

Some individuals still rely upon home remedies such as soaking the feet in hot water, applying mustard plasters, or hanging a camphor bag around the neck. But these old methods lost their popularity as better remedies became available.

Old-time physicians wrote about "catching cold." They thought colds came from drafts, wet feet, dietary indiscretions, or emotional upsets. The term still is used because the virus is transmitted from one individual to another via the air or contaminated hands.

Moreover, there is a grain of truth in the old fashioned ideas because these factors play a causative role in the development of a variety of respiratory infections. Marked changes in atmospheric temperature also are important. The highest incidence of colds in the United States is found in the West Central states where sudden day to night shifts in temperature are greatest.

In addition, the person with a hypersensitive nose will sneeze when sitting in a draft. The least publicized reason colds are "caught" is the most important: the victim. Most of us are resentful of the person from whom we "catch" cold which may explain why the sniffles are caught rather than given, presented, bought, or sold.

"MARKING THE BABY"

Mrs. T. writes: If a pregnant woman was frightened by a dog in the fourth month, could this stop the partition in the baby's heart from growing so that the child will be born with heart disease?

REPLY

No, because the development of the heart is almost complete by this time. Furthermore, the fetus cannot be "marked" by fright, an old wives' tale that crops up periodically.

RIGHT AWAY

Mrs. Y. writes: At what age can a child's blood type be determined?

REPLY

At birth.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Fish Chowder For Lent

A fish chowder that uses butter instead of pork is an ideal dish for Lent, and the recipe used by dining car chefs of the Canadian National Railways is sufficiently versatile to be made with all varieties of fish during the 40-day Lenten period beginning Feb. 15.

Simple to make, the Canadian National recipe utilitizes the stock from the fish itself and saves all the frying of salt pork and boiling of fish bones.

The recipe supplied by CNR Chef Instructor Joseph F. Nellis uses haddock, but housewives can easily substitute clams, codfish or any other family favorite.

1 lb. haddock fillet cut in small pieces
1 large potato diced
1 medium sized onion diced
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ lb. butter
1 pint milk

Saute onions in butter but do not brown. Add potatoes, cover with water and cook about 10 minutes till potatoes are tender. Add the fish and continue cooking another 10 minutes. Then add the hot milk, with dashes of nutmeg, salt and pepper.

A can of tomato juice may be added if desired. Garnish with a little chopped parsley and serve. There will be enough for six.

Toasted rice has a delicious nut flavor so good with meat and fowl. It is easily made. Spread 1 cup of rice on a pan and place in a preheated 350°F. oven 30 minutes or until a golden brown. Stir during the toasting. Place the toasted rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Add 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and 2 cups water. Place saucepan over a high heat. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn heat as low as possible. Cover saucepan with a lid and leave over this low heat 14 minutes. Turn off the heat and allow rice to steam with lid on for 10 minutes.

Leave lid on until time to serve.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Prison officials in more than a third of the states—from Alabama to North Dakota and from Maine to Oregon—have reported to me that they are actively backing my bill to provide surplus food products to penal institutions.

In the office of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee, where the measure will be studied, a staff member said approximately 25 telephone calls in support of the bill are being received each day.

An identical bill has been started through the House of Representatives by Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde, of our Sixth District.

Atom-Ship Repairs

In view of those facts, I feel fairly optimistic about the chances of the measure for final approval.

I hope that I will soon be able to feel just as pleased over the status of other issues of interest to our state.

One item, for instance, is a joint resolution I recently introduced calling for a survey to determine which ports will be able to handle repair work for atom-powered ships.

Batlimore shipyards have always been leaders in the maritime repair business, and I feel confident that they will be able to offer all the special services which will be needed to keep afloat our nuclear fleet of the future.

Against 90 Per Cent Parity

Another project which I think is exceptionally meritorious is the survey being made to see what can be done to head off hurricane damages.

After conferring at length on the matter with Representative Edward T. Miller, we decided that a partial answer to the problem insofar as boat owners are concerned might be to provide refuge harbors along shore areas such as the ones which border the Chesapeake Bay. We have presented our plan to the Army Engineers for consideration.

I am also continuing special work on several other projects—to have Friendship International Airport used as a secondary field for Washington; to secure a suitable site for the new Naval Academy airport, and to obtain passage of an agriculture bill which will not clamp an undesirable "90 per cent parity" system onto our nation.

Our farmers want to operate as freely as possible without interference or restrictions by the government, and I intend to keep working for that kind of a system.

On a blustery winter day, a hearty entree such as Dutch style scrambled frankfurters is welcomed by any family. Sliced frankfurters are browned with potato slices ed ½ inch thick; 2 teaspoons salt; ½ teaspoon pepper; ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper; 8 eggs, slightly beaten.

Cook onion until brown in hot fat. Push onion to side of skillet and add potato and frankfurter and then cooked with carefully seasoned, slightly beaten eggs. Here is the recipe:

Dutch Style Scrambled Franks

¼ cup bacon drippings; 1 medium onion, sliced; 1 boiled medium potato, sliced; 6 frankfurters, slicslices. Cook until light brown. Add salt, pepper, and green pepper to eggs; pour over mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until eggs are thickened but still moist. 6 servings.

You can't tell Mrs. Filbert's from the high-priced spread

1. It smells so fresh!
Each golden quarter wrapped in gold aluminum foil

2. It tastes so sweet!
It's Mrs. Filbert's own recipe

It takes a woman to zip her margarine onto your table so fast it tastes fresher than even most expensive spreads!

Ask your husband to smell that just-made freshness. Then—compare the mild, sweet flavor of Mrs. Filbert's Margarine with the high-priced spread. Good as the expensive spread is, see if you don't both agree that Mrs. Filbert's tastes every bit as delicious—and fresh!

Fresh! with freshest ingredients, flavor-sealing gold aluminum foil around each quarter on the inside, a protective wrap outside. But above all—fresh because no other spread gets to you faster!

More vitamins! 4 times as much sunshine vitamin D as in the expensive spread! Plus at least 15,000 units of vitamin A in every pound.

Milder, sweeter—naturally! It's a woman's recipe. Spread Mrs. Filbert's really fresh flavor tonight. Goes on smo-o-oth, even cold. You'll never go back to the high-priced spread!

Only a woman could make it taste so good!

Foreign Recipes Using Plentiful Pork

In China, pork is considered epicurean eating and the meat is prepared for many favorite dishes. Cooking methods for pork are varied, too, for the Chinese like to steam the meat and serve it with water chestnuts, for example, or simmer it in water for service with a sweet-sour sauce.

Chinese pork roast is actually fresh pork shoulder, cut into lengthwise pieces, marinated in a garlicky soy sauce mixture, placed in a slow oven for thorough cooking, then given a crisping under the broiler. The crispy- well-flavored meat is sliced thin — in true Chinese fashion — and served hot with a mustard sauce or more of the marimade in which it was allowed to stand.

Serve the Chinese roast pork accompanied by boiled rice, mixed Chinese vegetables (available canned), salad of preserved fruits, almond cookies and tea, if you would like to fashion the entire menu Chinese style.

Chinese Pork Roast

2 pounds fresh pork shoulder
¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup bouillon
3 tablespoons sugar
4 slivers garlic

Cut pork into 3 lengthwise pieces. Combine remaining ingredients and soak the pieces in the mixture 1½ to 2 hours, turning occasionally, and spooning marinade up over the meat. Remove pork and place on a rack in a shallow pan. Roast in a 325° F. oven 1½ hours; pop under broiler to crisp, allowing 5 minutes to a side in a 400° F. broiler. Slice meat thin and serve with mustard sauce, made by blending water into powdered mustard until of preferred consistency. 4 servings.

The English eat pork often, though not as frequently as they do beef and mutton. And one of their favorite versions of the meat is English pork pie, which may be prepared using fresh pork shoulder, loin, or leg.

The pie is the kind of pork entree most homemakers like because it is equally good served hot or cold. The crust is a savory blend of lard, seasonings, and flour —a flaky covering for the well-seasoned meat filling.

This English pork pie is baked in a loaf pan and cuts into easy-to-handle thick slices.

English Pork Pie

3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
¾ cup lard
1½ pounds pork shoulder, cut into 1-inch cubes
½ cup bread or cracker crumbs
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon sage
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup consomme

To prepare crust, sift flour, and 1 teaspoon salt. Combine milk and lard and heat until lard is melted. Add to flour and mix well. Place on a lightly floured board and knead until smooth. (Dough will be moist.) Roll ¼ inch thick. Cut a piece to line a standard-sized loaf pan (9½ by 5¼ by 2¾ inches). Combine remaining ingredients except consomme and spoon into crust-lined pan. Place remaining crust on top; make several slashes in it. Bake at 325° F. 1½ hours. Remove from oven and pour heated consomme through slashes in crust. Let stand about 10 minutes before serving hot, or chill thoroughly and serve cold. Cut in inch-thick slices to serve. 6 to 8 servings.

Cheese-Prune Sandwich

2 cups chopped cooked prunes
1 tablespoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped nuts
1 cup grated American cheese
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 tablespoons butter

Combine prunes, sugar, salt, nuts, cheese and lemon juice, stirring to blend. Spread toast with butter and top with prune mixture, spreading evenly. Slip into broiler oven, until hot and bubbly and cheese melts. Makes 6 servings.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives, in passing the Interior Appropriation measure, approved items beneficial to the residents of the Sixth Maryland District. The House has made available $27,000 for the acquisition of parklands in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties and provided $200,000 to complete the regional mass transportation survey of Metropolitan Washington begun last year. The Bureau of Mines was given funds to continue its coal research program.

The comptroller general has ruled that it was clearly the intent of Congress for the fishway in the Little Falls dam to be built. I have asked the Corps of Engineers to reconsider their objections and approve construction of the fishway. Funds are available.

Recently I appeared before the House subcommittee on Military Operations in a plea for greater support of civil defense activities. I continue to be appalled at the apathy of the Congress and the public to the need of civil defense. I urged greater use of interstate mutual aid defense pacts, perhaps patterned on the Joint Resolution I sponsored in the 83d Congress granting such authority to the District of Columbia.

The problems of a highway from Hancock to Cumberland continue uppermost in my mind. I have again been in touch with the Secretary of the Interior on this important matter.

I have been in daily attendance at both the Senate and House Committee hearings on the mass transportation problem in Washington. I have also been in frequent consultation with District officials and residents of Washington and nearby Maryland over the various solutions proposed.

A study of the problem of farm surplus commodities disposal led me to introduce a bill authorizing the use of surplus foods in federal, state and local penal and correctional institutions.

On My Calendar: I have been asked to be one of the judges at the American Legion High School Oratorical Contest in the Rockville High School auditorium today. Mrs. Hyde and I will attend the dinner March 3 honoring the students taking part in the Science Talent Search.

The custom of having a best man at a wedding is believed to have originated in the primitive marriage by capture. When a man seized a woman by force and carried her away, he would choose a close friend to accompany them and ward off any attacks by the girl's kinsmen.

Mrs. Filbert's Offers 60¢ to You if You Don't Agree...

Have you tasted the new salad dressing—Mrs. Filbert's? Dull dressings make dull salads—so Mrs. Filbert aimed for sparkle. You'll say she hit it! Flavor so refreshing, so sparkling it makes other dressings taste flat!

See for yourself. Taste any salad dressing you've been using. Then taste Mrs. Filbert's Salad Dressing. So delicious, so smooth with extra eggs, mildest vinegar, secret spices and real lemon juice! If you don't agree it's best of all, write and say so—Mrs. Filbert's will send you 60¢!

Try Mrs. Filbert's Salad Dressing today! Only a woman could make it taste so good!

Serve Foreign Dishes For Exciting Meals

One sure way to add spark to your menus is to seek out interesting foreign dishes to serve. Often these are exciting and truly delicious, while in no sense are they beyond the capabilities or time schedule of the average American homemaker. Too, you'll find it's fun to learn something about the characteristics of cookery in the various countries.

Austrian cookery, for instance, has at one time, or another been under the influence of German cooking and that of Hungary and Italy. In spite of these influences, the national dishes today are typically Austrian and reflect the same vitality and easy gaiety of the people. Their's is a food of a people who revel in music and dancing and to whom cooking is one of the most pleasant arts of life.

One favorite Austrian dish, adapted for you, is Gefullte Kohl Wurstchen or Stuffed Cabbage Leaves.

6 skinless Frankfurters
1 onion
Parsley
1 Egg Yolk
Butter
Salt and Pepper
Cabbage Leaves
3 slices of fat Bacon
½ cup White Wine or Stock

Chop the skinless frankfurters fine and mix them with a little chopped onion, some chopped parsley and the egg yolk. Cook the mixture in a little butter and season well with salt and pepper. When well browned, lay a spoonful of the mixture on a cabbage leaf previously dipped for two or three minutes in boiling water. Wrap the cabbage leaf well around the mixture, folding the ends in and tying with a string as in making a parcel. Line a pan with the bacon slices, top with the stuffed cabbage parcels, add the white wine or stock and simmer gently for one half to one hour. To serve: put the cabbage packets on a dish, strain the gravy over them and serve with rice.

What might be considered to be another version of this tasty dish, this time of Turkish origin, is Taraba.

1 pound of Spinach
1 slice Bread, soaked in water
6 skinless frankfurters, chopped fine
Uncooked rice
Salt and Pepper
1 onion, chopped
Butter
1 cup tomato sauce
½ Lemon, juice only

Wash the spinach well and blanch in boiling water for a couple of minutes. Remove and drain but do not separate the leaves. Shape the soaked bread, which has been squeezed dry, the chopped up skinless frankfurters, chopped onion and seasoning into tiny balls and wrap each in two spinach leaves. Put them in a saucepan with the melted butter, a little tomato sauce and the lemon juice. See that the meatballs are closely packed and cover with a plate, so as to keep them in position. Simmer very gently for about an hour.

In Spanish cookery most of the cooking is done in oil, as butter is expensive. It is highly seasoned, and much use is made of garlic and onions, of chili pepper and of Spanish paprika. Another characteristic of Spanish cooking is the mixture of a number of ingredients in one dish. Here is a relatively simple, yet delicious, Spanish entree.

Lentejas Guisadas Con Chorizo
(Lentils cooked with Sausages)

1½ cups Lentils
3 tablespoons bacon grease
6 skinless Frankfurters
1 Onion, chopped
2 Tomatoes, chopped
1 clove Garlic, minced
Parsley, chopped
Salt and Pepper

Boil the lentils and, when done, drain thoroughly and saute in bacon grease on a very slow fire. Add the skinless frankfurters and other ingredients and continue cooking till all are tender.

Beef And Corn Scallop

4 cups milk
2 cups, cooked whole grain corn
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon melted butter
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1 jar dried beef, 2½ ounces shredded

Heat milk to scalding. Combine remaining ingredients and blend. Mix in hot milk and turn into a buttered, 1½-quart casserole. Bake in a pan of warm water, in a moderate over 325° F., for about 1¼ hours or until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Makes 6 servings.

Serve Foreign Dishes For Exciting Meals

One sure way to add spark to your menus is to seek out interesting foreign dishes to serve. Often these are exciting and truly delicious, while in no sense are they beyond the capabilities or time schedule of the average American homemaker. Too, you'll find it's fun to learn something about the characteristics of cookery in the various countries.

Austrian cookery, for instance, has at one time, or another been under the influence of German cooking and that of Hungary and Italy. In spite of these influences, the national dishes today are typically Austrian and reflect the same vitality and easy gaiety of the people. Their's is a food of a people who revel in music and dancing and to whom cooking is one of the most pleasant arts of life.

One favorite Austrian dish, adapted for you, is Gefullte Kohl Wurstchen or Stuffed Cabbage Leaves.

6 skinless Frankfurters
1 onion
Parsley
1 Egg Yolk
Butter
Salt and Pepper
Cabbage Leaves
3 slices of fat Bacon
½ cup White Wine or Stock

Chop the skinless frankfurters fine and mix them with a little chopped onion, some chopped parsley and the egg yolk. Cook the mixture in a little butter and season well with salt and pepper. When well browned, lay a spoonful of the mixture on a cabbage leaf previously dipped for two or three minutes in boiling water. Wrap the cabbage leaf well around the mixture, folding the ends in and tying with a string as in making a parcel. Line a pan with the bacon slices, top with the stuffed cabbage parcels, add the white wine or stock and simmer gently for one half to one hour. To serve: put the cabbage packets on a dish, strain the gravy over them and serve with rice.

What might be considered to be another version of this tasty dish, this time of Turkish origin, is Taraba.

1 pound of Spinach
1 slice Bread, soaked in water
6 skinless frankfurters, chopped fine
Uncooked rice
Salt and Pepper
1 onion, chopped
Butter
1 cup tomato sauce
½ Lemon, juice only

Wash the spinach well and blanch in boiling water for a couple of minutes. Remove and drain but do not separate the leaves. Shape the soaked bread, which has been squeezed dry, the chopped up skinless frankfurters, chopped onion and seasoning into tiny balls and wrap each in two spinach leaves. Put them in a saucepan with the melted butter, a little tomato sauce and the lemon juice. See that the meatballs are closely packed and cover with a plate, so as to keep them in position. Simmer very gently for about an hour.

In Spanish cookery most of the cooking is done in oil, as butter is expensive. It is highly seasoned, and much use is made of garlic and onions, of chili pepper and of Spanish paprika. Another characteristic of Spanish cooking is the mixture of a number of ingredients in one dish. Here is a relatively simple, yet delicious, Spanish entree.

Lentejas Guisadas Con Chorizo
(Lentils cooked with Sausages)

1½ cups Lentils
3 tablespoons bacon grease
6 skinless Frankfurters
1 Onion, chopped
2 Tomatoes, chopped
1 clove Garlic, minced
Parsley, chopped
Salt and Pepper

Boil the lentils and, when done, drain thoroughly and saute in bacon grease on a very slow fire. Add the skinless frankfurters and other ingredients and continue cooking till all are tender.

Beef And Corn Scallop

4 cups milk
2 cups, cooked whole grain corn
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon melted butter
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1 jar dried beef, 2½ ounces shredded

Heat milk to scalding. Combine remaining ingredients and blend. Mix in hot milk and turn into a buttered, 1½-quart casserole. Bake in a pan of warm water, in a moderate over 325° F., for about 1¼ hours or until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Makes 6 servings.

Romney Quint Cops Tourney Battle, 59-58

Piedmont Tops Fort Ashby, 66-51, Plays Blackhawks Tonight

KEYSER, March 1—West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney provided the "big surprise" tonight by knocking off the favored Elk Garden High School quint by the score of 59-58 in the opening round of the West Virginia Class B, Section 16 basketball tournament.

In the first game of tonight's doubleheader, Piedmont High School's Lions ushered out Fort Ashby High School's Eagles, 66-51, at Potomac State College's gymnasium.

The West Virginia Deaf-Elk Garden game was a thriller throughout and after the score was knotted for the fifth time at 41-all Coach Malcolm Norwood's aggregation took the lead and held it to the final whistle.

Elk Garden was in front at the quarter, 17-16, trailed at the half, 15-11, and regained the lead at the end of the third stanza, 15-13. The score was tied at 12, 14, 16, 33 and 41.

Smith Gets 26 Points

Gene Smith led the Romney team's offensive with a total of 26 points. He slammed in 12 shots from the field and converted 2 of 5 free throws. Charley Buemi collected 15 points, including seven goals, while Bill McCoy had 11.

Tom Rawlings was the "whole show" for the Elks. He racked up 24 points on 10 field goals and hooped 4 of 6 shots at the foul line.

Piedmont jumped off to an 18-11 lead in the first period and stayed on top all the way in its game with Fort Ashby. The score was 34-21 at intermission and 48-35 at the close of the third period.

Eddie Orndorff, Clay Smith and Ronnie Ross paced Piedmont in scoring with 22, 16 and 14 tallies. Ross banged in seven shots from the field, Smith had six field goals and Orndorff meshed 12 of 18 free throws along with five baskets. Flanagan and Linn topped the Fort Ashby attack with 19 and 18 markers.

West Virginia School met Elk Garden for the first time this season while Piedmont made it three straight wins over the Eagles.

Tonight's victory advanced the Romney quint to Saturday night's final.

The Kiwanis Club completed its regular season with a 14-0 record. Names of three other teams appear on the trophy which must be won three times by one team for permanent possession. Past winners were the Jaycees, Times-News and Optimist Club. Pictured above, left to right, are: Howard Northcraft, 1956 league president; Lonnie Jackson, past president and 1956 vice president; Albert H. Generals Pull Tourney Upset, Top GWU, 63-60

RICHMOND, Va., March 1 (AP)—Second-seeded West Virginia got a scare tonight but finally downed Davidson 59-53 in the first round of the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament that already had seen underdog Washington and Lee knock off top-ranked George Washington in part of an afternoon doubleheader.

Washington and Lee, doing a bang-up defensive job on Joe Holup, upset the Colonials 63-60 after Richmond crushed William and Mary 79-62 by handcuffing the Indians with only four first half field goals.

Virginia Tech battled All-America Darrell Floyd and his Furman teammates in the second half of the night doubleheader.

West Virginia never regained the advantage until Joey Gardner bucketed a field goal with 8:24 remaining to make the count 44-43. Hundley, Gardner, Lloyd Sharrar, Clayce Kishbaugh and Willie Bergines took turns making baskets and protected a two and three-point lead the rest of the way.

Hundley's 14 points were high for West Virginia, but Davidson's Semi Mintz sank 17.

Burke Sets Pace At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La., March 1 (AP)—Jackie Burke Jr. of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., jumped into a one-stroke lead in the $12,500 Baton Rouge open today with a record-equalling seven-under-par 65.

Ed Furgol of St. Louis shot a 33-33—66 over the 6,450-yard, par 72 Baton Rouge Country Club course to take second place.

Burke, winner of the inaugural tourney here in 1952, put together rounds of 32 and 33 to tie the tournament record, shared by three others, and missed a 15-inch putt on the 18th that would have tied the course record of 64.

After his round, Burke went to Louisiana State University where athletic trainer Marty Broussard gave him diathermy and infra-red treatment for a "pleurisy condition in my left shoulder."

Bunched at 67 were amateur Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash.; George Bayer of Cincinnati; and Shelley Mayfield of Westbury, N.Y.

One stroke back at 68 were Jay Hebert, Lafayette, La., of Sanford, Fla., and George Bigham of Kansas City.

Potomac State Beaten, 96-78

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., March 1 (AP)—Quarter-final play wound up in the West Virginia Conference Basketball Tournament today with thrillers in the afternoon and two one-sided affairs at night.

Morris Harvey rallied again to beat out Bluefield State, 88-72; Glenville's sharp shooting wore out Alderson-Broaddus, 89-71; Tech got hot in the second half to oust West Liberty, 89-84, and Fairmont faded Potomac State's star, 96-78.

Semi-finals tomorrow night send Morris Harvey against Glenville in defense of its championship and Tech against a smooth-working Fairmont team.

The halftime score was 54-31 and the second half was played in a nearly empty gym. Potomac's brave Catamounts gave it all they had, but in the late minutes the only bright spots were the set shots of little Ernie Core.

Core wound up with 22 points for the evening. Big Juno Charlton scored 30 points for the winners.

Generals Pull Tourney Upset, Top GWU, 63-60

RICHMOND, Va., March 1 (AP)—Second-seeded West Virginia got a scare tonight but finally downed Davidson 59-53 in the first round of the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament that already had seen underdog Washington and Lee knock off top-ranked George Washington in part of an afternoon doubleheader.

Washington and Lee, doing a bang-up defensive job on Joe Holup, upset the Colonials 63-60 after Richmond crushed William and Mary 79-62 by handcuffing the Indians with only four first half field goals.

Virginia Tech battled All-America Darrell Floyd and his Furman teammates in the second half of the night doubleheader.

West Virginia never regained the advantage until Joey Gardner bucketed a field goal with 8:24 remaining to make the count 44-43. Hundley, Gardner, Lloyd Sharrar, Clayce Kishbaugh and Willie Bergines took turns making baskets and protected a two and three-point lead the rest of the way.

Hundley's 14 points were high for West Virginia, but Davidson's Semi Mintz sank 17.

Burke Sets Pace At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La., March 1 (AP)—Jackie Burke Jr. of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., jumped into a one-stroke lead in the $12,500 Baton Rouge open today with a record-equalling seven-under-par 65.

Ed Furgol of St. Louis shot a 33-33—66 over the 6,450-yard, par 72 Baton Rouge Country Club course to take second place.

Burke, winner of the inaugural tourney here in 1952, put together rounds of 32 and 33 to tie the tournament record, shared by three others, and missed a 15-inch putt on the 18th that would have tied the course record of 64.

After his round, Burke went to Louisiana State University where athletic trainer Marty Broussard gave him diathermy and infra-red treatment for a "pleurisy condition in my left shoulder."

Bunched at 67 were amateur Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash.; George Bayer of Cincinnati; and Shelley Mayfield of Westbury, N.Y.

One stroke back at 68 were Jay Hebert, Lafayette, La., of Sanford, Fla., and George Bigham of Kansas City.

Potomac State Beaten, 96-78

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., March 1 (AP)—Quarter-final play wound up in the West Virginia Conference Basketball Tournament today with thrillers in the afternoon and two one-sided affairs at night.

Morris Harvey rallied again to beat out Bluefield State, 88-72; Glenville's sharp shooting wore out Alderson-Broaddus, 89-71; Tech got hot in the second half to oust West Liberty, 89-84, and Fairmont faded Potomac State's star, 96-78.

Semi-finals tomorrow night send Morris Harvey against Glenville in defense of its championship and Tech against a smooth-working Fairmont team.

The halftime score was 54-31 and the second half was played in a nearly empty gym. Potomac's brave Catamounts gave it all they had, but in the late minutes the only bright spots were the set shots of little Ernie Core.

Core wound up with 22 points for the evening. Big Juno Charlton scored 30 points for the winners.

why Ancient Age can say:
"IF YOU CAN FIND A BETTER BOURBON ...BUY IT!"
All we distill is Kentucky straight bourbon.
We know that bourbon of the finest quality requires choice grains. That's all we use. We know it calls for the greatest skill in distilling. The men who guide the making of Ancient Age are the most experienced in the industry. And it takes lots of time. That's why we wait six full years for careful aging to bring the quality ingredients to their peak of maturity.
And to safeguard the uniform quality of Ancient Age, we distill it at one place only... at the Ancient Age distillery in Frankfort, Kentucky... the heart of the bourbon country.
Nothing has been spared to make Ancient Age the greatest bourbon of them all. We invite you to try it tonight. After one taste, you'll understand why we can make the challenge: "If you can find a better bourbon... buy it!"

Freeman, Floyd Russell Repeat On All-America

Green And Heinsohn Complete AP Quint

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Just as impressive in the voting as he has been in leading San Francisco to 48 straight victories, big 6-10 Bill Russell dominates the 1956 Associated Press collegiate All-America basketball team.

Russell missed a perfect tally by only 91 points in the voting of 329 sportswriters and broadcasters announced today. He received 308 first team votes and 7 second team for an aggregate 1,554 points on the basis of five for a first and two for a second. A perfect score would have been 1,645.

Three Are Repeaters

Robin Freeman of Ohio State and Darrell Floyd of Furman, like Russell repeaters from the 1955 All-America; Sihugo Green of Duquesne and Tom Heinsohn of Holy across comprise the remainder of the team. All are seniors, thus assuring a wide open scramble for the 1957 team with possibility Wilt Chamberlain, a Kansas frosh this year, moving up to overshadow Russell's feat as Russell did those of Tom Gola of LaSalle.

Freeman, who is engaged in a virtual neck-and-neck struggle with Floyd for major college individual scoring honors, was an easy second in the balloting. He got 1,257 points on 233 firsts and 46 seconds. Green polled 861 on 153 and 48 followed by Floyd's 813 on 125 and 94. Heinsohn barely beat out Ronnie Shavlik of North Carolina State with 624 points on 98 firsts and 82 seconds. Shavlik got 81 firsts and 88 seconds for 581 points to top the second team. K. C. Jones, Russell's San Francisco teammate, was the only other player to poll over 500 points. He received 519 on 73 firsts and 77 seconds.

Hundley On 2nd Team

Completing the second team, in addition to Shavlik and Jones, are Hot Rod Hundley of West Virginia with 470 points, Len Rosenbluth of North Carolina, 324, and Bill Uhl of Dayton, 322.

Joe Holup, George Washington's 6-6 star in the Southern Conference, heads a third team. Julius McCoy of Michigan State, Bill Ridley of Illinois, Bob Burrow of Kentucky and Willie Naulls of UCLA complete the third team.

Williams Scales 224, 12 Pounds Overweight

SARASOTA, Fla., March 1 (AP)—Ted Williams was the first arrival in the Red Sox clubhouse today as the Boston American League club began its training drills.

Describing himself as about 12 pounds overweight at 224, the veteran looked forward to his first spring training period in four years.

In 1953 he was flying for the Marines in Korea. In 1954 he broke his collarbone in a tumble 10 minutes after trotting onto the Payne Park field.

Last year he had personal troubles and didn't report until the season was underway.

Increased Interest Urged In Hot Stove League Here

Jackson Asks Support Of Clubs And Parents; Kiwanis Gets Trophy

Increased interest in the Hot Stove Baseball League on the part of the various clubs which sponsor teams in the league and on the part of the parents of the youngsters was urged yesterday by Lonnie I. Jackson, past president of the loop.

Jackson was speaking to the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at its regular meeting yesterday at Central YMCA but his remarks also were intended for the other sponsoring organizations as well. Each club put up $250 five years ago to purchase uniforms and equipment for the teams. In the past several years they also have been purchasing insurance for the players on their teams.

Now that receipts from the all-star game and playoff contests are insufficient to meet the league's expenses, it has been suggested that each sponsoring organization contribute $50, preferably through $1 from each individual, for league memberships.

In conclusion Jackson presented the Kiwanis Club the trophy to which it is entitled for one year because the Kiwanis team won the regular season pennant last year by sweeping through 14 consecutive games. It was received by Albert H. Hargreaves, Kiwanis vice-president. The Kiwanis lost in the final three-game playoff series to the Optimists last season.

Other guests of the Kiwanians yesterday were Howard L. "Farmer" Northcraft, new president of the Hot Stove League; Joe Gallen, manager of the Kiwanis nine, and Wayne White, assistant manager. The program was arranged by Albert D. Darby Jr., chairman of the Kiwanis boys and girls work committee.

BOWIE, Md., March 1 (AP)—Nashua was named today for the $100,000 John B. Campbell Memorial Handicap at Bowie race track on April 7.

Nashua's present earnings are $1,038,015. Citation won a record $1,085,760 before quitting the tracks for stud duty.

It will be Nashua's second appearance on a Maryland track. Last year he won the Preakness at Pimlico.

Ford And Noren Sign Contracts

Whitey's Salary Upped To $27,500

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1 (AP)—Whitey Ford, ace of the New York Yankees pitching staff last year, and outfielder Irv Noren signed their 1956 contracts today with Assistant General Manager Bill DeWitt.

Ford, who finished the season with an 18-6 record and pitched two World Series victories over the Brooklyn Dodgers, reportedly got a raise from $20,000 to $27,500.

Noren underwent operations on both knees during the winter for removal of cartilage, and is understood to have taken a $3,000 cut in salary to around $17,000. He is confident he will be in shape for the season.

Allegany Seeks Triple Crown Tonight In Game With LaSalle

Explorer Win Would Tie Up Race In City

AHS Gym Game Site; Wardensville Host To 14-B Tournament

Coach Gene Shaw's Allegany High School Campers will be gunning for basketball's "triple crown" tonight when they battle it out with LaSalle's Explorers at Campobello at 8 o'clock.

Tonight's prize is the city title. Allegany copped the W. M. I. League championship with an 8-2 record and bagged the county Class "A" title Wednesday night by defeating Fort Hill in a playoff game at Beall High School, 80-49. The Campers had a 4-1 record in the "A" race and have qualified for the District tournament that opens here a week from tonight.

LaSalle could upset the dope by winning and if this occurs the city championship race would end in a triple tie. Allegany now leads with 2-1. LaSalle is second with 1-2 followed by Fort Hill with two wins and two losses.

Allegany Won Opener

Allegany won the first game of the series from the Explorers on January 27 by the score of 63-61.

The Campers take a 16-5 record into tonight's game while LaSalle is 13-7 for the season.

Cumberland's traditional rivals will be meeting for the 71st time since their series was inaugurated in 1921. Allegany has won 46 games and LaSalle 24.

Louis Buchan and Herbert Davis of Johnstown, Pa., will officiate.

West Virginia's Section 14-B tournament gets under way tonight at Wardensville where Jerry Calhoun's Berkeley Springs High quint will play Capon Bridge High at 7:30 and Paw Paw High's Pirates tangle with Wardensville's Warriors at 8:30. The championship game is set for Saturday night following a 7:30 consolation contest.

Two Finals Tonight

Finals in two West Virginia sectional meets will be staged tonight, the 13-A at Elkins and the 15-B at Petersburg High School.

The Section 13-B at Shepherd College, 14-B at Wardensville, 16-B at Potomac State College and the 12-B tourney at Parsons High School will be concluded Saturday night.

Hagerstown High School's Hubs windup their 20-game schedule at Chambersburg, Pa. Coach Henry's quint owns a 14-5 record, including a 68-58 decision over Chambersburg.

Santee To Run In K. Of C. Games

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—The Knights of Columbus announced tonight that Wes Santee would run in the mile at Madison Square Garden Saturday night following a court injunction enjoining the Amateur Athletic Union from enforcing its ban on the Marine lieutenant from Kansas.

The "seal" coat which Milady so proudly wears doesn't come from a seal at all. It comes from a fur-bearing sea lion. There are no fur-bearing seals.

Costa, Vasquez Fight Tonight

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Carmelo Costa, second ranking featherweight contender from Brooklyn, was a 3-1 favorite today to run his unbeaten string to seven tomorrow night when he faces Baby Vasquez, Mexican lightweight champion.

The 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden will be broadcast and telecast NBC-TV and radio at 10 p.m. EST.

Freeman, Floyd Russell Repeat On All-America

Green And Heinsohn Complete AP Quint

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Just as impressive in the voting as he has been in leading San Francisco to 48 straight victories, big 6-10 Bill Russell dominates the 1956 Associated Press collegiate All-America basketball team.

Russell missed a perfect tally by only 91 points in the voting of 329 sportswriters and broadcasters announced today. He received 308 first team votes and 7 second team for an aggregate 1,554 points on the basis of five for a first and two for a second. A perfect score would have been 1,645.

Three Are Repeaters

Robin Freeman of Ohio State and Darrell Floyd of Furman, like Russell repeaters from the 1955 All-America; Sihugo Green of Duquesne and Tom Heinsohn of Holy across comprise the remainder of the team. All are seniors, thus assuring a wide open scramble for the 1957 team with possibility Wilt Chamberlain, a Kansas frosh this year, moving up to overshadow Russell's feat as Russell did those of Tom Gola of LaSalle.

Freeman, who is engaged in a virtual neck-and-neck struggle with Floyd for major college individual scoring honors, was an easy second in the balloting. He got 1,257 points on 233 firsts and 46 seconds. Green polled 861 on 153 and 48 followed by Floyd's 813 on 125 and 94. Heinsohn barely beat out Ronnie Shavlik of North Carolina State with 624 points on 98 firsts and 82 seconds.

Shavlik got 81 firsts and 88 seconds for 581 points to top the second team. K. C. Jones, Russell's San Francisco teammate, was the only other player to poll over 500 points. He received 519 on 73 firsts and 77 seconds.

Hundley On 2nd Team

Completing the second team, in addition to Shavlik and Jones, are Hot Rod Hundley of West Virginia with 470 points, Len Rosenbluth of North Carolina, 324, and Bill Uhl of Dayton, 322.

Joe Holup, George Washington's 6-6 star in the Southern Conference, heads a third team. Julius McCoy of Michigan State, Bill Ridley of Illinois, Bob Burrow of Kentucky and Willie Naulls of UCLA complete the third team.

Williams Scales 224, 12 Pounds Overweight

SARASOTA, Fla., March 1 (AP)—Ted Williams was the first arrival in the Red Sox clubhouse today as the Boston American League club began its training drills.

Describing himself as about 12 pounds overweight at 224, the veteran looked forward to his first spring training period in four years.

In 1953 he was flying for the Marines in Korea. In 1954 he broke his collarbone in a tumble 10 minutes after trotting onto the Payne Park field.

Last year he had personal troubles and didn't report until the season was underway.

Damage Suits Are Docketed In Court Here

Four damage suits were filed in Circuit Court yesterday in connection with two accident cases.

Howard Lee Ziler, through his father, Peter Ziler, docketed suit against John Sigler, National, for $10,000 for injuries suffered when he was struck by a car operated by Sigler. The boy at the time was riding a sled on a county road near National.

The declaration states that the boy suffered a fractured hip, fractures of the right leg, left arm and collar bone and numerous cuts and bruises. The bill, filed by Attorneys Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, states the boy has been unable to attend school due to his injuries.

Peter Ziler is asking for $10,000 damages in a second suit for medical and hospital expenses. The boy was struck by Sigler's car, the declaration states, on December 19, 1954 when Sigler failed to stop at an intersection and he is also charged with driving negligently and at a high rate of speed.

A Takoma Park resident, Julian Stearns, of 7401 Piney Branch Road, entered suit against Howard A. Stair, RD 1, city, for personal injuries and damage to his car as a result of a crash on U.S. Route 40 in this county on August 3, 1954.

Stearns is asking $25,000 for the loss of his car, a fractured arm, lacerations, bruises and contusions about the body and also for loss of work and medical and hospital expenses.

The declaration, filed by Earl E. Manges for Stearns, states that Stair drove his car on the left of the highway and crashed into the Takoma Park man's vehicle.

A second suit was filed by Mrs. Neva M. Stearns, wife of the plaintiff, for $5,000 for injuries and medical and hospital expenses.

Stock Hike Approved

Stockholders of the Evitts Creek Land and Improvement Company, Inc., holding company of the Cumberland Country Club, Wednesday, unanimously approved an amendment to its charter calling for increasing the capitalization of the corporation form $50,000 to $75,000.

Keegan, Flynn Planning To Attend State Meeting

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan and Chief R. Emmett Flynn will attend a session of the Maryland Law Enforcement Officers Association on March 22.

Chief Flynn said that the meeting will be held at the Harford Post 39, American Legion, in Bel Air for the purpose of discussing plans to increase the efficiency of laws within the state.

Damage Suits Are Docketed In Court Here

Four damage suits were filed in Circuit Court yesterday in connection with two accident cases.

Howard Lee Ziler, through his father, Peter Ziler, docketed suit against John Sigler, National, for $10,000 for injuries suffered when he was struck by a car operated by Sigler. The boy at the time was riding a sled on a county road near National.

The declaration states that the boy suffered a fractured hip, fractures of the right leg, left arm and collar bone and numerous cuts and bruises. The bill, filed by Attorneys Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, states the boy has been unable to attend school due to his injuries.

Peter Ziler is asking for $10,000 damages in a second suit for medical and hospital expenses. The boy was struck by Sigler's car, the declaration states, on December 19, 1954 when Sigler failed to stop at an intersection and he is also charged with driving negligently and at a high rate of speed.

A Takoma Park resident, Julian Stearns, of 7401 Piney Branch Road, entered suit against Howard A. Stair, RD 1, city, for personal injuries and damage to his car as a result of a crash on U.S. Route 40 in this county on August 3, 1954.

Stearns is asking $25,000 for the loss of his car, a fractured arm, lacerations, bruises and contusions about the body and also for loss of work and medical and hospital expenses.

The declaration, filed by Earl E. Manges for Stearns, states that Stair drove his car on the left of the highway and crashed into the Takoma Park man's vehicle.

A second suit was filed by Mrs. Neva M. Stearns, wife of the plaintiff, for $5,000 for injuries and medical and hospital expenses.

Odom Held In N.Y. Swindling Case

A man held here last fall for several weeks as a suspect in the $29,000 burglary of the Lee Green home in LaVale in October of 1949 is one of five charged in Buffalo in the swindling of a Rochester industrialist of more than $400,000.

He is Harold P. Odom, 60, of New York City. He and a man named James Golden, also of New York State, were taken into custody as suspects in the local case in October last year near Baltimore. Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya went to Baltimore and brought the two men here.

When the two men asked for an immediate trial before the court here on the burglary charge the state's attorney's office dropped the charge, stating there was "insufficient evidence" against the men. At that point, the Federal Bureau of Investigation placed a detainer against Odom in the swindle case and he was held in custody for the FBI.

Authorities said the suspects had obtained $423,771 over the past four years from Augustine J. Cunningham, 77, while posing as heirs to bogus electronic patents which they claimed were worth $70,000,000.

Donald F. Potter, assistant U.S. attorney, said the grand jury hearing would probably continue into next week.

The accused men are Patrick H. Lennon, 50, New York; Leo F. Hampton, 74, New York; Harold P. Odom, 60, New York; George V. Arlen, 56, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.; and Auldus H. Turner, 62, Hollywood, Fla.

Oilman Foresees Drilling Boom At Clear Spring

Charles E. Walters, who identifies himself as a veteran Texas and Colorado oilman, has contended that recent geographical surveys show the Clear Spring section of Washington County one of the "hottest" spots for oil and gas in the East.

Walters has been in Hagerstown since January 1 acquiring ten-year leases on land in that section. He said he is not the only oil man interested, as there are a number of field experts in Hagerstown acquiring leases for thousands of acres.

He said he looks for a large number of oil field men to start drilling operations within the next several months.

Thousands of acres of land in the eastern part of Allegany County have been leased by Pittsburgh Glass Company and the New York Gas Corporation, among other concerns.

Test drillings were conducted all last summer, but the results have not been made public.

Texas leads the nation in beef cattle. It accounts for more than 10 per cent of all beef in the United States. Iowa ranks second and Nebraska third.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 1 (INS) — Straight from Anita Ekberg I learn that she doesn't believe Anthony Steele, the British actor who is here to visit her, made a statement in London that he was going to marry her.

"He wouldn't do a thing like that," said Anita.

"Are you going to become Mrs. Steele?" I asked.

Very naively she said, "He hasn't even asked me. There are lots of things to consider."

Career-wise, Anita has two pictures on the fire after she finishes "Back From Eternity" for John Farrow. Robert Fellows, who owns the valuable Ekberg contract, wants her to star in "Glare," and there also is an offer from Warwick Productions in London for her to go to Jamaica for "Fire Down Below."

Anita is very happy over her career, which within the short space of a year has made her one of the most sought after actresses on the screen today.

The last time I saw Tony Quinn he was all excited over a valuable painting of the crucifixion he had bought from a Parisian painter named Jensem. He bought it in Paris for $3,000 and shortly after refused $10,000 for it. Tony is not mercenary, and he loves the painting.

I had thought that he was leaving immediately for Paris to co-star with Gina Lollobrigida in "Hunchback of Notre Dame," but he has managed to get in an extra picture before he leaves.

Young Producer Robert Jacks has signed Tony for "The Lonely Gun" for United Artists release. He'll play a character who feels equal to society when his six-shooter is strapped on his side. The shooting is scheduled for mid-March.

She said, "The doctors say my boy must stay in the hospital for two weeks, and then must rest his voice for two months after that." The recuperation period will take place at Frank Sinatra's house in Palm Springs as Frank will be taking off for his picture in Spain just about the time Bogey leaves the hospital.

Betty tells me that their Warner Picture "Melville Goodwin, USA" will not start until some time in April when Bogey gets his famous voice back and gets rested.

When I talked to Mary Pickford today she verified that she, Buddy Rogers and a syndicate have bought the old Mayflower Hotel in Los Angeles — a landmark with 350 rooms — from Joseph Greenbach.

The price was two million dollars, and Mary invested some of the money she made on the sale of her United Artists stock. She said they plan to give the old Mayflower a complete face-lifting job. It's one of the oldest hotels in the city and always has done a good business, situated as it is in the heart of the city.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

That pink ruffled shirt that George Sanders wore when he escorted an unidentified blonde to the Moulin Rouge, must really have been something to see.

Stopped in a minute at Valerie and Donald Nelson's party for Mrs. John Mills of London. Linda Christian, all done up in a pinkish gown, was with Edmund Purdon.

Kitty Leroy telephoned Mervyn, who's on location, and we all talked to him.

Lord Carnavon, back in town, came with Joan Fontaine and Collier Young, and Mrs. Jules Stein, who is back among us after a visit in the east, came in later.

Natalie Wood and Actor Sal Mineo, both in the Oscar derby, for their work in "Rebel Without a Cause," are now having a "Derby" of their own.

Two other Academy award nominees, Joe Connelly and Robert Mosher, who are in the race for best original screen play for "Private War of Major Benson," are now writing a series on "Benson." It will have to be good to be as good as the first.

The press agent of John Wayne, Gene Autry and other stars, Bev Barnett, underwent ear surgery this morning at California Hospital.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Dramatic Debut

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Outfielder Chuck Tanner of the Braves always will remember his major league debut. He hit the first pitch tossed to him in the majors for a home run. The dramatic clout was hit off Cincinnati's Gerry Staley at County Stadium on April 12, 1955.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 1 (INS) — Straight from Anita Ekberg I learn that she doesn't believe Anthony Steele, the British actor who is here to visit her, made a statement in London that he was going to marry her.

"He wouldn't do a thing like that," said Anita.

"Are you going to become Mrs. Steele?" I asked.

Very naively she said, "He hasn't even asked me. There are lots of things to consider."

Career-wise, Anita has two pictures on the fire after she finishes "Back From Eternity" for John Farrow. Robert Fellows, who owns the valuable Ekberg contract, wants her to star in "Glare," and there also is an offer from Warwick Productions in London for her to go to Jamaica for "Fire Down Below."

Anita is very happy over her career, which within the short space of a year has made her one of the most sought after actresses on the screen today.

The last time I saw Tony Quinn he was all excited over a valuable painting of the crucifixion he had bought from a Parisian painter named Jensem. He bought it in Paris for $3,000 and shortly after refused $10,000 for it. Tony is not mercenary, and he loves the painting.

I had thought that he was leaving immediately for Paris to co-star with Gina Lollobrigida in "Hunchback of Notre Dame," but he has managed to get in an extra picture before he leaves.

Young Producer Robert Jacks has signed Tony for "The Lonely Gun" for United Artists release. He'll play a character who feels equal to society when his six-shooter is strapped on his side. The shooting is scheduled for mid-March.

She said, "The doctors say my boy must stay in the hospital for two weeks, and then must rest his voice for two months after that." The recuperation period will take place at Frank Sinatra's house in Palm Springs as Frank will be taking off for his picture in Spain just about the time Bogey leaves the hospital.

Betty tells me that their Warner Picture "Melville Goodwin, USA" will not start until some time in April when Bogey gets his famous voice back and gets rested.

When I talked to Mary Pickford today she verified that she, Buddy Rogers and a syndicate have bought the old Mayflower Hotel in Los Angeles — a landmark with 350 rooms — from Joseph Greenbach.

The price was two million dollars, and Mary invested some of the money she made on the sale of her United Artists stock. She said they plan to give the old Mayflower a complete face-lifting job. It's one of the oldest hotels in the city and always has done a good business, situated as it is in the heart of the city.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

That pink ruffled shirt that George Sanders wore when he escorted an unidentified blonde to the Moulin Rouge, must really have been something to see.

Stopped in a minute at Valerie and Donald Nelson's party for Mrs. John Mills of London. Linda Christian, all done up in a pinkish gown, was with Edmund Purdon.

Kitty Leroy telephoned Mervyn, who's on location, and we all talked to him.

Lord Carnavon, back in town, came with Joan Fontaine and Collier Young, and Mrs. Jules Stein, who is back among us after a visit in the east, came in later.

Natalie Wood and Actor Sal Mineo, both in the Oscar derby, for their work in "Rebel Without a Cause," are now having a "Derby" of their own.

Two other Academy award nominees, Joe Connelly and Robert Mosher, who are in the race for best original screen play for "Private War of Major Benson," are now writing a series on "Benson." It will have to be good to be as good as the first.

The press agent of John Wayne, Gene Autry and other stars, Bev Barnett, underwent ear surgery this morning at California Hospital.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Dramatic Debut

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Outfielder Chuck Tanner of the Braves always will remember his major league debut. He hit the first pitch tossed to him in the majors for a home run. The dramatic clout was hit off Cincinnati's Gerry Staley at County Stadium on April 12, 1955.

No back can be beautiful with sharp, wing-like shoulder blades. Mr. Powers explains the cause and the cure.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Wings Nobody Wants

Exercises can't correct sharply protruding shoulder blades — not if you persist in carrying your shoulders incorrectly. If the back you turn to your public is to be beautiful, smooth and wingless, be on guard against hunching when you sit, stand and walk.

The shoulder blades are two almost flat bones which attach to the shoulder joints and spine by strong muscles. These muscles stretch and stay stretched if you habitually strain your shoulders forward. They become so weak they cannot hold your shoulder blades flat, as Nature intended. The blades turn sharp edges outward — thinness can't be blamed for boney back contours when there's this unnecessary loss of muscle fitness.

Military rigidity isn't the answer, even at the beginning of a corrective program. The shoulders must be carried in a relaxed fashion, dropped to normal level and in place for perfect body alignment. How can you be sure your shoulders are in exactly the right position? The best way is to check your entire body alignment according to the beginning test in my booklet, "Your Posture," which is yours for 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to me at this newspaper.

Once you know how to set your shoulders, the most important thing is to keep them that way at all times. The position will be easier to hold, however, if for a while you make this exercise daily routine: Sit with your hips flat against a wall. Place your arms against the wall so your elbows are close to your waist and the backs of your hands are flat against the wall opposite your shoulders. Now slide your arms up as far as they will reach, elbows and hands still touching the wall. Pull and stretch ten times a day at first and increase to 30 times.

TOMORROW — The charm you're born with.

PERFECT CO-OPERATION NEEDED

OFFHAND, it seems that there is no defense against the three-spade contract in the following deal, but that is not quite true. Perfect co-operation on the parts of East and West can defeat the contract, irrespective of the declarer's best efforts.

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 30 on score.

	♠ K 10 8 ♥ 7 3 ♦ A Q J 9 ♣ 7 5 4 3
♠ 7 4 ♥ Q J 9 6 ♦ 8 4 3 2 ♣ A Q 8	N W E S	♠ 6 3 ♥ K 10 5 4 2 ♦ K 7 6 ♣ 10 9 2
	♠ A Q J 9 5 2 ♥ A 8 ♦ 10 5 ♣ K J 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

If North-South had not been 30 on score they doubtless would have reached four spades, but as it was, the three-spade contract seemed super-safe.

West opened the heart queen, East played the five, and South conceded the trick. No shift was attractive, so West led another heart. South then drew trumps and passed the diamond ten. East won and shifted to the club ten, but South simply covered with the jack, and the best West could do was to collect two club tricks.

If East had been alert, the outcome might have been different. The key play was to overtake the heart queen with the king at the first trick. Observe how this would embarrass the declarer. Now, if he held up the ace, East would shift to the club ten, and the best South could do would be to cover. West would win with the queen or ace, as the case demanded, and simply exit in spades, hearts or diamonds. When East got in again, with the diamond king, a second club return through the closed hand would give the defenders the setting trick.

Against this defense it would do South no good, either, to win the first trick. East would get in once with the diamond king for a club return, and then it would be relatively easy for West to lead a low heart, playing East for the ten-spot, so that a second club could be led through declarer.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Any time they want to replace me with an automatic housekeeper, they can!"

Jaycees To Hold Ladies Night

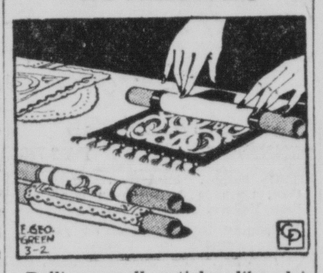

Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will hold a "Ladies Night" Wednesday, March 7, at Cumberland Country Club.

The affair will begin with cocktails at 6:30 p. m. Brook Fradiska and Alvin Goodman are in charge of arrangements and reservations can be made at the Jaycee office by calling PA 2-2700.

The group is planning a membership campaign next month, according to William Hill, membership chairman.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Rolling small articles like doilies, dresser scarfs and table mats on cardboard tubes prevents creases and also saves storage space.

A large mirror on one wall of a small room will make the room appear much larger.

"What's happened to creative genius in this country? . . . They invent automatic household gadgets for everything but picking up after a husband!"

No back can be beautiful with sharp, wing-like shoulder blades. Mr. Powers explains the cause and the cure.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Wings Nobody Wants

Exercises can't correct sharply protruding shoulder blades — not if you persist in carrying your shoulders incorrectly. If the back you turn to your public is to be beautiful, smooth and wingless, be on guard against hunching when you sit, stand and walk.

The shoulder blades are two almost flat bones which attach to the shoulder joints and spine by strong muscles. These muscles stretch and stay stretched if you habitually strain your shoulders forward. They become so weak they cannot hold your shoulder blades flat, as Nature intended. The blades turn sharp edges outward — thinness can't be blamed for boney back contours when there's this unnecessary loss of muscle fitness.

Military rigidity isn't the answer, even at the beginning of a corrective program. The shoulders must be carried in a relaxed fashion, dropped to normal level and in place for perfect body alignment. How can you be sure your shoulders are in exactly the right position? The best way is to check your entire body alignment according to the beginning test in my booklet, "Your Posture," which is yours for 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to me at this newspaper.

Once you know how to set your shoulders, the most important thing is to keep them that way at all times. The position will be easier to hold, however, if for a while you make this exercise daily routine: Sit with your hips flat against a wall. Place your arms against the wall so your elbows are close to your waist and the backs of your hands are flat against the wall opposite your shoulders. Now slide your arms up as far as they will reach, elbows and hands still touching the wall. Pull and stretch ten times a day at first and increase to 30 times.

TOMORROW — The charm you're born with.

Television And Radio
by John Crosby

The Early, Early Show

Will Rogers Jr. opened his very first show, titled "Good Morning" (CBS-TV 7 a. m. Mondays through Fridays) with the words: "Good morning. The day is Monday, February 20, 7 a. m. It looks like a very fine day and all over the country about a million alarm clocks are ringing. People are getting dressed. Kids are getting off to school."

That's the crux of the problem. People are getting dressed. Kids are getting ready for school. They're not, in short, looking at television. So why a program like this? Well, the research people have determined to their own satisfaction if not to mine that there is an audience at this hour worth bothering about. This is the latest attempt by CBS to wrest some of the audience from NBC's Dave Garroway, several attempts having perished ignominiously. Much money and months of preparation have gone into this show and I'm not sure CBS has come up with the right answer yet.

Mr. Rogers, who looks strikingly like his father, has been an actor and a congressman and seems more than ordinarily conversant with matters on Capitol Hill and Hollywood and points in between. While Mr. Rogers gets some assistance from Ned Calmer who tells the news and a girl named Pamela Good who tells the weather news and does other odd chores like playing a game of checkers with a mechanical brain, the show belongs very much to Rogers and he's on most of the time.

Besides music, news and weather, the usual ingredients of morning shows, there are special features. On opening day there was an interview with Wes Santee, who had just been disbarred by the Amateur Athletic Union. Since the story had broken on Sunday when there are no afternoon papers, the show had a real scoop in getting Santee—but then spoiled it by not telling the story except in the most general way. I had to get the details from the newspapers.

Another feature was a visit to a maternity ward where a mother and father were getting their first glimpse of their first born, a son, and, as somebody else remarked, even if it was good I wouldn't like it, this first visit between parents and son being something that should be kept well out of range of a TV camera.

However. There seems to be a spirited attempt to make this a very American show and Rogers every day tells little known stories of Americans. They're good stories. The first day he told of the blizzard of '86 in Montana which decimated the cattle herds and of a cowpoke named Charles Russell who painted a picture of the last surviving steer of a heard of 5,000. It became a nationally famous picture and Russell went on to fame and fortune as an artist.

At other times, he has told stories about Sutter whose discovery of gold at Sutter's Mill started the California gold rush and who died broke and bitter, about George Washington, about Ira Hayes, the Indian, who was catapulted to fame as one of the six men who helped raise the flag on Iwo Jima and who died after an over-exposure to alcohol and the elements but mostly, according to Rogers, over-exposure to fame.

Withall, there is quite a lot the matter with this show. Mr. Rogers, I feel, is a little too loud, a little too aggressive and a little too hearty for that hour of the morning. It may seem like a strange complaint but I think everyone is too cheerful for 7 a. m. Miss Good, for instance, ends all her weather reports with: "Wherever you are, whatever the weather, I hope it's a good day!" Well, it's good of Miss Good to wish me that, but at 7 a. m. I prefer to be left to my own dark thoughts about what lies ahead for the next 24 hours. In fact, lying grumpily on my pillow in the early hours, I got to thinking that a much better opening for the show, in place of Mr. Rogers's cheery "Good morning," would be Emily Dickinson's old line: "Help! Help! Another day!"

If anything, this show suffers from over-preparation. I feel fairly certain that Mr. Rogers is reading his lines where he should be just ad-libbing. I have the ghostly feeling that there are about 30 people standing around with stop-watches, rushing the show along. The air of informality seems studied and labored. All this may be the birth pangs of a new show and in a week or so everyone may relax.

Of course, it may all be academic anyhow. Reminds me of that old story about the young psychiatrist asking the silver-haired old psychiatrist: "How can you look so serene! Listening day after day to all those perversions, to all these people who hate their mothers, to all these terrible things! How can you look so happy and untroubled?"

And the old psychiatrist saying: "So who listens?"

At that hour so who does?

March 15 Production Goal Date For Mt. Savage Firm

Production by March 15 is the goal of Ribbon Copies Sales Corporation of America for its multi-copy attachment for typewriters.

Peter Lukas, general manager of the firm that is installing production machinery in the old C&P shops at Mt. Savage, today also revealed a sensational new advantage of his firm's product, no erasure problems on typed copy.

The plant will manufacture "Cop-eez" a device which makes true ribbon copies on paper when the device is attached to any standard typewriter by just a single bolt.

Uses Two Ribbons

The Cop-eez, Lukas said, has two ribbons similar to typewriter ribbons, that drop into position in front of the typewriter roller.

A person using it inserts in the typewriter the original sheet and tissue copy sheets. Quickly and easily the tissue copy sheets slip behind and between the Cop-eez ribbons. Then the message is typed in a normal manner, each an original because no carbon paper was used, only ribbon.

These ribbons roll along between the sheets as the typewriter is being used, at the same rate as the typewriter ribbon itself.

No Erasure Sign

And today, Lukas announced there will be no erasure problems. When there is an error, a ball point pen, with an oversize plunger, is touched on it, and eradicable ink instantly removes the typed letter or letters. There is no sign of eradication, Lukas added.

The three main buildings of the plant are a beehive of activity. In what was the old machine shop of the C&P, the ceiling is being lowered, a concrete floor has been laid and modern heating system is being installed.

Lukas said the main contract has been awarded to the low bidder, the John I. Vandegrift Company of this city.

Many Electrical Outlets

The Sterling Electric Company of this city is doing the electrical work. This features conduits laid in the concrete floors that gives an electrical outlet every two feet.

The old machine shop will be used to case and finish the different parts of the device. In another building, where the floor is being laid today, will be where the 103 different parts are assembled into the Cop-eez.

The old locomotive repair shop will be also altered, Lukas said. The floor will be concreted and the ceiling lowered.

Lukas said his company plans to get into production by the middle of this month.

Both are graduates of Fort Hill High School, Mellon in 1951 and Pfeiffer in 1952.

'WATER BOYS' DOWN TO 7 QUARTS

Market Advances To Near Record High; Oils Set Pace

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—The stock market rallied to near record highs today in a generous advance started by strength in the oils.

Wall Street looked upon the market as one ruled strictly by business considerations now that the prime political question of the day has been answered.

President Eisenhower's decision to run for a second term brought on a giant burst of trading yesterday at slightly higher prices. When that enthusiasm wore off, prices backed down quietly, and the market closed lower.

Today the market started quietly higher and almost devoid of feature until late afternoon when the oils came to life with substantial gains. Buying there soon spread to the railroads, steels, coppers, chemicals, and many individual issues. Motors were active but made little or no headway.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.10 at $180.20. That is only $1.30 under the record high of $181.50 first established Sept. 23 and matched on Dec. 5 and 6.

The industrial component of the average today was up $1.50, rails were up $1.00, and utilities up 30 cents.

Television And Radio

The Early, Early Show

Will Rogers Jr. opened his very first show, titled "Good Morning" (CBS-TV 7 a. m. Mondays through Fridays) with the words: "Good morning. The day is Monday, February 20, 7 a. m. It looks like a very fine day and all over the country about a million alarm clocks are ringing. People are getting dressed. Kids are getting off to school."

That's the crux of the problem. People are getting dressed. Kids are getting ready for school. They're not, in short, looking at television. So why a program like this? Well, the research people have determined to their own satisfaction if not to mine that there is an audience at this hour worth bothering about. This is the latest attempt by CBS to wrest some of the audience from NBC's Dave Garroway, several attempts having perished ignominiously. Much money and months of preparation have gone into this show and I'm not sure CBS has come up with the right answer yet.

Mr. Rogers, who looks strikingly like his father, has been an actor and a congressman and seems more than ordinarily conversant with matters on Capitol Hill and Hollywood and points in between. While Mr. Rogers gets some assistance from Ned Calmer who tells the news and a girl named Pamela Good who tells the weather news and does other odd chores like playing a game of checkers with a mechanical brain, the show belongs very much to Rogers and he's on most of the time.

Besides music, news and weather, the usual ingredients of morning shows, there are special features. On opening day there was an interview with Wes Santee, who had just been disbarred by the Amateur Athletic Union. Since the story had broken on Sunday when there are no afternoon papers, the show had a real scoop in getting Santee—but then spoiled it by not telling the story except in the most general way. I had to get the details from the newspapers.

Another feature was a visit to a maternity ward where a mother and father were getting their first glimpse of their first born, a son, and, as somebody else remarked, even if it was good I wouldn't like it, this first visit between parents and son being something that should be kept well out of range of a TV camera.

However. There seems to be a spirited attempt to make this a very American show and Rogers every day tells little known stories of Americans. They're good stories. The first day he told of the blizzard of '86 in Montana which decimated the cattle herds and of a cowpoke named Charles Russell who painted a picture of the last surviving steer of a heard of 5,000. It became a nationally famous picture and Russell went on to fame and fortune as an artist.

At other times, he has told stories about Sutter whose discovery of gold at Sutter's Mill started the California gold rush and who died broke and bitter, about George Washington, about Ira Hayes, the Indian, who was catapulted to fame as one of the six men who helped raise the flag on Iwo Jima and who died after an over-exposure to alcohol and the elements but mostly, according to Rogers, over-exposure to fame.

Withall, there is quite a lot the matter with this show. Mr. Rogers, I feel, is a little too loud, a little too aggressive and a little too hearty for that hour of the morning. It may seem like a strange complaint but I think everyone is too cheerful for 7 a. m. Miss Good, for instance, ends all her weather reports with: "Wherever you are, whatever the weather, I hope it's a good day!" Well, it's good of Miss Good to wish me that, but at 7 a. m. I prefer to be left to my own dark thoughts about what lies ahead for the next 24 hours. In fact, lying grumpily on my pillow in the early hours, I got to thinking that a much better opening for the show, in place of Mr. Rogers's cheery "Good morning," would be Emily Dickinson's old line: "Help! Help! Another day!"

If anything, this show suffers from over-preparation. I feel fairly certain that Mr. Rogers is reading his lines where he should be just ad-libbing. I have the ghostly feeling that there are about 30 people standing around with stop-watches, rushing the show along. The air of informality seems studied and labored. All this may be the birth pangs of a new show and in a week or so everyone may relax.

Of course, it may all be academic anyhow. Reminds me of that old story about the young psychiatrist asking the silver-haired old psychiatrist: "How can you look so serene! Listening day after day to all those perversions, to all these people who hate their mothers, to all these terrible things! How can you look so happy and untroubled?"

And the old psychiatrist saying: "So who listens?"

At that hour so who does?

March 15 Production Goal Date For Mt. Savage Firm

Production by March 15 is the goal of Ribbon Copies Sales Corporation of America for its multi-copy attachment for typewriters.

Peter Lukas, general manager of the firm that is installing production machinery in the old C&P shops at Mt. Savage, today also revealed a sensational new advantage of his firm's product, no erasure problems on typed copy.

The plant will manufacture "Cop-eez" a device which makes true ribbon copies on paper when the device is attached to any standard typewriter by just a single bolt.

Uses Two Ribbons

The Cop-eez, Lukas said, has two ribbons similar to typewriter ribbons, that drop into position in front of the typewriter roller.

A person using it inserts in the typewriter the original sheet and tissue copy sheets. Quickly and easily the tissue copy sheets slip behind and between the Cop-eez ribbons. Then the message is typed in a normal manner, each an original because no carbon paper was used, only ribbon.

These ribbons roll along between the sheets as the typewriter is being used, at the same rate as the typewriter ribbon itself.

No Erasure Sign

And today, Lukas announced there will be no erasure problems. When there is an error, a ball point pen, with an oversize plunger, is touched on it, and eradicable ink instantly removes the typed letter or letters. There is no sign of eradication, Lukas added.

The three main buildings of the plant are a beehive of activity. In what was the old machine shop of the C&P, the ceiling is being lowered, a concrete floor has been laid and modern heating system is being installed.

Lukas said the main contract has been awarded to the low bidder, the John I. Vandegrift Company of this city.

Many Electrical Outlets

The Sterling Electric Company of this city is doing the electrical work. This features conduits laid in the concrete floors that gives an electrical outlet every two feet.

The old machine shop will be used to case and finish the different parts of the device. In another building, where the floor is being laid today, will be where the 103 different parts are assembled into the Cop-eez.

The old locomotive repair shop will be also altered, Lukas said. The floor will be concreted and the ceiling lowered.

Lukas said his company plans to get into production by the middle of this month.

Local Servicemen Complete School

Two Cumberland servicemen graduated Tuesday from the Non-Commissioned Officers Training School at Fort George G. Meade. They are USMC Sgt. Charles S. Mellon and Army Pfc. John R. Pfeiffer.

Sgt. Mellon, son of Mrs. Catherine O. Mellon, 722 Brookfield Ave., is a veteran of six years in the Marine Corps and is stationed at Fort Meade with a Marine detachment. He is a veteran of Korean service.

Pfc. Pfeiffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Pfeiffer, 755 Maryland Avenue, is stationed at Pittsburgh as a member of Headquarters Company, 74th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion.

Both are graduates of Fort Hill High School, Mellon in 1951 and Pfeiffer in 1952.

'WATER BOYS' DOWN TO 7 QUARTS

ROBERT WERNER (left), 12, and his brother, Jacob, 10, Baltimore's famous "water babies," have a drink after being assured by doctors that they now have a normal life expectancy and need take only seven quarts of water a day each. Market Advances To Near Record High; Oils Set Pace

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—The stock market rallied to near record highs today in a generous advance started by strength in the oils.

Wall Street looked upon the market as one ruled strictly by business considerations now that the prime political question of the day has been answered.

President Eisenhower's decision to run for a second term brought on a giant burst of trading yesterday at slightly higher prices. When that enthusiasm wore off, prices backed down quietly, and the market closed lower.

Today the market started quietly higher and almost devoid of feature until late afternoon when the oils came to life with substantial gains. Buying there soon spread to the railroads, steels, coppers, chemicals, and many individual issues. Motors were active but made little or no headway.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.10 at $180.20. That is only $1.30 under the record high of $181.50 first established Sept. 23 and matched on Dec. 5 and 6.

The industrial component of the average today was up $1.50, rails were up $1.00, and utilities up 30 cents.

Trading today at 2,140,000 shares didn't begin to match the 3,900,000 shares that changed hands yesterday.

Landfill Plan Is Slated At City's Dump

Mayor Says System Will Be Sanitary

Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday the City of Cumberland plans to use a landfill method at the city dump to provide a more sanitary operation and extend the life of the facility by many years.

The program was announced yesterday afternoon after Mayor Eves, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city health officer, and C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, inspected the dump located southeast of the city off Limestone Road.

Mayor Eves said the new bulldozer purchased for use at the dump is adequate for the systematic filling of the dumping area through a modified landfill method.

'Dozer To Compact

The plan, he said, calls for compacting the rubbish beneath the tracks of the "dozer" and then covering it with earth or fly ash.

He said the operation will be sanitary, since the earth or ash covering will prevent piles of rubbish from serving as a breeding place for flies and rats.

The plan is to be put into operation, he said, as soon as the area can be staked off and a filling plan worked out.

Will Last Longer

The gradual compaction of the city's rubbish, he said, will extend the life of the 30-acre tract and eventually restore the spot to usefulness for other purposes.

He said Nuzum suggested the plan could be placed into effect with the heavy bulldozer now used at the dump.

The plan has been under consideration for some time, he added, but could not be adopted with the lighter bulldozer used at the dump for many years.

Teacher Pay, Bonus Bills Are Killed

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS March 1 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature adjourned tonight after giving Gov. McKeldin authority to seize the strike-bound Baltimore Transit Co., and enacting a port authority bill of questioned constitutionality.

The House wound up its business of the 30-day session at 10:05 p.m. and the Senate 45 minutes later.

Lawmakers learned shortly before adjourning that they would be returning in one week for a special session to reenact the port bill to insure its validity.

They also will consider special bond issues for construction of schools and a civic center in Baltimore.

Gov. McKeldin called the special session after a conference with legislative leaders. It begins at 10 a.m. March 8.

In a fast-moving windup to the regular session, the Legislature:

Killed off in committees bills which would have given school teachers a $400 pay raise and paid war veterans a bonus.

Enacted a capital improvements program of $8,550,167 and approved adding $5,585,000 to the 13 million already authorized for new State office buildings in Baltimore and Annapolis.

Scholarships Approved

Recommended 152 scholarships up to a maximum of $500 apiece to students who will be able to pick their colleges to study teaching.

Enacted and sent to Gov. McKeldin a bill aimed at ending land speculation on highway routes proposed by the State Roads Commission.

Gov. McKeldin said he will sign the transit seizure bill into law tomorrow morning when it gets back from the printers. He indicated he doesn't plan to use it, however, if the union and company reach agreement by this weekend on ending the 31-day-old strike.

He said he will direct the attorney general to take immediate legal steps necessary to the State taking over operations of the strikebound firm. There were indications those involved steps might take until Monday.

The law will be invoked then, he said, unless the strike is settled "or the contending parties can convince me ... settlement is imminent."

Offers Not Enough

"The mere transmittal of offers and counter-offers will not suffice," McKeldin said in a statement after learning the House had concurred in technical amendments and enacted the seizure bill.

The strike and the port authority bill were major issues in the 1956 General Assembly and were crowded into a restricted routine normally concerned with the budget and other fiscal matters. The House invoked its unique powers of grand inquest for the first time in order to conduct an inquiry into the transit strike at a cost of $30,000. And the Legislature waited until the final two days of the session to start moving the seizure bill.

The port authority bill cleared its final snag today when the Senate backed down from an amendment by Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) which would have made the governor's appointees to the five-member commission subject to Senate confirmation.

A constitutional question remained over the measure since the attorney general had ruled before the session it was not proper legislation for a 30-day budget session. Provisions exempting certain areas from its powers also were questioned since this no longer left it effective statewide.

Thus it was decided to run it through again at a special session. The Senate voted tonight to limit that session to the port bill, bond issues and emergency matters in order not to be tied up by a flood of local bills.

Fast Windup

Both houses moved with dispatch in reaching their earliest adjournment in years. On three occasions they had to name conference committees to work out differences but all worked them out without delay.

A new method of land condemnation by the State Roads Commission aimed at blocking speculators was sent to Gov. McKeldin at the afternoon session of the House.

Value of land sought by the roads commission would be frozen for one year after it filed its intention to buy with a court. The owner would have six months to accept a price offered by the commission or appeal to the court which would name a board to set the amount. The board's decision could be appealed in court.

The new system was offered by Joseph D. Buscher, special attorney general of the roads commission. It was a result of alleged speculation in the path of proposed roads in Montgomery and Prince Georges counties.

Trial of Ben Du Pre, former right of way engineer for the commission, and six others on charges of conspiring to defraud the state is scheduled for March 5 in Montgomery County.

Six Area Navy Recruits In Honor Company

Six area men who enlisted in the United States Navy at the local recruiting office last month are members of a special company of airmen recruits sworn in at Baltimore. The unit, comprising 68 young men from the Baltimore recruiting district, is known as the "Seamaster Company." The men were chosen for their high ratings achieved in Naval Aviation qualification tests.

According to Chief L. W. Knott, recruiter in charge of the local station, the Cumberland office is pleased to have these six men in this particular honor company. After the enlistment ceremonies at the Glenn L. Martin Company Strawberry Point plant, the men were flown to San Diego, Calif., where they will undergo recruit training. After their training they will be assigned duties in Naval aviation.

The area men included:

Gary L. Appel, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Appel, 533 Pine Avenue, who enlisted as an airman apprentice. He attended Fort Hill High School and had prior service in a local National Guard unit.

Everett R. Wade, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. Wade, RFD 6, city, who enlisted as a high school airman recruit. He graduated from Allegany High in 1954 and has been attending the University of Maryland since. Under the terms of his enlistment he will be given a chance to finish his schooling while in service.

Zane W. Northcraft, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Northcraft of Dawson, enlisted as a high school airman. He graduated from Bruce High at Westernport in 1954 and has been attending Potomac State College. He had prior service in the National Guard.

Neil D. Thomas, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Thomas of Hyndman, Pa., enlisted as a high school recruit. He graduated from Hyndman High School last year.

Eston S. Nelson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver H. Nelson, Cabins, W. Va., enlisted as an airman recruit. He attended Petersburg High School.

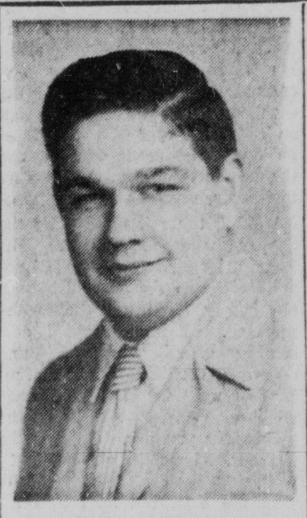

Tommie A. Feaster, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenvil Feaster, Maysville, W. Va., enlisted as an airman recruit. He graduated from Petersburg High School in 1955.

The company is named in honor of one of the Navy's modern seaplanes, and throughout training, will carry a special Seamaster flag presented to them by Captain W. J. Catlett Jr., commander of the Recruit Training Command at Bainbridge.

One-Way Traffic Set For Dexter, Pershing Street

Keegan Says Trial Period Opens Mar. 12

William V. Keegan, commissioner of police and fire, announced yesterday the Police Department plans to make Dexter Place and Pershing Street one way from George to Mechanic streets beginning Monday, March 12.

He said the plan, designed to relieve traffic congestion on Baltimore Street, will be given a fair trial.

Studies by Police Chief R. E. Flynn and the department's traffic bureau, he said, indicate the plan should ease the Baltimore Street traffic situation considerably. This will be the reverse of the present system.

People from the West Side, he added, can get to the Post Office by turning into South Liberty Street, or may use South Mechanic Street.

The opening of the new A & P market on Greene Street, he added, has helped to relieve some of the congestion on South Liberty Street.

Work is progressing, Commissioner Keegan said, on a new parking area on Greene Street.

Crews have cut down trees and are in the process of grading the area between the widened Cherry Alley and to within about 15 feet of the Girl Scout House.

He said the area will provide temporary parking for the present and will be blacktopped and further improved when flood control work in the area is completed.

Space will be provided for 40 cars, according to Chief Flynn.

County Issues Nine Permits

They represented virtually a 50 per cent increase from the $50,550 estimated value of construction authorized in February 1955.

Biggest project among the nine was the $35,000 Bowling Green Fire Hall. Six other permits were for dwellings, another for an addition to a house and one for a garage.

Two of the projects are being built in Election District 29, LaVale. The others are in Districts 20, Ellerslie; 30, Zihlman; 23, Bedford Road; 4, Oldtown Road; 7, Rawlings; 6 Bowling Green, and 3, Flintstone.

Creek Haul Road Is Being Repaired

The E. J. Albrecht Company, held up for more than three weeks by high water, yesterday was repairing a haul road in the bed of Wills Creek.

Rex. E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, said water is still flowing over the low-water bridge at the mouth of the creek, but that the road is being repaired so it will be ready next week if the creek drops.

The company was going full blast at the big job of shaping the creek bed when rains came early in February. The Chicago firm is the contractor for Wills Creek Channel Sections II and III of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project.

Physics Teachers' Institute Planned

Allegany County physics teachers are being reminded that the University of Rochester in cooperation with the National Science Foundation is sponsoring an Institute for High School Teachers of Physics from July 2 to August 8.

Purpose of the institute is to provide an integrated refresher program for experienced science teachers who may be expected to continue in the profession for several years. Fifty selected participants will receive $300 stipends plus an allotment of $75 for each dependent.

Teachers interested in more details about the institute should contact Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Local Surplus Food Registration Today

The Cumberland registration for surplus foods will be conducted in the office of the Red Cross, Post Office Building, today. Mrs. Lee Witherup, executive secretary, said the registration will cover the distribution for April.

Flood Control Bond Issue Is Received Here

Most Of $600,000 Fund Is Committed

The Flood Control account of the City of Cumberland will be boosted soon as officials deliver the $600,000 Flood Control Bonds of 1956.

The issue will be turned over in New York to the Harris Trust and Savings Company, Chicago, which submitted the low interest bid for 2.53201 per cent for the bonds January 31.

The bonds were delivered to the city yesterday and must be signed by Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk.

The flood account was depleted late last year, according to Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, after the expenditure of $1,500,000 of city and $1,000,000 of Allegany County funds.

Most of the money is already committed.

About half will be needed to build the new Baltimore Street Bridge and to advance to the government construction costs chargeable to the city on Section IV of the Wills Creek Channel, slated to be advertised this month by the Corps of Engineers.

About $90,000 will be needed to pay the balance of the city's share of Channel Sections II and III, which began late last year.

The Market Street Bridge may take up to $200,000 of the fund. The bridge was let under a $179,963 contract and engineering costs and contingencies may boost the total by about 10 per cent.

City Voting Rolls Rise To 12,770

Cumberland's voting registration rolls increased last month for the first time since the 1954 municipal elections.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, said 12,770 voters were qualified to vote on February 29, an increase of eight voters since January 31.

The increase, in sharp contrast to the successive drops in registrations due to deaths and the dropping of names of voters who failed to vote in five-year periods, resulted from the registration of 27 new voters during February.

Interest in the coming national elections, officials said, has resulted in the spurt in registration.

The 12,770 voters include 6,643 white males, 5,885 white females, 152 colored males and 90 colored females.

The present registration total is far less than the 15,070 voters who were listed on records in May, 1954, when books were closed in preparation for municipal elections.

The major losses were the 999 persons dropped by the five-year rule in November and another 993 in December.

Labor Temple Meeting Slated

The annual stockholders meeting of the Allegany Labor Temple Association, Inc., will be held Monday at 8:30 p. m. in the Labor Temple.

Charles E. Bramble, chairman, said business will include the annual election of officers and presentation of annual reports.

Attending will be representatives of all of craft unions which hold stock in the corporation set up to operate the Labor Temple.

The Labor Temple is located in the former Wolford Funeral Home property on South Liberty Street, which was purchased by the association in 1954.

Officials said they hope to have all debts on the temple paid off this year.

Health And Welfare Trustees To Meet

Trustees of the Construction Industry Insurance Fund of Western Maryland will meet Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

Plans will be continued for setting up a jointly operated health and welfare fund which will go into operation here this May.

C. M. Sanner is chairman of the Board of Trustees which includes representatives of general contractors and the building and Construction Trades Council.

The welfare fund is to be financed by industry payments of 7½ cents an hour, beginning May 1, provided in a two-year contract signed by the parties last year.

Among Art Show Winners

Miss Chloris Benson, 403 Washington Street, poses happily with her winning entry in the oils division of the Tri-State Art Exhibit sponsored at the Cumberland Free Public Library by the Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women. Miss Benson was one of four divisional winners in the show, which opened last night and runs through March 23.

State's Teacher Withdrawals Reported High

During the 1954-55 school year there was an 18.2 per cent teacher withdrawal in Maryland public schools, according to the first issue of a new State Department of Education publication entitled "Public Education in Maryland."

Although this state-wide picture of 2,160 teacher withdrawals during the past school is alarming, Allegany County had the second smallest percentage of withdrawals.

The best record was accomplished by Dorchester County on the Eastern Shore with 14 withdrawals, only 6.8 per cent of the teaching force. Allegany County lost 49, or 7.9 per cent. This county's two neighbors followed. Washington County had 69 withdrawals, 11.1 per cent of the teaching force, and Garrett County lost 12 per cent, or 21 of its teachers.

On the other extreme was St. Mary's County, which lost 58 teachers, 36.7 per cent of its force, in the past school year. Seven other counties had a turnover of at least 20 per cent. They were Cecil, 71, or 23.6 per cent; Carroll, 82, or 23.2 per cent; Hartford, 105, or 22.7 per cent; Worcester, 42, or 21.9 per cent; Anne Arundel, 212, or 21.3 per cent; Prince George's, 352, or 20.6 per cent, and Talbot, 31, or 20 per cent.

These figures include a number of teachers who were on leave for study, maternity or personal illness and a few lost through death and retirement. Inadequate salaries, however, were the chief cause, according to the Department of Education, Diversity of assignments, necessity for performing many clerical duties, poor living quarters or transportation facilities in certain areas and lack of other incentives are other significant reasons, the report said.

Nearly 2,000 Tags Are Sold

Nearly 2,000 sets of new Maryland automobile license tags have been sold at the office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close at the Court House since February 23 and this has stimulated interest in some other activities there.

For instance the registrars at the headquarters of the County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House basement report that a number of persons who have dropped by to get their license tags also registered so they can vote in the May 7 primary election.

Others have stopped to receive an explanation in the Court House corridor on the operation of voting machines. Others have acquired fishing licenses from the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

Yesterday's tag sales totaled 397, bringing the total to 7353.

Woman Dancer Falls, Sues For $25,000 Damages

Mrs. Etta M. Smith of 208 Glenn Street yesterday filed a $25,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against the operator and owner of the Circle Inn on McMullen Highway, charging that she severely injured her spine when she fell while dancing there.

Mrs. Smith blamed the fall, which she said occurred September 25, 1954, on a defect in the floor. Her husband, George W. Smith, sued for $10,000 for the medical expenditures, hospital bills and other expenditures resulting from her fall. Both suits were filed by Attorney Earl E. Manges.

Defendants are James L. Root, listed as the operator, and Harold E. Northrop, owner of the premises.

Seeks Beer Permit

Fred H. Shockey, RFD 2, Frostburg, has filed an application with the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Examiners for a beer license.

New Exhibitors Take Top Prizes In Art Show Here

New exhibitors carried off first honors in the two largest divisions of the Tri-State Art Exhibit, which opened last night at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

The exhibit, sponsored by Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, will run through March 23.

Miss Chloris Benson, 403 Washington Street, art teacher at Beall High School in Frostburg, won in the oils division with "The Cyclamen", an impressionistic still life done in fresh but subdued colors with a palette knife.

Wilbur M. (Web) Hull of Narrows Park took first place in the watercolor division with his "Carnival," a striking fine-line study. Hull also won third prize in the oils section with "Reflective Moods," depicting three phases of life.

Miss Benson, a graduate of the Art Institute of Chicago, has exhibited her winning entry in the National Arts Gallery in New York, and at the Strawberry Festival in Buckhannon, W. Va., where it won an honorable mention. It was, however, her first entry in the local show.

Jane A. Hausman's oil, "Nature at Rest," a pastoral sunset scene, took top honors in the special teenage division, and Richard Winer's plaster "Head of a Girl" won first prize in the sculpture exhibition.

Second prize in oils went to Marshall Morton's "Old Brick House," a winter scene, and Mrs. Donna Schramm's "Deep Creek Lake" won an honorable mention in that category.

Lola Burrall's "Portrait of a Tree" was second place winner in watercolors, and F. Schuler Briggs' "Autumn in Western Maryland" won third prize. Morton got an honorable mention for his watercolor study "Julia."

Second prize in the teen-age division went to Betty Hill for her oil "Reflection," and Jim Hill's oil "Camp Scene" won third. Honorable mention went to Lenore Long for a striking oil "The Winter Watch."

Mrs. Robert Matlick's black walnut "Mandarin Figure" took second honors in the sculpture division, and Carol Sweene's pottery "Samson and the Lion" won honorable mention.

Mrs. L. E. Erickson and Richard Winer won special awards for work not covered in the regular categories.

Miss Ruth A. Clauson, chairman of the fine arts section of the AAUW, is director of the show, assisted by Mrs. Howard L. Briggs, Mrs. Aden L. Everstine, Annie B. Gray and Dr. Leila B. Stevens, with Theodore P. Foote as consultant.

Judges were John L. Wellington and Lawrence W. Becker, and Mrs. Rudolph Steninberger headed the reception committee, assisted by Mrs. Robert Little Ebert, Mrs. Jack Heath, Mrs. Nora C. Troxell, and Mrs. William C. VanNewkirk.

Hughes Affirms Opposition To Pay Hike Bill

Del. George R. Hughes Jr., who came under fire of the Allegany County Teachers Association yesterday for opposing the teacher salary increase bill in the House of Delegates, said last night he had "very definite reasons" for doing so.

John D. Kelly, president of the county teachers' association, attacked Hughes 'position and at the same time praised delegates who had voted for the bill.

Hughes last night said he opposed an increase "at this time" for reasons he would like to make clear later on "so that the people may form their own conclusions whether I was right or not."

Kelly's statement follows:

"Last December an information meeting dealing with the five-year legislative program proposed by the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Maryland State Teachers Association was held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club," said Kelly.

"At that time the salary proposal was outlined by Milson Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Association," he continued. "The entire Allegany County delegation was invited to attend. However, the one who now calls the teacher pay raise bill 'irresponsible' did not attend. Teachers must conclude that such an attitude is unfriendly toward education."

Kelly was also critical of what he called the "yes-but" votes at Annapolis.

"The 'yes-but' attitude," said Kelly, "tells the children, parents and friends of education that legislators are 'for better schools but'."

The association president explained his "yes-but" comments pertained to those who voted for a pay increase but who failed to vote for a financing plan.

At the same time Kelly praised Delegates Lester B. Reed, George F. S. Jeffrey, Noel Speir Cook, Fred B. Driscoll, and Estel C. Kelley for voting in favor of the salary increase.

Mrs. J. C. Cobey, West Main Street, Frostburg, is a patient at Miners Hospital with a broken pelvis sustained in a fall Monday evening on the walk at her home. Mrs. Cobey was returning from a Red Cross campaign meeting at the time of the mishap.

At the hospital last night, she was reported "resting comfortably."

Six Companies Battle Blaze On Haystack

Brush Fire Burns Mountain's East Side

A grass fire on Haystack Mountain which was extinguished about 7 p. m. last night by West Side Fire Company broke out again about 9:30 and six companies answered the alarm to fight the spreading flames.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said the fire was located on the east side of the mountain behind Wills Creek Avenue, and was spreading toward the top of the hillside.

A team of 12 foresters were aiding West Side and Central, and Bowling Green, Cresaptown, Bowman's Addition and LaVale volunteer fire companies last night to bring the blaze under control.

The first report of the fire was called into fire headquarters here by a Ground Observer Corps volunteer from the GOC station in Constitution Park.

West Side answered the first alarm and extinguished the original small fire. LaVale, which also was called at the time, had difficulty locating the blaze and was unable to help during the first call.

Two hours later the flames again broke out and the call was answered by West Side and LaVale with Bowman's Addition, Central, Bowling Green and Cresaptown quickly answering later alarms as the fire gained headway.

Johnson said the fire was burning up the mountainside against a westerly wind and he didn't believe any residences in the area were in danger.

Firemen at central headquarters were greatly handicapped during the emergency by numerous calls for information on the fire being called on the emergency line, PA 4-4444. Firemen urged last night that information calls be transferred to PA 2-5250 to avoid conflicts and switchboard tieups.

Firemen brought the blaze under control before midnight.

Railroad Man's Death At Keyser Was Accidental

Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County at Keyser, W. Va., has ruled the death of a 50-year-old B&O Railroad yard foreman who was crushed Wednesday while at work as accidental.

The acting coroner said no inquest will be held and that an autopsy was not performed on Harry Calvin Kidwell of 139 Main Street, Westernport. Rankin said Kidwell died of shock and internal injuries received when he was crushed between two freight cars on the westbound hump in Keyser.

Kidwell died about 7 p. m. Wednesday in Potomac Valley Hospital where he was taken following the mishap at 1 o'clock. Railroad officials said the victim was riding on one car and was crushed when he apparently fell between it and another freight car.

Rankin stated last night authorities were unable to say if Kidwell was brushed off the car when it passed the second freight car or whether he fell just at that moment and was caught between them.

Employed by the B&O for 30 years, Kidwell had resided in the Tri-Towns for more than a quarter century. He was born in Davis, W. Va., a son of Mrs. Anna (Hook) Kidwell of Westernport and the late Hugh Kidwell.

The victim was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport.

Survivors include his widow, the former Anna Mary Casserly; two children, Mrs. Harry DeShong Jr., Mill Run, and Harry A. Kidwell, Westernport; three sisters, Mrs. Charles Beeman, Beryl; Mrs. Rose Burley, Newark, N. J., and Mrs. Leo Niland, Luke; three brothers, Leo Kidwell, Keyser Road; Francis Kidwell, Luke, and Eugene Kidwell, Northbrook, Ill., and six grandchildren.

The body is at the home of his son, 220 Greene Street, Westernport. A requiem mass will be celebrated Saturday at 10 a. m. in St. Peter's Church. Interment will be in the parish cemetery.

Landfill Plan Is Slated At City's Dump

Mayor Says System Will Be Sanitary

Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday the City of Cumberland plans to use a landfill method at the city dump to provide a more sanitary operation and extend the life of the facility by many years.

The program was announced yesterday afternoon after Mayor Eves, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city health officer, and C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, inspected the dump located southeast of the city off Limestone Road.

Mayor Eves said the new bulldozer purchased for use at the dump is adequate for the systematic filling of the dumping area through a modified landfill method.

'Dozer To Compact

The plan, he said, calls for compacting the rubbish beneath the tracks of the "dozer" and then covering it with earth or fly ash.

He said the operation will be sanitary, since the earth or ash covering will prevent piles of rubbish from serving as a breeding place for flies and rats.

The plan is to be put into operation, he said, as soon as the area can be staked off and a filling plan worked out.

Will Last Longer

The gradual compaction of the city's rubbish, he said, will extend the life of the 30-acre tract and eventually restore the spot to usefulness for other purposes.

He said Nuzum suggested the plan could be placed into effect with the heavy bulldozer now used at the dump.

The plan has been under consideration for some time, he added, but could not be adopted with the lighter bulldozer used at the dump for many years.

Teacher Pay, Bonus Bills Are Killed

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS March 1 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature adjourned tonight after giving Gov. McKeldin authority to seize the strike-bound Baltimore Transit Co., and enacting a port authority bill of questioned constitutionality.

The House wound up its business of the 30-day session at 10:05 p.m. and the Senate 45 minutes later.

Lawmakers learned shortly before adjourning that they would be returning in one week for a special session to reenact the port bill to insure its validity.

They also will consider special bond issues for construction of schools and a civic center in Baltimore.

Gov. McKeldin called the special session after a conference with legislative leaders. It begins at 10 a.m. March 8.

In a fast-moving windup to the regular session, the Legislature:

Killed off in committees bills which would have given school teachers a $400 pay raise and paid war veterans a bonus.

Enacted a capital improvements program of $8,550,167 and approved adding $5,585,000 to the 13 million already authorized for new State office buildings in Baltimore and Annapolis.

Scholarships Approved

Recommended 152 scholarships up to a maximum of $500 apiece to students who will be able to pick their colleges to study teaching.

Enacted and sent to Gov. McKeldin a bill aimed at ending land speculation on highway routes proposed by the State Roads Commission.

Gov. McKeldin said he will sign the transit seizure bill into law tomorrow morning when it gets back from the printers. He indicated he doesn't plan to use it, however, if the union and company reach agreement by this weekend on ending the 31-day-old strike.

He said he will direct the attorney general to take immediate legal steps necessary to the State taking over operations of the strikebound firm. There were indications those involved steps might take until Monday.

The law will be invoked then, he said, unless the strike is settled "or the contending parties can convince me ... settlement is imminent."

Offers Not Enough

"The mere transmittal of offers and counter-offers will not suffice," McKeldin said in a statement after learning the House had concurred in technical amendments and enacted the seizure bill.

The strike and the port authority bill were major issues in the 1956 General Assembly and were crowded into a restricted routine normally concerned with the budget and other fiscal matters. The House invoked its unique powers of grand inquest for the first time in order to conduct an inquiry into the transit strike at a cost of $30,000. And the Legislature waited until the final two days of the session to start moving the seizure bill.

The port authority bill cleared its final snag today when the Senate backed down from an amendment by Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) which would have made the governor's appointees to the five-member commission subject to Senate confirmation.

A constitutional question remained over the measure since the attorney general had ruled before the session it was not proper legislation for a 30-day budget session. Provisions exempting certain areas from its powers also were questioned since this no longer left it effective statewide.

Thus it was decided to run it through again at a special session. The Senate voted tonight to limit that session to the port bill, bond issues and emergency matters in order not to be tied up by a flood of local bills.

Fast Windup

Both houses moved with dispatch in reaching their earliest adjournment in years. On three occasions they had to name conference committees to work out differences but all worked them out without delay.

A new method of land condemnation by the State Roads Commission aimed at blocking speculators was sent to Gov. McKeldin at the afternoon session of the House.

Value of land sought by the roads commission would be frozen for one year after it filed its intention to buy with a court. The owner would have six months to accept a price offered by the commission or appeal to the court which would name a board to set the amount. The board's decision could be appealed in court.

The new system was offered by Joseph D. Buscher, special attorney general of the roads commission. It was a result of alleged speculation in the path of proposed roads in Montgomery and Prince Georges counties.

Trial of Ben Du Pre, former right of way engineer for the commission, and six others on charges of conspiring to defraud the state is scheduled for March 5 in Montgomery County.

Six Area Navy Recruits In Honor Company

Six area men who enlisted in the United States Navy at the local recruiting office last month are members of a special company of airmen recruits sworn in at Baltimore. The unit, comprising 68 young men from the Baltimore recruiting district, is known as the "Seamaster Company." The men were chosen for their high ratings achieved in Naval Aviation qualification tests.

According to Chief L. W. Knott, recruiter in charge of the local station, the Cumberland office is pleased to have these six men in this particular honor company. After the enlistment ceremonies at the Glenn L. Martin Company Strawberry Point plant, the men were flown to San Diego, Calif., where they will undergo recruit training. After their training they will be assigned duties in Naval aviation.

The area men included:

Gary L. Appel, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Appel, 533 Pine Avenue, who enlisted as an airman apprentice. He attended Fort Hill High School and had prior service in a local National Guard unit.

Everett R. Wade, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. Wade, RFD 6, city, who enlisted as a high school airman recruit. He graduated from Allegany High in 1954 and has been attending the University of Maryland since. Under the terms of his enlistment he will be given a chance to finish his schooling while in service.

Zane W. Northcraft, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Northcraft of Dawson, enlisted as a high school airman. He graduated from Bruce High at Westernport in 1954 and has been attending Potomac State College. He had prior service in the National Guard.

Neil D. Thomas, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Thomas of Hyndman, Pa., enlisted as a high school recruit. He graduated from Hyndman High School last year.

Eston S. Nelson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver H. Nelson, Cabins, W. Va., enlisted as an airman recruit. He attended Petersburg High School.

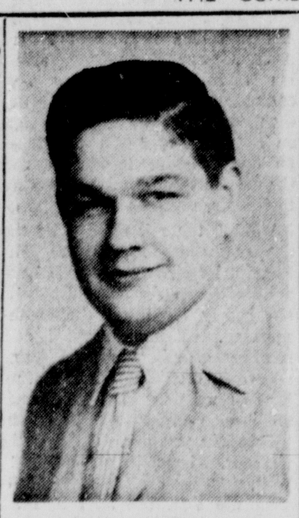

Tommie A. Feaster, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenvil Feaster, Maysville, W. Va., enlisted as an airman recruit. He graduated from Petersburg High School in 1955.

The company is named in honor of one of the Navy's modern seaplanes, and throughout training, will carry a special Seamaster flag presented to them by Captain W. J. Catlett Jr., commander of the Recruit Training Command at Bainbridge.

One-Way Traffic Set For Dexter, Pershing Street

Keegan Says Trial Period Opens Mar. 12

William V. Keegan, commissioner of police and fire, announced yesterday the Police Department plans to make Dexter Place and Pershing Street one way from George to Mechanic streets beginning Monday, March 12.

He said the plan, designed to relieve traffic congestion on Baltimore Street, will be given a fair trial.

Studies by Police Chief R. E. Flynn and the department's traffic bureau, he said, indicate the plan should ease the Baltimore Street traffic situation considerably. This will be the reverse of the present system.

People from the West Side, he added, can get to the Post Office by turning into South Liberty Street, or may use South Mechanic Street.

The opening of the new A & P market on Greene Street, he added, has helped to relieve some of the congestion on South Liberty Street.

Work is progressing, Commissioner Keegan said, on a new parking area on Greene Street.

Crews have cut down trees and are in the process of grading the area between the widened Cherry Alley and to within about 15 feet of the Girl Scout House.

He said the area will provide temporary parking for the present and will be blacktopped and further improved when flood control work in the area is completed.

Space will be provided for 40 cars, according to Chief Flynn.

County Issues Nine Permits

Nine Allegany County building permits for construction estimated to cost a total of $76,150 were obtained during February at the Court House.

They represented virtually a 50 per cent increase from the $50,550 estimated value of construction authorized in February 1955.

Biggest project among the nine was the $35,000 Bowling Green Fire Hall. Six other permits were for dwellings, another for an addition to a house and one for a garage.

Two of the projects are being built in Election District 29, LaVale. The others are in Districts 20, Ellerslie; 30, Zihlman; 23, Bedford Road; 4, Oldtown Road; 7, Rawlings; 6 Bowling Green, and 3, Flintstone.

Creek Haul Road Is Being Repaired

The E. J. Albrecht Company, held up for more than three weeks by high water, yesterday was repairing a haul road in the bed of Wills Creek.

Rex. E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, said water is still flowing over the low-water bridge at the mouth of the creek, but that the road is being repaired so it will be ready next week if the creek drops.

The company was going full blast at the big job of shaping the creek bed when rains came early in February. The Chicago firm is the contractor for Wills Creek Channel Sections II and III of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project.

Physics Teachers' Institute Planned

Allegany County physics teachers are being reminded that the University of Rochester in cooperation with the National Science Foundation is sponsoring an Institute for High School Teachers of Physics from July 2 to August 8.

Purpose of the institute is to provide an integrated refresher program for experienced science teachers who may be expected to continue in the profession for several years. Fifty selected participants will receive $300 stipends plus an allotment of $75 for each dependent.

Teachers interested in more details about the institute should contact Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Flood Control Bond Issue Is Received Here

Most Of $600,000 Fund Is Committed

The Flood Control account of the City of Cumberland will be boosted soon as officials deliver the $600,000 Flood Control Bonds of 1956.

The issue will be turned over in New York to the Harris Trust and Savings Company, Chicago, which submitted the low interest bid for 2.53201 per cent for the bonds January 31.

The bonds were delivered to the city yesterday and must be signed by Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk.

The flood account was depleted late last year, according to Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, after the expenditure of $1,500,000 of city and $1,000,000 of Allegany County funds.

Most of the money is already committed.

About half will be needed to build the new Baltimore Street Bridge and to advance to the government construction costs chargeable to the city on Section IV of the Wills Creek Channel, slated to be advertised this month by the Corps of Engineers.

About $90,000 will be needed to pay the balance of the city's share of Channel Sections II and III, which began late last year.

The Market Street Bridge may take up to $200,000 of the fund. The bridge was let under a $179,963 contract and engineering costs and contingencies may boost the total by about 10 per cent.

City Voting Rolls Rise To 12,770

Cumberland's voting registration rolls increased last month for the first time since the 1954 municipal elections.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, said 12,770 voters were qualified to vote on February 29, an increase of eight voters since January 31.

The increase, in sharp contrast to the successive drops in registrations due to deaths and the dropping of names of voters who failed to vote in five-year periods, resulted from the registration of 27 new voters during February.

Interest in the coming national elections, officials said, has resulted in the spurt in registration.

The 27 new voters include 12 white males, 10 white females, one colored male and four colored females.

The names of 19 known dead were stricken off the books last month.

Fifteen voters made changes in their voting records during the month.

The 12,770 voters include 6,643 white males, 5,885 white females, 152 colored males and 90 colored females.

The present registration total is far less than the 15,070 voters who were listed on records in May, 1954, when books were closed in preparation for municipal elections.

The major losses were the 999 persons dropped by the five-year rule in November and another 993 in December.

State's Teacher Withdrawals Reported High

During the 1954-55 school year there was an 18.2 per cent teacher withdrawal in Maryland public schools, according to the first issue of a new State Department of Education publication entitled "Public Education in Maryland."

Although this state-wide picture of 2,160 teacher withdrawals during the past school is alarming, Allegany County had the second smallest percentage of withdrawals.

The best record was accomplished by Dorchester County on the Eastern Shore with 14 withdrawals, only 6.8 per cent of the teaching force. Allegany County lost 49, or 7.9 per cent. This county's two neighbors followed. Washington County had 69 withdrawals, 11.1 per cent of the teaching force, and Garrett County lost 12 per cent, or 21 of its teachers.

On the other extreme was St. Mary's County, which lost 58 teachers, 36.7 per cent of its force, in the past school year. Seven other counties had a turnover of at least 20 per cent. They were Cecil, 71, or 23.6 per cent; Carroll, 82, or 23.2 per cent; Hartford, 105, or 22.7 per cent; Worcester, 42, or 21.9 per cent; Anne Arundel, 212, or 21.3 per cent; Prince George's, 352, or 20.6 per cent, and Talbot, 31, or 20 per cent.

These figures include a number of teachers who were on leave for study, maternity or personal illness and a few lost through death and retirement. Inadequate salaries, however, were the chief cause, according to the Department of Education. Diversity of assignments, necessity for performing many clerical duties, poor living quarters or transportation facilities in certain areas and lack of other incentives are other significant reasons, the report said.

Nearly 2,000 Tags Are Sold

Nearly 2,000 sets of new Maryland automobile license tags have been sold at the office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close at the Court House since February 23 and this has stimulated interest in some other activities there.

For instance the registrars at the headquarters of the County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House basement report that a number of persons who have dropped by to get their license tags also registered so they can vote in the May 7 primary election.

Others have stopped to receive an explanation in the Court House corridor on the operation of voting machines. Others have acquired fishing licenses from the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

Yesterday's tag sales totaled 397, bringing the total to 7053.

Woman Dancer Falls, Sues For $25,000 Damages

Mrs. Etta M. Smith of 208 Glenn Street yesterday filed a $25,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against the operator and owner of the Circle Inn on McMullen Highway, charging that she severely injured her spine when she fell while dancing there.

Mrs. Smith blamed the fall, which she said occurred September 25, 1954, on a defect in the floor. Her husband, George W. Smith, sued for $10,000 for the medical expenditures, hospital bills and other expenditures resulting from her fall. Both suits were filed by Attorney Earl E. Manges.

Defendants are James L. Root, listed as the operator, and Harold E. Northrop, owner of the premises.

New Exhibitors Take Top Prizes In Art Show Here

New exhibitors carried off first honors in the two largest divisions of the Tri-State Art Exhibit, which opened last night at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

The exhibit, sponsored by Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, will run through March 23.

Wilbur M. (Web) Hull of Narrows Park took first place in the watercolor division with his "Carnival," a striking fine-line study. Hull also won third prize in the oils section with "Reflective Moods," depicting three phases of life.

Miss Benson, a graduate of the Art Institute of Chicago, has exhibited her winning entry in the National Arts Gallery in New York, and at the Strawberry Festival in Buckhannon, W. Va., where it won an honorable mention. It was, however, her first entry in the local show.

Hull, better known in athletic circles for his football playing at Allegany High School in the early 1940s, also was showing here for the first time.

Jane A. Hausman's oil, "Nature at Rest," a pastoral sunset scene, took top honors in the special teenage division, and Richard Winer's plaster "Head of a Girl" won first prize in the sculpture exhibition.

Second prize in oils went to Marshall Morton's "Old Brick House," a winter scene, and Mrs. Donna Schramm's "Deep Creek Lake" won an honorable mention in that category.

Hughes Affirms Opposition To Pay Hike Bill

Del. George R. Hughes Jr., who came under fire of the Allegany County Teachers Asociation yesterday for opposing the teacher salary increase bill in the House of Delegates, said last night he had "very definite reasons" for doing so.

Hughes, minority floor leader in the House, had termed the bill — calling for a $400 increase in the annual salaries of Maryland teachers — an "irresponsible" act.

John D. Kelly, president of the county teachers' association, attacked Hughes 'position and at the same time praised delegates who had voted for the bill.

Hughes last night said he opposed an increase "at this time" for reasons he would like to make clear later on "so that the people may form their own conclusions whether I was right or not."

Kelly's statement follows:

"Last December an information meeting dealing with the five-year legislative program proposed by the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Maryland State Teachers Association was held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club," said Kelly.

"At that time the salary proposal was outlined by Milson Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Association," he continued. "The entire Allegany County delegation was invited to attend. However, the one who now calls the teacher pay raise bill 'irresponsible' did not attend. Teachers must conclude that such an attitude is unfriendly toward education."

Kelly was also critical of what he called the "yes-but" votes at Annapolis.

"The 'yes-but' attitude," said Kelly, "tells the children, parents and friends of education that legislators are 'for better schools but'."

The association president explained his "yes-but" comments pertained to those who voted for a pay increase but who failed to vote for a financing plan.

At the same time Kelly praised Delegates Lester B. Reed, George F. S. Jeffrey, Noel Speir Cook, Fred B. Driscoll, and Estel C. Kelley for voting in favor of the salary increase.

Six Companies Battle Blaze On Haystack

Brush Fire Burns Mountain's East Side

A grass fire on Haystack Mountain which was extinguished about 7 p. m. last night by West Side Fire Company broke out again about 9:30 and six companies answered the alarm to fight the spreading flames.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said the fire was located on the east side of the mountain behind Wills Creek Avenue, and was spreading toward the top of the hillside.

A team of 12 foresters were aiding West Side and Central, and Bowling Green, Cresaptown, Bowman's Addition and LaVale volunteer fire companies last night to bring the blaze under control.

The first report of the fire was called into fire headquarters here by a Ground Observer Corps volunteer from the GOC station in Constitution Park.

West Side answered the first alarm and extinguished the original small fire. LaVale, which also was called at the time, had difficulty locating the blaze and was unable to help during the first call.

Two hours later the flames again broke out and the call was answered by West Side and LaVale with Bowman's Addition, Central, Bowling Green and Cresaptown quickly answering later alarms as the fire gained headway.

Johnson said the fire was burning up the mountainside against a westerly wind and he didn't believe any residences in the area were in danger.

The site, located within the city limits, is not too thickly covered with brush and trees and no homes are in the immediate vicinity.

Firemen at central headquarters were greatly handicapped during the emergency by numerous calls for information on the fire being called on the emergency line, PA 4-4444. Firemen urged last night that information calls be transferred to PA 2-5250 to avoid conflicts and switchboard tieups.

Firemen brought the blaze under control before midnight.

Railroad Man's Death At Keyser Was Accidental

Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County at Keyser, W. Va., has ruled the death of a 50-year-old B&O Railroad yard foreman who was crushed Wednesday while at work as accidental.

The acting coroner said no inquest will be held and that an autopsy was not performed on Harry Calvin Kidwell of 139 Main Street, Westernport. Rankin said Kidwell died of shock and internal injuries received when he was crushed between two freight cars on the westbound hump in Keyser.

Kidwell died about 7 p. m. Wednesday in Potomac Valley Hospital where he was taken following the mishap at 1 o'clock. Railroad officials said the victim was riding on one car and was crushed when he apparently fell between it and another freight car.

Rankin stated last night authorities were unable to say if Kidwell was brushed off the car when it passed the second freight car or whether he fell just at that moment and was caught between them.

Employed by the B&O for 30 years, Kidwell had resided in the Tri-Towns for more than a quarter century. He was born in Davis, W. Va., a son of Mrs. Anna (Hook) Kidwell of Westernport and the late Hugh Kidwell.

The victim was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport.

Survivors include his widow, the former Anna Mary Casserly; two children, Mrs. Harry DeShong Jr., Mill Run, and Harry A. Kidwell, Westernport; three sisters, Mrs. Charles Beeman, Beryl; Mrs. Rose Burley, Newark, N. J., and Mrs. Leo Niland, Luke; three brothers, Leo Kidwell, Keyser Road; Francis Kidwell, Luke, and Eugene Kidwell, Northbrook, Ill., and six grandchildren.

The body is at the home of his son, 220 Greene Street, Westernport. A requiem mass will be celebrated Saturday at 10 a. m. in St. Peter's Church. Interment will be in the parish cemetery.
